PRISONER ESCAPES FOR SECOND TIME

ALL NATIONS NOW IN AGREEMENT ON A DEBT HOLIDAY

President Hoover Announces Acceptance by U. S. of Formula Offered by French After Eleven Days of Negotiations—United Effort Assured for General Economic Relief — Both Washington and Paris Yield Points.

(By the Associated Press)

Negotiations already have started in Paris for a conference of experts to work out the technical details of applying President Hoover's moratorium plan, and the British government has renewed its invitation for a conference of the world powers chiefly concerned.

In all the capitals of Europe and at Washington the agreement between France and the United States was received with great satisfaction. London is of the opinion that much remains to be done, and Rome has announced that it is ready to participate in any conferences regarding operation of the plan.

The German government in a proclamation has promised that the money released by the moratorium will be used only to assist the country's economic recovery, warning the German people that they must economize now as never before.

At Washington, Mr. Hoover announced the agreement with obvious pleasure and the state department has gone to work on the mass of detail which probably will occupy it for weeks.

Announced By Hoover.

WASHINGTON, July 7 —(AP)— The French and American governments are in agreement on the principle of President Hoover's plan for a year's holiday on inter-governmental debts.

The accord was announced late yesterday by the chief executive at the white house. It brings every important creditor nation into agreement, thus uniting the former allies of the World war in a fight for general economic relief by a postponement o fdebts growing out of the four year conflict.

The agreement was reached after eleven days of negotiations between the French government and Ambassador Edge and Secretary Mellon in Paris.

It constituted the acceptance by the United States of a formula offered by the French. It reconciled the viewpoints of the two governments between the American position put forward in the president's plan and the French counter proposals.

In the negotiations for a settlement many extraneous points, even some considered by the United

N. Y. Stocks React After Early Jump

Initial Gains Replaced in Many Cases by $2 To $6 Losses.

NEW YORK, July 7—(AP)—A heavy volume of profit taking and short seling broke the stock market sharply today, bringing net losses of $2 to nearly $10 a share. The most active trading came in the last hour, although the market was headed downward throughout the busy session after a rise of $1 to $3 at the opening.

Professional traders apparently thought that the market's strong rise beginning June 20, when President Hoover's debt moratorium plan became public, had discounted news of the actual settlement at Paris, and proceeded to take profits after the first half hour. Bears became active on the downside, basing their activity, in part, on rumors that

Officers Installed By Rotary Club

Dr. Glen T. Warren was installed as president of the Rotary club at the Lincoln hotel Tuesday noon. Past President Frank D. Tomson, who was in charge of the program, also installed other new offices for the 1931-32 year. These include: Lester M. Buckley, secretary; Howard Hadley, treasurer; A. C. Bintz, sergeant-at-arms, and T. A. Blair, Lloyd Burt, Theodore C. Diers, W. H. Hinman and Gus Prestegaard, directors.

Lincoln's Business and Educational Leaders Hail Moratorium as World Boon

Representative Local Men Unanimous in Predicting Benefit to United States and Eventually to Midwest.

An indication in far-away Paris that France would come into the fold and accept President Hoover's idea of suspending war debts for a year Tuesday set tongues wagging, heads nodding, and brains pondering not only in the nation's capital but throughout the west and in Lincoln.

"The most constructive act of a decade," "a wonderful thing for the world," "an unselfish act that will help us along with the rest," "impossible to do anything else, but certainly a boon to all people," "a mental confidence restorer," "a step toward world readjustment of the economic situation," "a beginning of better international understanding" —these were some of the comments Lincoln men made about the Hoover moratorium plan Tuesday.

Agree on Benefits.

Though in varied fields of work, all agree that the debt holiday is a forward step, a breathing spell, a chance to regain lost prosperity the world over. But they see the ultimate result of the plan differently and picture its effects and repercussions in this country and the middle west from various points of view.

Expressing their views were: W. E. Barkley, president of the Lincoln Joint Stock Land bank; Fred Morrow Fling, professor of European history at the University of Nebraska; Col. John G. Maher, president of the Old Line Insurance Co.; J. E. Miller, president of Miller & Paine Co.; W. K. Pfeiler, German-born instructor in Germanics at the university; T. B. Strain, vice president of the Continental National bank; George Holmes, president of the First National bank; G. O. Virtue, chairman of the department of economics at the university; and Morris Weil, president of the National Bank of Commerce.

Dr. Fling, Col. Maher and Mr. Weil have traveled in Europe during the past year and base their opinions of the moratorium to some extent on observations made during their tours.

Views, in brief, expressed by the group of Lincoln men follow:

W. E. BARKLEY—While I do not believe there will be any direct benefits to the middle west from the moratorium, there will be indirect repercussions within a short time that should b felt here.

Of course I am in favor of wiping out all war debts. When a bankrupt condition exists, I believe a nation should have a right to take bankruptcy. By starting all over again with books clear, I think we

RUSSIAN WOMEN WORK IN FIELDS AND FACTORIES

HOUSEHOLD DUTIES CALLED DRUDGERY

Feminine Car Conductor Tells of Enjoying Her Task.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Women are playing an important role in the Russian five-year plan. Stanley P. Richardson, Associated Press correspondent at Moscow, tells what the soviet republic is doing to "relieve women of domestic drudgery" in the following story, one of a series on present day conditions in the U. S. S. R.

BY STANLEY P. RICHARDSON.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

MOSCOW, July 7—(AP)—Woman's role is becoming increasingly important in Soviet Russia's campaign for industrialization and agricultural development.

Due to the shortage of labor, which grows more acute as each additional stride is made toward fulfillment of the five-year plan, their services are being required more and more extensively not only in various professions and clerical capacities but as actual manual laborers.

In factories, in fields, in all forms of industrial and agricultural work, they labor side by side with the men, receiving the same pay and the same privileges for the same work.

Encourage Women Working.

To encourage wider induction of women into the ranks of workers, the government is making special efforts to provide facilities for relieving them of all domestic drudgery. Extensive measures have been taken for the care of children in day nurseries and kindergartens. Communal dining rooms are made available both to them and to the husband. Communal laundries also are provided.

When approcahing motherhood, factory and agricultural workers are allowed four months cessation from work with full pay; office workers are given three months.

TAX VALUATIONS SHOW DECLINE

Personal Property For 46 Counties Drops $23,522,352.

Intangibles Also Lower; Levy Expected to Stay At Same Rate.

Forty-six counties which have made their assessment reports to State Tax Commissioner Smith show a total decrease of $23,522,352 in personal property valuation this year, compared with 1930, and a small loss of $394,170 in gross worth of real estate.

Intangible property also exhibits a shrinkage in these counties. On class A intangibles (money and bills of exchange) the reduction is $10,240,455; but class B (stocks, bonds, notes, judgments, etc.) is holding up better, the decrease being only $1,906,945 on these items.

Herewith are the comparative totals for the 46 counties heard from:

Personal	$163,812,529	$140,290,177
Real Estate	876,917,522	876,523,362
Intangibles—
Class A	37,602,217	27,361,762
Class B	28,652,681	26,745,736

Less Than Half State Total.

The foregoing figures represent less than half of all assessable property in Nebraska, since 47 counties are not included in them, and among the missing ones are Lancaster, Douglas, and others having large valuations.

Since the personal property and real estate totals in the 46 reported counties are almost $24,000,000 under last year, it is estimated that the whole state will show a loss of $50,000,000 or more on these kinds of property when all the returns are in.

On the same basis, class A intangibles are expected to decrease $22,000,000 in total and class B about $5,000,000. The percentage reduction on B will be greater in Lancaster and Douglas than in most other counties.

Railroad assessments and franchise values of utility corporations, which are to be fixed by the state board of equalization, will probably be decreased $50,000,000 from what they were in 1930, because of reduced earnings and lower market values of their stocks and bonds.

As nearly as can be estimated at this time, the grand assessment roll of the state will be diminished by about $100,000,000 from last year, leaving it at approximately $3,000,000,000. Class A intangibles will total in the neighborhood of $90,000,000, and class B intangibles about $125,000,000.

Can't Cut General Tax Rate.

Because of the lowered property valuations it will not be possible to reduce the regular state tax levy

Once Made Fortune Out Of Platte River Land Investment.

NEW YORK, July 7—(AP)—John Brisben Walker, nationally known publisher, engineer and crusader for world peace and other causes, died today at his home in Brooklyn. He was 84.

He was formerly publisher and editor of the Cosmopolitan magazine and owner of the Stanley patents for steam automobiles, a business which he organized from coast to coast.

Returning to the United States in 1870, he engaged in iron manufacturing in the Kanawha valley, West Virginia. When the panic of 1873 came he believed himself worth $500,000, but when it was ended he was penniless.

Then he went into journalism, getting his start by writing a series of articles on minerals and manufactures for the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette. That led him to the managing editorship of the Pittsburgh Telegraph and the editor's chair of the Washington Daily Chronicle.

After three years of journalism, he went into farming and introduced alfalfa, foundation of many fortunes, on a 1,600-acre farm he

FLAMES LEAVING BLACK WASTES IN CALIFORNIA

Blazes Sweep Mountains In Dozen Parts of Coast State.

WEARY FIGHTERS SEEK CHECK FIRES

Towns, Houses, Cattle, Timber, Grain Are Consumed.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7—(AP)—Flames left blackened wastes in more than a dozen different parts of California today as hundreds of weary fire fighters continued efforts to subdue the blazes in heat-stricken hills and plains.

Mountain towns, ranch houses, herds of cattle, stands of timber, ripened grain and valuable pasture fell before the onslaught of fire yesterday and early today.

A force of 700 men used every possible fire fighting trick in an attempt to control a 25,000 acre blaze which swept up three sides of Mount Diablo, Contra Costa county. Early today damage was estimated by fire officials at $100,000. Several stands of timber and 500 head of cattle were destroyed.

Summer Homes Threatened.

The fighters were attempting to keep the blaze, which at times burned on a fourteen mile front, from Marsh Creek canyon, on the west slope of the mountain, where dozens of summer homes and ranches are located.

Four dwellings and the school house at Birchville, Nevada county, were burned to the ground last night.

State Forester M. B. Pratt announced that danger had been lessened by higher humidity and officials looked for the situation to be brought under control today.

Pratt has launched a campaign against incendiaries. C. G. Strickland, a deputy, arrested one person, whose name he refused to make public on a charge of setting eight fires in Tehama county.

COUNCIL PLANS TO MAKE LEVY

Total Appropriations To Be Below Maximum Permitted.

Amount To Be Raised By Taxation Will Be About Same.

With members of the city council busy writing their budget estimates for 1931-32, it was indicated Tuesday morning that the amount of money to be raised by taxation for general operating expenses will not be increased materially, if any, over the amount that was appropriated a year ago. In any event, for the second year the council will refuse to levy up to the full amount allowed under the provisions of the charter amendment approved by the people last fall.

A year ago had they desired the commissioners could have levied $800,000. Instead the aggregate was $759,700 of which but 90 per cent, or $683,640 was available for expenditure. For the coming year it will be possible to levy $815,000, the charter providing that beginning September 1, $15,000 may be added to the appropriation annually for general expenses, unless in doing so the aggregate exceeds 7¼ mills on the total assessed valuation of the city as found by the county assessor.

Total To Be Larger.

The total appropriations will be considerably larger than ever before as a result of the erection of new buildings on Market Square, the street department garage and gasoline station at Nineteenth and Q streets, and the Ashland water project.

Not all of the money that will be spent for these improvements will come from taxation. The new gasoline station will be paid for from receipts of the station. Water extension costs will come from the receipts of the water department, paid over a period of years, the actual improvement being completed through the sale of bonds.

The street department garage will be erected from taxation money, as will the new fire, police and health building. Because of the increase in the total assessed valuation of the city, however, the mill levy for these purposes will not be as heavy as it was a year ago when it was .206 mills.

Another item that will go into the

WANT ROADS TO ABSORB CHARGE

Gravel Men Object to Change in Present Status.

Conference is Held Over Freight Rate Proposals.

Expected hearing before the state railway commission Tuesday morning on its order to railroads to show cause why a general gravel rate reduction should not be effected failed to materialize when the commission permitted representatives of the railroads and gravel producers to go into conference to try to iron out their differences.

When interested parties returned in the afternoon, arrangements were made to go ahead with the hearing, which was started before Commissioners Randal and Miller shortly after 2 o'clock. C. A. Magaw, general Union Pacific counsel, made the opening statement for the railroads.

After more than two hours of threshing over problems involved in the gravel ate structure, the various affected parties were still at odds when they adjourned shortly before 12:30 o'clock until 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Railroad representatives, however, had learned by that time that the chief objection from gravel producers to the emergency rates now in effect lay in the carriers' plan to eliminate the absorption of switching charges.

Want Rates Equal.

At previous hearings, other producers had asked only that equal rates be established at all pits within territory where reduced rates were established. They had made this request at the time the railroads first ntroduced requests

Kingsley, however, is still being held at Grand Island, Sheriff Endres said, for investigation. If he is not found to be involved in any trouble in this state, federal authorities will be asked to return him to McNeil's island, Washington federal prison.

Sheriff Endres says that Kingsley has admitted to Otto Dudschus, the deputy state sheriff, that he escaped from the Washington federal prison about 18 months ago.

MARTIN NORTON IS SOUGHT FOLLOWING YORK JAIL BREAK

Man Who Made Mysterious Getaway at Seward Early in Spring Again Free—Attorney General Investigating Gaining of First Release—Suspect Wanted in Several Towns For Fake Magazine Solicitation.

That Martin Norton, alias George Besnah, who escaped from the county jail at Seward early in the spring in a mysterious way and who was later returned to Nebraska after being captured in Webster, S. D., escaped last week from the county jail at York was admitted Tuesday morning by Attorney General Sorensen.

Little information could be secured Tuesday as to the manner of Norton's escape which had been closely concealed from public notice. Sheriff Carter of York refused absolutely to discuss the case, saying that any comments on it or statements about it would have to come from the attorney general.

It is understood, however, that the prisoner picked a lock at the jail and escaped during the night. It is also understood that he left a note saying the jail was too hot and that he hadn't been well fed so he was leaving.

In refusing to discuss the case, Sheriff Carter admitted the prisoner had escaped. He refused, however, even to go so far as to tell what night the man got away.

Norton, when he escaped from the Seward jail was serving out a sentence for improper magazine solicitation. Authorities said he was wanted on similar charges at Beatrice, Holdrege and York.

Conflicting stories were given out at the time of his Seward escape as to the manner of escape. The affair resulted in County Attorney Stanley Matzke of Seward calling on the attorney general for assistance in conducting an investigation. At that time, Clifford Rein, assistant attorney general, went to Seward to investigate the affair, but no

As Rogers Sees It

BEVERLY HILLS, July 7 — I got my first thanks this morning for ever saying a nice thing about some man. I do lots of times brag on our prominent men, but they always take it as a matter of fact, but the old Oklahoma oil man that backed the flight come through. "Many thanks for your kind notice, and the best I can do in return is to take Past and Gatty to visit Claremore, Okla. Advise if you want us." Now here is a chance for these two boys to really make good. If Gatty can navigate enough to find a field there, I'll say he is a Columbus, and if Post can land on the field, I'll say he is a magician. I have always had to use a parachute.

CERMAK ROUNDS OUT HIS CABINET WITH 'GREETER'

Chicago Still Sizing Up New Mayor After 3 Months in Office.

CHICAGO, July 7—(AP)—Now that Mayor Anton Cermak has rounded out his cabinet with an official "Greeter," Chicagoans may answer the standard query of outsiders: "How's your new mayor getting along?"

Cermak, the democrat, has been at it three months.

His first act was to discharge 3,000 city hall employes. Economy was to be the watchword for a city plagued with uncollected taxes and unpaid bills.

His latest act was to appoint a municipal glad-hander of the Grover Whalen type. What his predecessor, former Mayor William Hale Thompson, supplied in showmanship, Cermak will supply in George D. Gaw, riding the boulevards with distinguished vistors in his pure white automobile escorted by two white motorcycles.

Study In Red Ink.

Thus Cermak, passing the baton of ceremony to a proxy, borrows time to study the civic budget—a study in red ink—and set his household in order.

His efficiency expert offers figures purporting to show an 8.7 per cent reduction of monthly expenditures from March to May, $6,000,000 a year, if carried through.

"That is only a superficial job—only a trimming of the obviously unnecessary jobs," said Mayor Cermak.

His economy campaign, embracing a proposal of vacations without pay for city hall employes, drew one of the few utterances of William Hale Thompson since his defeat in April for a fourth term.

Cermak also caused consternation among city hall department heads by dismissing thousands, then building up the city staff through a central employment bureau under his own direction.

Met School Rebuff.

He met rebuff from the board of education when he solicited enough resignations to insure control, saying "the people asked for a new deal all around." The resignations failed to flow in, and he subsequently "washed his hands" of the school board and said he could not be responible for its conduct.

He traveled to Springfield with a hamper full of bills he wanted enacted immediately for Chicago's relief from a two-year famine of tax-collections, the result of reassessment delay, but the legislature took no action.

Mayor Cermak is at his desk five or six days a week, and sifts the phalanx of job hunters and favor seekers through an elaborate system of waiting rooms and secretaries.

Collision in N. Y. Harbor Damages Italian Freighter

Government Insists Veteran is Dead; He Wants a Bonus Loan

LOS ANGELES, July 7—(AP)—The United States government has been insisting since 1918 that William R. Eba of Los Angeles was dead. Today he had retained a lawyer to prove otherwise.

In August, 1918, Eba said, the government informed his mother, Mrs. Samuel Steele, of Ashland, Ky., he had been killed in action at Chateau Thierry. Later word was sent her that he had perished in the St. Mihiel drive.

A short time ago Eba applied for a war-time bonus loan. Back came a letter, he said, notifying him the veteran in question died at San Antonio, Tex., March 11, 1930.

Eba sought the attorney yesterday for an attempt to refute the government records.

Threatened!

Patrick E. Crowley (above), president of the New York Central railroad, has been terrorized for the last few weeks by a succession of mysterious letters demanding $25,000 and threatening his life and the kidnaping of his two daughters. The railroad executive and his family are being closely guarded while authorities seek the author of the threats.

Vanderbilt Has Publicity Mania Says Peter Arno

Florence Rice Smith Denies Will Marry Cartoonist.

NEW YORK, July 7—(AP)—Peter Arno, cartoonist, and Mrs. Florence Rice Smith, were back home today with respective Reno divorces and avowals they would not marry each other.

Mrs. Smith, former wife of Sydney A. Smith, New York broker, and daughter of Grantland Rice, the sports writer, said:

"I never want to see a wedding ring again."

Mr. Arno, whose marriage to Lois Long, writer, was also dissolved by the courts, told his version of the fiasco with Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr.

"Vanderbilt has a mania for publicity," Mr. Arno said. "He is now writing a play about Reno. He is a completely frustrated human being. His only satisfaction is when his name is plastered on front pages."

Denies Kissing Episodes.

Arno denied any kissing episodes with Mrs. Vanderbilt, and said that he took Vanderbilt's threats lightly. There was no gun play.

"He said he was going to train with Jack Dempsey and fight me. I said: 'All right; I'll train with Jackie Coogan.'"

Mrs. Smith said she wanted company on the long train ride and was glad Mr. Arno was along. "We are good friends," she added.

Germans Are Elated Over Debt Holiday

Public Feels Help Has Arrived in "Nick Of Time."

BERLIN, July 7—(AP)—Signing of the Franco-American agreement in Paris whereby Germany's reparations payments will be deferred for one year was greeted with gratitude today by officials and commoners throughout the reich.

When informed that the Hoover moratorium plan had been placed in operation, Foreign Minister Julius Curtius expressed his elation.

"It was the very highest time not only for us but for all concerned," he said. "What Andrew Mellon did is simply grandiose. I am very happy that this test of nerves is over."

Efforts to reach Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, whose emergency decrees revealed Germany's precarious state and led President Hoover to act, was fruitless. He had left his office and could not be located in his apartments.

Envoy Sackett Jubilant.

American Ambassador Frederick M. Sackett, who played an important part in the negotiations from the Berlin end, as equally jubilant.

"It was rather a busy time for all of us and we are glad to return to normal work," he said. "The whole affair is a fine demonstration of international co-operative effort."

The public generally seemed to feel that help had arrived in the nick of time and that the reparations holiday was a "gift from heaven." Suffering from an attack of "nerves" in the fear the negotiations would be unsuccessful, the people were able to relax for the first time in two weeks with the hope that the nation would move forward to certain if slow economic recovery.

Berlin newspapers mixed expressions of appreciation toward the American representatives with statements of confidence in the future.

ROBBERS AT LEWISTON.

(Special to The Star.)

BEATRICE, Neb., July 7—The J. J. White merchandise store at Lewiston was entered by thieves Sunday night. Some jewelry and other property was taken. Bloodhounds from Beatrice were used by Sheriff Avery of Pawnee City in an attempt to apprehend the robbers.

German Babe Named Hoover in Gratitude For Debt Suspension

BERLIN, July 7—(AP)—President Hoover defeated Secretary of the Treasury Mellon today in obtaining the first personal recognition for the adoption of the reparations holidar.

The name Hoover was given to a baby born in Zehlendorf, a suburb of Berlin, in gratitude for America's beneficent action toward Germany. The parents said the child would have been named Mellona if it had been a girl.

DEBT PLAN CALLED ANOTHER EXAMPLE 'DUMB DIPLOMACY'

OGDEN, Utah., July 7—(AP)—Senator James Couzens, republican, Michigan, asserts the Hoover moratorium plan is "another example of America's dumb diplomacy."

The Michigan senator stopped here for a few hours last night en route in his private car to Yellowstone national park.

Predicting President Hoover "undoubtedly will be renominated by the republican party," Couzens added, "But I doubt if this moratorium action will help him. In fact, considering the delays that have developed, I believe it will react against him."

He said the president should have consulted other interested nations before proposing the war debt holiday, and suggested the proposal should have originated from Germany which bears the brunt of debt payments.

BURNED BY CRACKER.

BEATRICE, Neb., July 7— Raymond, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Calkins, sustained severe burns on his right hand Saturday evening at his home when a cannon cracker exploded prematurely.

Hearing Held in Death Of Blind Girl, Said by Mother to Be Suicide

CRANDON, Wis., July 7—(AP)—District Attorney F. W. Horn of Forest county today was conducting a John Doe hearing into the death of Lillian Hewitt, 18-year-old blind daughter of Charles Hewitt.

The girl's body was discovered several days ago, a bullet wound in the head, near her father's farm home. Her mother said she left home after a quarrel and she regarded the death a suicide. Horn ordered the John Doe hearing after stating the body was discovered in a rocky place he believed inaccessible to a blind person.

BARN IS BURNED.

(Special to The Star.)

ROCKFORD, Neb., July 7— The large barn on the Edgar Burroughs farm near here was destroyed by fire Saturday night together with a considerable amount of hay and grain. Harness, farm machinery and other property were lost. The fire is supposed to have been caused from spontaneous combustion in the hay. The loss will reach nearly $4,000, covered by insurance.

Had Eczema Very Badly. Unable to Work. Healed by Cuticura.

"I had eczema very badly. It was between my fingers, on the palms of my hands, and on my arms. It itched and burned and I could not put my hands in water for it made them very sore and the eczema spread. I was unable to do all my regular work, and there were days when I could not attend school.

"I had the trouble about two months before I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after using four cakes of Cuticura Soap and four boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss N. C. Brown, R. 2, Box 109, Kokomo, Ind., Dec. 23, 1930.

Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

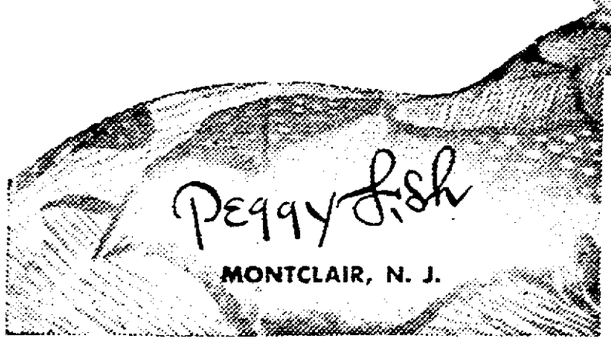

Place your finger on your Adam's Apple. You are actually touching your larynx—this is your voice box—it contains your vocal chords.

From the report of a famous scientist who studied the effects of LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process—

"During the course of some recent investigations... we became interested to ascertain whether Ultra Violet Rays produced any change in the quality of the cigarettes. It may interest you to know that I was able to detect a very definite difference in the irritant qualities of the treated and untreated cigarettes. Several tests were made, not only on myself, but others as well, and we experienced little difficulty in selecting the treated or irradiated cigarettes as distinctly less irritating to the mucous membrane of the nose and pharynx than the control or untreated cigarettes."

Sunshine mellows—heat purifies—that's why LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process includes the use of modern Ultra Violet Rays. EXIT

BY HAROLD BELL WRIGHT.

SYNOPSIS: Bruce Carey wants Pierre Donovan to invest in a mining scheme the money his mother, Harriet Noel, has left for his theatrical training. But Tony Latour urges the motherless Pierre to continue her work on the stage, abandoned after her husband, Roy Donovan, had deserted her and her child, and Bruce, his stepson. His own stage background inspires Tony to write a play depicting Pierre's life as it might be should he yield to the advice of Bruce, and Martin Bevis, father of Bruce's wife, Ann. Pierre, who has been living with them, is about to leave for dramatic school when Tony calls to say goodby. As he reads the play to Ann, Martin and Bruce appear, the latter determined to win Pierre to his plan.

Chapter 16.

BRUCE'S ENTRANCE CUE.

As Bruce turned toward Tony with a look of studied insolence, Ann went to the foot of the stairs and called: "Pierre, oh, Pierre! Supper's about ready."

"Comin'," shouted Pierre, and the next minute he ran joyously into the living room.

"Hello, everybody,' 'he called. "How's the bookkeeping, Pa Bevis? Every little old balance balancing?"

"Martin, Ann and Old Tony laughed, but Bruce turned away in disgust.

"All but 39 cents, Pierre," said Martin.

"Too bad—naughty little 39 cents," Pierre returned. Then burlesquing a man of big business, he addressed Bruce. "Ahem! And what is your opinion of the Wall Street situation today. Mr. Carey?"

Again the three laughed. But Bruce said in a tone of disgust, "Aw, cut the comed', will you? You're not so funny."

Pierre bowed, burlesquing a court jester, and in the manner of a grandiloquent Shakespearian actor, replied: "I pray thee pardon thy poor fool, sire, an my antics fail to please, I'll trade cap and bells for an interest table, though methinks to make a money juggler of a mountebank were a sorry jest."

Martin, Ann and Tony laughed again. But Bruce cried angrily, "For Pete's sake lay off, will you?" Then to Ann, "Come on, Ann, why don't we eat?" He seated himself at the table.

Ann brought dishes of food for the table while Pierre, going to Old Tony, said, "I'm awfully glad you came over this afternoon, Father Tony. I'm going to miss you like the devil, but I'll be thanking you for all you've been to me." He threw his arm around the old actor's shoulders.

Ann paused to gaze at them sympathetically. Martin, too, watched them with interest.

"Well," barked Bruce impatiently, "are you folks coming to supper or not?"

Ann looked at her husband and father with anger and shame. "Bruce!" she exclaimed in an undertone, "how can you be so rude?" She turned and said heartily, "Come, Father Tony, you'll have supper with us, of course."

Pierre echoed the invitation gaily. The old actor hesitated wistfully, but Bruce and Martin were inhospitable and he said, "I'm sorry, Ann—I'd like to, but I'd better not stay this evening." To Pierre he added anxiously: "You are really going in the morning, Pierre?"

Pierre patted him on the back reassuringly, "Sure as the sunrise, Father Tony."

Ann gave him his hat and Pierre went with him into the hall. The old actor turned and with fine dignity said: "Good evening, Ann, good evening, Bruce, Martin."

Bruce and Martin returned gruffly: "Goodby."

Pierre, gaily taking his seat at the table, looked questioningly from the painful silent Ann to Bruce and Martin. It was very evident that the harmony of the little family was strained. But Pierre's spirits were too high to be subdued and partially for that reason, partially from sympathy for Ann, he exerted himself to relieve the tension.

"Aha!" he cried melodramatically, "Hot biscuits, as I live! By all the gods I swear, there's no skil like thine to conjure up such cookery. How shall I, in New York, live without my Lady Ann's hot biscuits?"

Bruce groaned, but Ann and Martin laughed.

"Better change your mind about being an actor," said Martin. "Tendin' soda fountain ain't such a high-minded job, but soda jerks eat regular, which is more than most actors do."

"Soda jerk!" cried Pierre. "Spare me, good sir, 'tis a part I do not crave to play." More seriously he continued: "But the role has advantages, friends. My time at the soda fountain has not been wasted. An actor, you know, must play many parts."

Pierre rose and in the manner of a showman announced: "With your kind permission, I will present the master artist of the soft-drink fraternity."

Throwing his napkin over his arm with a magnificent gesture he approached Ann. Then bending over and offering an imaginary menu, he murmured: "Does madam desire to order something, please?"

"I'll have a malted milk chocolate, with egg," laughed Ann.

With another bow, the waiter said, "Yes, madam, I thank you, madam," and going to an imaginary soda fountain he proceeded with a flourish to mix the imaginary drink which he then, with an elegant gesture, placed before the lady. Then turning to Bruce and Martin, with a bow, he asked: "And what would the gentlemen like, please? I have sweets for the sweet, and nuts for the nuts."

"Aw, cut it out!" shouted Bruce "You act like a darned half-wit."

"Yes, sir, thank you, sir," returned the bowing waiter "And now, if you please, observe the wretched amateur."

By this time Anne and Martin were heartily enjoying the exhibition, and even Bruce was becoming interested. Following the applause in which Bruce joined in a half-hearted way, Pierre presented various well-known characters as they patronized the soda fountain.

When the various characterizations were finished, the audience of three applauded vigorously and Pierre bowed his thanks.

As they rose from the table, Bruce said heartily: "I've got to hand it to you, kid, when it comes to acting. "Then as he went into his bedroom, he added: "Don't go away. I want to see you.

Pierre and Ann were alone. Ann stood gazing at the young man with more adoration than she realized. "Oh, Pierre," she said slowly, "must you go away to that school to study acting? Why don't you go on the stage now? I have never seen an actor who could compare with you."

Pierre laughed boyishly, pleased with the compliment, but remembering that Ann knew nothing of the art of acting.

"I have a long way to go before I can attempt a part in a real play," he returned seriously. "I know I have something, because Father Tony says so, and because mother used to say that some day I would be a real artist—but mothers are that way."

"But, Pierre, surely Father Tony knows—he was an actor himself And Father Tony says your mother was the most wonderful actress he ever saw."

Pierre continued: "When I played kiddie parts on the stage, mother used to say that the most important thing is the actor's exit. A lot of people hold that an actor's entrance is all important, just as some folks are always bragging about their families and all that. But it's the actor's exit lines—the way he leaves the stage that establishes the character.

"Take Jesus, for example," he continued reverently. "Jesus didn't make much of an entrance—born in a manger, in an old cow shed! But look at His exit. It impressed His divine character upon the whole world for all time and eternity."

With agonized face uplifted and arms extended as on a cross, Pierre acted the crucifixion, while Ann, under the spell of his acting, unconsciously assumed the attitude of a worshiper.

Then Pierre said: "Just before mother died she talked about her 'exit' and made me feel that death was no more than stepping off stage into the wings after playing your bit. And she said that when she had made her exit she would be standing in the wings. That's why I've got to go to school and make myself the kind of actor mother wants me to. That's why I can't give up my school money to Bruce or to any one else—not if I knew it would bring me millions. You do understand, don't you Ann?"

Ann impulsively moved closer to him and, putting her hands on his shoulders, said: "I do understand, Pierre dear! Of course you must be true to yourself, my Pierre. No matter what Bruce or my father says you must not think of letting Bruce have a penny of your school money for his gold mining scheme. You won't will you, dear? —it would be wicked."

Neither Pierre nor Ann noticed that Bruce was standing in the doorway to his room watching them and listening to her words.

LINCOLN GROUP HEARS COLLINS

National Head Railway Mail Tells Benefits Of Shorter Week.

W. M Collins of Washington, D. C., national president of the Railway Mail association, was the guest of honor and chief speaker at a dinner meeting of the Lincoln branch of the organization, Monday evening at the Cornhusker hotel. Mr. Collins, together with a number of out-state delegates, will attend the association's annual division convention in Omaha July 8 and 9.

In addressing some thirty-five members of the local branch and visitors, Mr. Collins summarized the legislation sponsored by the national association during the past two years, explaining the operation of the mail clerks' forty-four hour week law which has offered employment to more than 1,000 new clerks and 1,200 part-time employes throughout the United States

C M. Harvey, St. Paul, Minn., president of the tenth division of the Railway Mail association, was introduced as another speaker. Mr. Harvey complimented the Lincoln branch on its 100 per cent membership and voting record.

A report of membership in the fourteenth division of which Lincoln is a part, given by Harry Hughs of Sheridan, Wyo., division president, indicated a total of nearly 900 members in the states of Nebraska, Wyoming and Colorado. Mr Hughs who was formerly a resident of Lincoln, welcomed the guests and delegates to the pre-convention meting givn by th Lincoln branch.

Others speaking briefly at the meeting included: W. Griffing, delegate to the Omah aconvention from Billings, Mont; O. R. Jefferscn, president of the Denver branch, V. G. Hill of Denver; W. D. Settle, vice president of the fourteenth division, also of Denver; and O. R. Eller, chief clerk of the Lincoln branch.

Following a dinner at which the wives of the delegates and local members were present as special guests, the local chapter installed officers for the ensuing year. Retiring President C. C. WELFARE SOCIETY REQUESTS CITY AID IN PAYING DEFICIT

Four representatives of the Social Welfare society were in conference Monday with E. M. Bair, head of the city department of accounts and finances, discussing the possibility of the council including in the 1931-32 budget, money enough to wipe out a deficit of the welfare agency. A specific amount was not asked. According to Mr. Bair, at the beginning of the fiscal welfare year the socity had used its surplus and was in debt. Since then the deficit has grown until it is at least $11,000.

The welfare society representatives expressed a hope that the organization would be able to pay the amount of the debt at the beginning of the year. The shortage that has arisen since that time, however, they believed should be provided for in the municipal appropriations which will be made in August, to become effective September 1

Those who represented the society in the conference were L. C. Chapin, E. L. Smith, E. N. Van Horne and F. D. Throop.

1,687 Teachers Swelter Through Summer School

Small boys who squirmed under the persistent questioning of their teachers last winter would enjoy visiting classes at the University of Nebraska this summer. They would find 1,687 teachers taking examinations and writing lengthy papers on hot afternoons in the pursuit of advanced study during their vacation period.

The majority of students now taking work at the university are teachers who taught school during the past year, according to registration figures relaesed today by R. D. Moritz, director of the summer sessions Of the 2,713 persons now enrolled, 1,687 are of this group. Those who attended school during the regular session number 916, while the remaining 110 were engaged in various occupations

Students who are under contract to teach this fall total 1610 Of the remainder, 752 will continue their studies in the university These figures are being compiled for the first time in an effort to secure a more accurate knowledge of the instruction which students desire during the summer.

'The results show that the session is serving, for the most part, teachers who desire additional work from the instructional point of view," declared Professor Moritz "Most outstanding is the increasing demand for graduate work, as indicated by the enrollment of 717 in the graduate college this year as compared with 543 last summer.

As to the various kinds of positions for which these student teachers are preparing, 210 are interested in rural schools; 603 in the grade and junior high schools; 821, high schools; 313, school administration and supervision, and 130 in college positions. Among the 635 not interested in teaching are included dentists, engineers, nurses, pre-medic and pre-law students.

Super-Variable, What of It?
Stalin Works, and Learns
While Doctors Argued
A Royal Conversation

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

You see a tumble bug, in a huge pasture, rolling his precious little sphere toward the entrance to his storehouse underground. What could you say that would interest that tumble-bug more than that little globe, carefully fashioned for winter nourishment? Nothing.

What could you say to the two-legged tumble-bugs called human beings, that would take their minds from their petty interests here on earth, the price of stocks, the length of dresses? Nothing.

Astronomers at Harvard university have discovered a "super giant" Variable, far out in the milky way, in the large cloud of Megellan.

That new super giant flashes with a brilliancy that varies from 12,000 to 33,000 times that of our sun, at a distance of 90,000 light years from the earth. One light year is about 6,000,000,000,000 years.

If our earth fell into the sun, it would disappear in dust before reaching the sun's surface. If our sun fell into the huge super-giant Variable, it would vanish like a flake of snow on a red-hot stove.

For that reason, it is all too big to be comfortable, and we come back to the satisfying contemplation of something that we can understand, to the fact that Max Schmeling has returned to Germany, or that "Big Steel' closed at 103¾.

Trotsky, exiled from Russia, says only 5 per cent of Russians live as "socialists" and wants Russia to put Stalin out of power. That suggests a fable in which the mice decided that somebody should put a bell on the cat, that all might know when the cat was coming. No mouse wanted the job of "belling the cat."

Stalin retains his power, and accumulates knowledge of human beings as he goes along.

Everything is easy, in theory. He that would not undertake to build a bridge across a 10-foot stream will cheerfully undertake to change a system of human government.

Stalin, head man of Russia, learns as he goes, and is willing to be taught. He has abandoned the noble theory that all men being equal, should receive the same wages. He needs skillful men, and finds that skillful men resent too much equality.

It isn't that they want more, but they want recognition of their skill. Wise Stalin arranges things accordingly.

He announces that "more individuality is needed in industry," which is another way of saying that the person that develops individuality in the way of ability will get extra pay.

Blind hatred of Russia, shown by some of our respectable citizens, public officials and industrialists is an interesting development of nearsighted foolishness.

Russia's success would be the best possible thing for our so-called "capitalistic system."

To make a man conservative, make him rich What could be better for the world than to have the 150,000,000 people in Russia's 1,000,000 villages develop successful industry, and great national wealth?

If a gigantically rich people of 120,000,000 on this continent is a good thing for the world, why wouldn't another gigantically rich people of 150,000,000 in eastern Europe and western Asia be also good for the world?

Would it be better, in the opinion of our distinguished international financiers, if Russia were in a state of anarchy, brigandage, and civil war, as is China?

Germany sympathizes with the patient that died while doctors argued about his symptoms, as the United States and France now argue about the meaning of President Hoover's perfectly straightforward moratorium proposition Yesterday afternoon Berlin despatches told of the dangerous condition of the German reichsbank, in urgent need of immediate foreign credit

Wall street did not like the looks of things Speculators just starting are easily frightened. It is so much easier to run than to stick In a short time, those that foolishly bought, at the highest prices, will be cursing themselves wondering why they did not buy near the bottom

Only a wise old Rothschild can say: "I got rich selling too soon."

Yesterday, King George and Queen Mary celebrated the anniversary of their wedding, in Holyrood palace, at Edinburgh Bells rang all over Britain, royal servants drank the health of their majesties in champagne

The king and queen, perhaps, talked about the changes since that day, 38 years ago, when Queen Victoria saw them married.

King George may well have said to Queen Mary: "How things change. No more czar of Russia, emperor of Austria, king of Spain, emperor of Germany, king of Portugal. What will be the future history of that throne on which we sit, comfortable and secure?"

PRISONERS KILL YOUNG CONVICT

Sing Sing Searched For Hidden Weapons After Second Slaying.

OSSINING, N Y., July 7—(AP)—The second fatal stabbing of a prisoner within the walls of Sing Sing prison today resulted in the cancellation of all convicts' privileges, while a picked squad of guards made a cell to cell search for hidden weapons.

The latest victim of what Warden Lewis E. Lawes termed an inmates' feud was John De Lucca, 24, of Brooklyn, serving a term for a holdup He died last night in the prison hospital

Lawes said De Lucca had been stabbed Saturday night while attending the prison motion picture show. Shows have been suspended pending the outcome of the warden's inquiry.

John Mulvaney, another convict from Brooklyn, was accused by Warden Lawes of killing De Lucca as a reprisal for the killing of Frank Doyle, another prisoner, last Tuesday. Mulvaney was placed in solitary confinement.

William Hook, a convict, was stabbed last month while in the prison yard He was not injured seriously. His assailant was not disclosed.

ARCHITECTS FOR CITY BUILDINGS

Miller and Craig Named By Council to Plan Newest Addition.

Miller and Craig, architects, Monday were employed as architects to draw plans and specifications for the erection of a new street department building and gasoline station, at Nineteenth and Q streets. In addition to drawing the plans the architects will supervise the construction of the buildings They also will allocate the buildings on the property, and for pay will receive 4 per cent of the cost of the work covered in the plans and specifications.

Allocation of the buildings has been completed, and now the architects are making the plans for the buildings, with a view to soon being ready to advertise for bids. As has been the case on other buildings, 40 cents an hour for common labor will be a requirement. There also will be a stipulation that only bonafide residents of the city will be permitted to work for the contractors.

The council denied Al Johnston a permit to operate a portable soda fountain near the bridge over Salt creek at the west end of Park boulevard. Although outside of the city limits the city has control of zoning there. In denying the request, the council believed there would be too great a traffic hazard, and also would be extending a business zone already set up in the immediate vicinity.

A request by the zoning board of appeals that that body be allowed to grant temporary permits for cash and carry ice stations was granted.

The Rogers Motor Co, was awarded the contract for furnishing the plumbing inspection department an automobile. The price is to be $515 plus a car now in use. A sidewalk district was created on the north side of D street between Ninth and Tenth streets, and the cottage camp at Forty-second and O streets was given permission to widen its curb cut twelve feet.

Kansas Publisher Sued for $500,000 On Libel Charge

CHICAGO, July 7—(AP)—Asking $500,000 damages from E. Haldeman-Julius of Girard, Kas, and his publishing companies, a suit alleging libel was on file today in the United States District court by Harold A. Moore, vice president of the American Bond & Mortgage Co.

Moore denies charges which he claims were made in an article in Haldeman-Julius' magazine, The American Freeman, on May 9, 1931, that he and the mortgage concern engaged in irregularities in financing various real estate projects. These include the Mayflower hotel in Washington where Vice President Charles Curtis resided.

In his declaration Moore stated that the vice president's name was linked "in a defamatory manner" with the company's control of the Mayflower hotel, and denied Moore or his three sons knew Curtis, as allegedly stated in the article.

COUNCIL REFUSES TO FIGHT GAS TAX

Payment Will Continue to Be Made Under Protest for Protection in Event of Court Decision.

That members of the city council have no thought of contesting the payment of the state gas tax on gasoline used by city departments was brought out clearly Monday afternoon at the meeting of the council. Neither is there any idea of abandoning the practice of paying the tax under protest. If some other municipality or group attacks the law and a court decision is handed down to the effect that the city is not liable to the tax, then the municipality will be in a position to claim the refund, it was stated.

Paying the tax under protest started shortly after the gas tax law became operative. Since then each monthly installment has been paid with that qualification, until the total now paid under protest is in excess of $12,000.

That the council will make no move to claim a refund and that the practice of paying under protest will continue was developed when Commissioner Foster, head of the municipal gasoline and coal department suggested that the protest payments should be abandoned. But the proposal was talked down, every other member of the council being against it.

"I believe it would be poor policy to make a fight for tax exemptions, when it is denied farmers who use gasoline for agricultural purposes." Mayor Zehrung declared. He added, however, that the city should not allow itself to get in a position where there will be no chance for a refund should a court decision sometime in the future make this possible. Other members agreed with him

In an "offhand" opinion, Max Kier, city attorney, who met with the council the first time since taking charge of the legal department, stated the belief that regardless of whether the tax is paid under protest, the city will not be able to win exemption should the law be attacked. At the request of Mayor Zehrung he will submit a written opinion to the council at the next meeting

Harry Geissberger, 19-year-old shortstop of the Pirates, will get some seasoning at Wichita.

(Special to the Star.)

AURORA, Neb., July 7—Because of the extremely low price of wheat Titman Bros., who are running a combine for hire, have had offers from several renters to turn over the entire rent share of the wheat yield to the combine owners if the landlord's share is delivered to him. Wheat in Hamilton county is the best yield and the best quality it has been for several years. These offers on the part of renters indicate their desire to save themselves from further loss which would be entailed in the harvesting, threshing and delivery of the crop. It means the total loss to the renters, the plowing of the ground and the seeding of the fields.

Damage to Pines In Nebraska Due To March Snow Storm

Dying needles in pines in northwest Nebraska has been found due principally to damage from the sudden snow storm of late March rather than to beetle infestation, Frank B. O'Connell, secretary of the state game, forestation and parks commission, announced Tuesday.

Reports coming to his office of damage to three trees led him to ask Clayton Watkins, Nebraska extension forester, to examine them. He received a report Tuesday from Watkins, attributing the damage to the storm.

The trees, aWtkins said, should not be permanently injured, although in many cases the whole north side of the tree had been damaged so that the needles fell out.

Some yellow pine bettle damage was found but it was sectional rather than state-wide, Watkins reported.

Capitol Beach Asks First Dance License Under New Statute

The first application for a license under the new state law governing the operation of dance halls and amusement resorts outside of city limits was filed with County Clerk was by the Central Realty and Investment Co. for a license to operate an amusement resort and dance hal at Capitol Beach.

The application was signed by twenty-five legal voters of Garfield precinct, in which Capitol Beach is located.

The new state law goes into effect August 2, according to County Clerk Morgan. Roadhouses, dance halls or resorts operating without a license after that time are liable to a fine of $10 to $50 a day. Two weeks publication of the notice is necessary for the county commissioners act on the application for a license. The commissioners have the power either to approve or reject the applications. The license fee is $5.

New High Mark in Warrants Written

Total warrants written by the state auditor's office in June ran above 14,000, setting a new record. The highest number ever previously issued in one month was about 13,700 during the early part of this year. The additional work was done without any increase in the office force.

Several factors contributed to swell the total number of warrants in June. One was the special legislative session, which accounted for several hundred of them. Another was the unprecedented amount of state highway construction work projects started during the spring and early summer. The University of Nebraska and agood many of the governmental departments presented an unusual number of warrants just before the close of the fiscal biennium on June 30, iln order to make use of funds from the old appropriations which otherwise would have lapsed and reverted to the state treasury.

EXPERTS READY BEGIN WORK ON MORATORIUM

First Conference on Details Likely to Be Held Within a Week.

PARIS, July 7—(AP)—With the ink hardly dry on the documents establishing President Hoover's one year moratorium as an international fact, negotiations already are under way for a meeting of experts to work out the technical issues involved in the Franco-American protocol accepting the Hoover plan.

Such a conference may be held at the end of this week, but it is more likely that it will go over into next week because of the French national holiday on July 14. It is not expected that Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius of Germany will come here for a meeting with French statesmen before the end of this month.

Next Step Up to Germany.

In the view of official France, Germany must repatriate the capital which has left that country as the first step toward restoration of confidence and assurance of success of the Hoover plan.

Pierre Flandin, minister of finance, said today that one immensely significant feature of the agreement signed last night is the evidence it provides that the United States cannot isolate herself from the rest of the world even should she wish to do so.

The Hoover proposal, he said, came as a surprise to the French people, who did not realize the extreme gravity of Germany's financial situation.

"The French government," said he, "has adhered to the Hoover initiative designed to prevent a financial collapse in Germany which would have had far reaching and disastrous consequences and would have proved particularly bad for continuous payment of reparations to France.

"Supplemental negotiations will begin as soon as may be in the same spirit which marked the conversations between France and the United States.

"Re-establisment of international confidence has as great an importance to resumption of business now as had restoration of confidence in the value of the French franc in 1926."

OPPOSITION TO BRYAN LIKELY

Rumor Metcalfe Planning Sponsor Roosevelt Boom in State.

That Governor Bryan is not to have things all his own way in the makeup of the Nebraska delegation to the democratic national convention next year, for the purpose of advancing his own candidacy for president or vice president, is the report that comes by grapevine from Omaha.

That talk is heard that Mayor R. L. Metcalfe of Omaha will sponsor the presidential boom of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York and assist in getting a lineup in the second congressional district at least to bring about the election of delegates there who will give Roosevelt their support.

Harry B. Fleharty, well known Omaha attorney, is named as one of the candidates already picked to run for delegate in the second district for the purpose of aiding the New York governor's candidacy.

It is not unlikely that delegate aspirants friendly to Roosevelt may file in other districts. Among those said to be considering that step is John J. Ledwith of Lincoln, for the first district.

James F. Farley, New York democratic state chairman and active booster for Roosevelt, will be in Lincoln and Omaha on July 14 to sound out political sentiment in Nebraska and size up the chances of getting delegates from this state. He is understood to be in communication now with Mayor Metcalfe and other prominent democrats.

Hitchcock Reported Neutral.

Former United States Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Omaha, who is expected to be a candidate for delegate at large to the national convention, will probably not take sides as between Bryan and Roosevelt, should a contest develop between them.

Mr Hitchcock, according to his friends, would like to go unpledged and free to assist in the nomination of whatever candidate may seem to be most available one at the time the convention meets. He was closely associated with Newton D. Baker, secretary of war in the Wilson administration, when Hitchcock was in the senate and chairman of its foreign relations committee. He also knows Owen D. Young, Governor Ritchie of Maryland, and others mentioned as presidential timber. His friends insist that he is not unfriendly to either Roosevelt or Bryan, but that he would prefer not to be tied up in advance to anybody's chariot.

National Committeeman A. F. Mullen of Omaha was in Lincoln during the day, but did not talk politics for publication. It is understood he will not antagonize Governor Bryan's presidential ambitions, nor will he do anything for or against Roosevelt in advance of the state primaries next April Mullen's attitude will probably be similar to Hitchcock's — that of waiting to see what develops at the national convention.

New Planet Is Discovered By Japanese

Recently Found Heavenly Body 11,000 Miles in Diameter.

KYOTO, Japan, July 7—(AP)—The Kyoto astronomical observatory announced today the discovery of a new planetoid. The heavenly body was calculated to be 11,000 miles in diameter, or somewhat larger than the earth. Its distance from the earth was figured at 180,000,000 miles, or somewhat less than twice the distance from the earth to the sun.

Its position was given as in the area south of the "Snake Charmer" constellation.

Between Mars and Jupiter.

NEW YORK, July 7— (AP) —The planet announced as discovered by the Kyoto astronomical observatory approximately 180,000,000 miles from the earth would be in the region of the minor planets between Mars and Jupiter.

Most of these planetoids, of which more than a thousand have been discovered, are only a few miles in diameter; the largest about 400 miles. The calculation of 11,000 miles for the new planet remained to be explained.

Pluto, the outermost major planet of the solar system, discovered at Flagstaff, Ariz., last year, was found to be approximately 3,800,000,000 miles from the sun.

Dr. Adams Doubtful.

PASADENA, Ca., July 7—(AP)—Dr. W. A. Adams, head of Mount Wilson observatory, said today he doubted the discovery of a new planetoid of the size and distance from the earth as that described in dispatches from Kyoto, Japan.

"It seems impossible a planetoid of that size and bulk 180,000,000 miles from the earth could have escaped discovery before," said Dr. Adams. "This one is calculated to be 11,000 miles in diameter. The earth and Venus are around 8,000 miles in diameter, so this would make the reported new planetoid considerably larger than either. Its size would make it a planet rather than a planetoid."

Barn on Valentine Hatchery Grounds Destroyed by Fire

A barn at the state fish hatchery at Valentine was destroyed by fire early last Saturday morning after being hit by a bolt of lightning, Frank B. O'Connell, secretary of the state game, forestation and parks commission, was informed Tuesday.

Word of the destruction of the building was received from Garland Gray, superintendent of the hatchery.

He reported that the bolt hit the barn about 1 o'clock Saturday morning and that it burned rapidly, with a ton of hay helping to keep the blaze going, despite rain which came down throughout the fire. There was not enough water pressure to fight the fire effectively, he said.

Damage was estimated at $500. Another building will be used in place of the burned structure, Gray advised Mr. O'Connell.

FALLS CITY MAN ACCUSED GIVING FALSE REPORTS

Arrest of Elva Cox, Falls City commission merchant, was ordered in Federal court Tuesday morning, following the filing of an information charging him with making false reports to a fruit exchange in violation of the federal produce agency act.

The information alleges that on Nov. 12, 1929, Cox received at North Platte a shipment of 645 baskets of apples from the United Market exchange, whose offices are at Delta, Colo. The first count charges that Cox failed to and has refused to account for his disposition of the apples, and the second count accuses him of falsely reporting to the exchange that he had incurred an expense of $60 through delay in shipment.

An affidavit by C R Newton, Washington, D C., marketing specialist of the U.S. department of agriculture, accompanies the information. Mr. Newton avers that he investigated the alleged $60 expense and found no basis for it.

Bond for Cox was fixed at $200.

How to recover from a love affair

'A Laughing Maiden' asks this question

She says "Should I go out with other boys and be gay, or should I leave the male sex alone for a while? I am continually asked to go out by different boys but it takes all the good nature and strength that is in me to go or be halfway decent to the fellow after I have accepted"

She adds 'I cannot get away from thinking of this past affair and him and I want to forget it, and the sooner the better So singing galy with a heavy heart 'My fate is in your hands' I beseech you to help me

I believe that work is the best cure for an aching heart, work that taxes either the body or mind, or both, to the point of excluding all other thoughts from the mind I think that going out with other friends is often rather painful while a wound is fresh, and that greater surcease is gained through delving into some very difficult task and fighting your way through it What that task might be must necessarily depend upon the individual and circumstances But something can always be found, some task that challenges the very utmost of effort and concentration

The reaction at rest periods from such absorbing work is exhaustion of a satisfactory nature There is no time to brood or indulge in mind pictures and memories And gradually these painful memories are automatically crowded into the background Resolves to forget do no good. The memories must be supplanted by other absorbing thoughts

To Show Sympathy.

What can one do to show sympathy and affection to a friend who has very great illness in her family? "Gertrude" asks this question, saying that her friend is under such a strain while her husband hovers at death's door, that she would like to send some comforting word but it seems impossible to say anything that would help It isn't necessary to say anything Just a note saying simply, "Love and sympathy" accompanying a boquet of flowers, some fruit or perhaps magazines or a book, will do wonders toward cheering the recipient At such a time, anyone needs and greatly appreciates the simplest tokens of affection from friends

Answered Briefly

Tom It is a tough break to have to forego the vacation this year Many firms have found it necessary to eliminate vacations due to hard times It is kinder and better for them to take this pleasure than to lay some of the employees off entirely Keep cheerful and remember that others are having similar and more trying experiences

Ellen I wouldn't worry about being fickle Most girls go through the stages of intense admiration for one boy and then another It is only normal It doesn't indicate that you will never be able to settle down to one It merely means that you haven't met the right one Sneaking Out.

Dear Minerva: I am a girl about seventeen years old. I am very fond of boys, I don't get to go out very often with them because my mother thinks I am too young

There is one boy I am particularly fond of and he seems to like me pretty well, he has asked me for ever so many dates but I don't dare accept If you were me would you sneak out and meet him or would you tell your folks you were going with him? He seems to be a pretty nice boy he dresses very nicely and works every day Please give me your advice—UNDECIDED

A. Don't sneak out with this boy, or in any way deceive your mother about your activities To do so will only bring disgrace and unhappiness upon yourself This "nice boy" would himself lose respect for you, even though he would for a while enjoy the stolen sweets of your companionship Confide frankly in your mother. Honor her with your confidences. Be worthy of her trust in you, and she will give you freedom for good times

India and Argentine Are Represented In Cottage Curtains

Dorothy and Arthur always went to the woods for the summer vacation They had a cabin there which they used year after year. In the beginning they had taken outworn or unused curtains and furniture for the place But as they went back year after year they finally decided to fit it up with permanent furnishings

They did not want to spend a great amount of money Accordingly

they leafed over magazines, visited budget bungalows and apartments in stores and used every inexpensive idea they could find

For the dining room they decided on curtains of glazed tarlatan sometimes called Argentine cloth. This material is now being used for many garment bags It is loosely woven but given a shiny, finished surface by a glazing of some patented liquid which coats the whole surface

This material comes in white a gun metal shade green pink blue orange Dorothy used the white and bound the edges with a blue bias tape She tied the curtains back with large loops of the material They looked shimmeringly cool on a blazing hot day.

The living room curtains were made from a large, but inexpensive India print The material was cut in halves lengthwise and then headed with a casing through which the curtain rod was run With the plain wood walls of the cottage the colorful Indian motifs made a splendid contrast and both of these were inexpensive Cretonne and cute chintz

Nance has a leaflet on the Well Dressed Window Write for it She will send it on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope Address your request to her, care of this paper.

ON THE FAT OF THE LAND.

After viewing the A. A. U. games in Lincoln over the glorious Fourth, Mr. Avery Brundage, the president of the organization, might well have joined the poet in saying:

"Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey.
"Where wealth accumulates and men decay."

It was not that records were not broken, because they were. One of the fleetest, flashiest groups of athletes ever gathered in a group for the A. A. U. games compiled a number of remarkable performances on the track and in the field events. Mr. Brundage's concern arises from the fact America is not developing long distance runners. In the sprints and the dashes, and in the middle distance runs Uncle Sam is doing very well. His hurdlers, jumpers, vaulters and weight men are entirely satisfactory. But when it comes to the long, grinding, wearing strain of reeling off mile after mile, it seems those who are fitted for it have no stomach for such arduous exertion and those who do enter are not qualified.

There really is very little importance attached to the continued domination of the United States in the Olympics, which are to be staged here in this country for the first time in 1932. It might be a badly needed tonic if Germany, or some of the other European countries which are coming rapidly to the front in all forms of outdoor athletics, particularly track, should walk away with Olympic honors next year. Mr. Brundage is troubled because he is convinced American supremacy will be ended through our failure to develop distance runners. It has been plainly evident in the last two Olympics that in a contest calling for great endurance and stamina, the young men carrying the colors of the United States have been badly outclassed by the runners representing north European countries.

Mr. Brundage does not believe there is any need for it. We grow them just as strong and sturdy and just as well-equipped physically to stand the brunt of a gruelling race. Our lack of distance runners is due to a mental condition rather than a physical dearth. The race which is long drawn out lacks that spectacular element to it which makes the dashes and the sprints so attractive. There are few of the flashing bursts of speed which bring cheers to the lips of spectators. It is a slow, methodical, rythmic jog which fails to impress the ordinary spectator. The sport which is most popular in this country today is the one which supplies the greatest number of thrills. We demand action and color. We want things to happen and happen in a hurry. We want to get some place within a short time after we start. It isn't particularly strange, considering the changes which have been so clearly outlined in national life in recent years, that the dashes should attract most of the ambitious youths who are anxious to win fame in track and field, while the distance runs would be neglected. A man may be the greatest marathon runner in the world but he will not get half the glances of a crack sprinter.

With the athletes of Germany, Finland, and even Great Britain, it is different. There is not the love for the spectacular there. There is not the demand for action. Europe is willing to plug along and the distance runner there is a greater hero than the sprinter.

There is no foundation for suggesting the young men are soft, and flabby, and lacking in endurance. Physically America is a finer race today than fifty or seventy-five years ago. We are living more healthfully. We know how to take care of ourselves better than our grandfathers did, or even our fathers. We have the facilities to do so. A misplaced emphasis in national life is largely responsible for the disappearance of distance runners. We have the material and all we need is to awaken the ambition. Curiously the same observation might be applied to everyday life. Too generally the aim has been for the swivel chair and the white collar instead of manual labor.

MR. TROTZKY'S PLAINT.

When one is on the outside looking in the view he obtains is oftimes different from how things look from an inside point of vantage. It is not surprising that Leon Trotzky, former partner of Lenin now an exile in Turkey, should be pointing out flaws and drawbacks in the Russian soviet system. Since he was forcibly removed from the picture, he can discern a good many things that are not going well.

In his latest criticism, published in a Polish newspaper, Trotzky asserts that not more than 5 per cent of the total Russian population believes in socialism or feels any desire to forward the Marxian program. Doubtless he is right.

But was the situation any different when Trotzky himself held the reins as "commissar of war" in the U. S. S. R.?

It is not of record that the Russian people showed any great disposition to embrace the principles of communism during his regime than they do now. The government then practiced the same tyrannical methods which it is employing at the present time. Indeed, Trotzky's job was to build up a huge army for the purpose of enabling the government to enforce its decrees upon an unwilling populace. His successors have been no more diligent than he himself was in suppressing individual rights and riding rough shod over the masses.

Trotzky exhibits no repentance over his own part in accomplishing the enslavement of Russia. He merely finds fault with Stalin and his associates because they have not been able to make socialism palatable for those who must live under it.

Perhaps he is p... the flame where it does not belong. A government that systematically plunders and oppresses its subjects cannot expect to retain their confidence and affection. People who are not only denied any voice in the government but are stripped of their property and put to hard labor on starvation rations naturally cherish no sentiment of loyalty to their despoilers. They submit because they have no other choice but they would welcome any opportunity to escape from their bondage.

The five-year plan, as Trotzky sizes up the situation, is not succeeding. With him, no doubt, the wish is father to the thought. He would like to see his enemies fail. That is a natural feeling, but it does Trotzky no credit. His heart holds no compassion for the downtrodden kulaks, peasants, merchants, and other classes whom the soviet system has stripped of their possessions. Had he the power, he would return to Russia and subject them to still greater hardships and privations, in order to accomplish the objectives of socialism.

Some time the 95 per cent of the Russian people who are the victims of sovietism may find a way out of their misery. When they do it will be under a different kind of leadership than they would expect from Trotzky.

THE HOLIDAY DEATH TOLL.

The list of Fourth of July deaths and injuries indicates that the crusade against the sale and use of dangerous fireworks is having its effect. It also shows that while we acquire sanity in one direction we become crazier than ever in others. While the list of deaths from holiday accidents was the greatest in recent years, only six of these were attributable to fireworks. This was half as many as occurred the previous year.

The total number of deaths from all causes was 484, of which 181 were due to drowning, 160 to autobile accidents, six to fireworks and 137 to other causes. Just one-third of all of the fatalities were caused by automobiles, and it goes without saying that the greater number of these were the results of negligence. It would be impossible to abolish the motor car, even if such a course were to be advocated, and it seems to be equally impossible to compel people to use care in its operation. About the only thing that can be done, apparently, is to enforce the laws as far as possible and pray and hope.

Neither can or should people be prevented from going into the water. It is significant, however, that most of the drownings occurred in places other than regularly established swimming pools or beaches. Trusting oneself in a strange stream or other body of water is always dangerous and in doing so even good swimmers are apt to lose their lives.

All over the country the sale or use of fireworks in cities is being banned, yet in addition to the six people killed by these explosives, 2,406 were injured. In New York City alone there were 1,600 such casualties, notwithstanding the fact that it is unlawful to sell fireworks in that municipality. This would seem to indicate that the only way to effectively rid the country of this menace is through state laws.

It should be easier to prevent the bootlegging of skyrockets, Roman candles and firecrackers than almost any other thing, for one cannot keep these articles hidden and get any enjoyment at all out of them. The country has become pretty well educated in regard to the fireworks danger, so it should be comparatively easy to get rid of them by legislative enactments in the various states.

"EACH DOG FOR HIMSELF."

The head of a great industrial enterprise in the East carries us back many decades with his views as expressed in a booklet prepared for stockholders of the company. His attitude probably would have been regarded as progressive along about the beginning of the Dark ages. Today it is almost unthinkable that a business leader with his influence should express the economic and social outlook of the "public-be-damned" days.

He doesn't come out with a blunt statement telling the public where to go. More eloquently, he prescribes a sugar-coated pill as follows:

"To me it seems highly desirable that we keep alive the old-fashioned individualistic spirit of looking after one's self. It is going to be our salvation. It is one of our greatest inheritances from the founders of this country. If each of us made it our principal business to look after himself as well as a reasonably prudent man should, there would not be so much required of either industry or the state. That is what I would define as constructive 'selfishness.'"

That sounds great. It distinctly reminds one of political speeches, especially the delicate touch about inheritances from the founders of the country. But what does it mean?

The viewpoint that this captain of industry expresses is that labor should not look to employers or the government for any assistance in times of emergency. Labor will be expected to take care of itself. It is up to the individual to find a job or the means of living. Industry can offer no security to the individual.

He complains that there seems to be the the growing tendency to shift to the shoulders of each industry the burden of providing for those "improvident individuals employed by that particular industry who are unable to care for themselves in times of need."

"Improvident individuals" undoubtedly means the unemployed. This captain of industry has saved enough to take care of himself during periods of depression and in his old age. Evidently he is unable to understand why laborers who attempt to support large families on wages of $15 to $35 a week have been unable to do the same.

It's queer that the idea should still exist that only the improvident are unemployed. How anyone could believe that only the shiftless, ignorant, incapable and unforesighted are unemployed in these days when millions are job hunting is beyond understanding.

Fortunately the industrialist does represent another day. Many of the leaders in industry and business in this country would be the first to condemn his attitude. They might do so from a "constructive selfish" point of view for they recognize that the welfare of their business, as well as that of the public, demands that there be some security for the individual. These progressive leaders may not agree as to what should be done but they realize that in a democracy the individual can't be told to look after himself because he might do that very thing in a way which business wouldn't like.

THE CANNED PROFESSOR.

Experiments in the use of talkies as an educational medium are being conducted at Washington university, St. Louis. Dr. Frank L. Wright, dean of the school of education there, sees in the experiment the possibility of the talkies entering life as regular college teachers.

"If the experiment is successful," he said recently, "it may mean the day of the 'canned professor' is fast approaching. Education will then be merely going to the movies and seeing and hearing a favorite professor in some distant educational institution perform on the silver screen."

If education were as simple as all that, the world would move much more rapidly in its efforts to improve itself through education. We would all be able to see life with more rose colored glasses if education could be absorbed by merely sitting before a movie.

But education is not so simple as all that. Real education requires intensive work, real mental effort, the application of the best of an individual's mind to grasp and comprehend new knowledge, new truths, new insights.

There is little doubt that the talkie can contribute to education as it is already contributing to entertainment. It can bring great lecturers to a myriad of classrooms. But it cannot replace individual effort and the assumption that it can is a real danger to education.

America has already had too much confidence in the efficacy of a system in making better citizens. It is not system but the application of curiosity with effort to extend the range of man's mind which can account for what progress this nation has made. Whether the lecturer is real or a talkie film, individual effort to the lessons at hand must always remain the prime necessity of educational progress for every individual.

Just Folks
by Edgar A. Guest

ON GOING OUT.

The women folks look up at me,
And cry: "You are not fit to see!
That coat needs brushing, and your tie
Is old and worn and all awry,
And very shabby is your hat;
Surely you won't go out like that!"

They're fretted by the speck of dirt
Which seems to settle on my shirt,
And should the collar band be worn
Or show a spot that's frayed and torn,
They'll give the ultimatum flat:
"Now you're not going out like that!"

How easily they dust the coat
And trim the muffler round my throat!
How lightly they apply the touch
Of neatness which I need so much,
That outwardly at least I'll be
What women folks call "fit to see."

Lord, when it comes my time to die,
Let not my spirit be awry.
Grant me the time the while I live
To ask forgiveness and forgive,
That this old soul of mine may be
On its arrival: "fit to see!"

Let some one come to me who knows
Where every little blemish shows
And say: "This bit of wrong repair!
Brush off those dusty signs of care!"
And with the same old friendly pat,
Make sure I don't go out like that!

Everyday Questions Answered By
DR. S. PARKES CADMAN
(Copyright 1930, New York Tribune.)

Questions from Lincoln Star readers are answered daily by The Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, of the Federated Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Cadman seeks to answer inquiries that appear to be representative of the trends of thought in the many letters which he receives.

QUESTION.
Springdale, Conn.

Do you believe that there are any bona fide faith cures today? Will you kindly name a book which deals with this subject and which is written by an impartial scientist who has carefully scrutinized reported cures?

ANSWER.

I believe the mind can both cause and cure certain functional disorders. It is a reasonable inference that if it can do the one it can do the other. Pierre Janet's "Psychological Health," in two volumes, published by MacMillan, is a standard work on the question. Other works do not differentiate between cures by faith and cures by suggestion. Both are regarded as belonging to a similar mental state.

Levy's "Rational Education of the Will" contains some remarkable instances of healing by suggestion. Carpenter's "Mental Physiology" is an older but very useful book written by a competent scientist who was also a physician.

You should consult the records of religious institutions such as Lourdes, which have practiced faith healing for many years. One of the latest and best books on the subject is "Body, Mind and Spirit," by Worcester and McComb, published by Marshall Jones.

QUESTION.
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Why is there so much diabolical shedding of blood? The murderer looks to the lawyer to save his neck in this world; failing that, he depends on the preacher to save his soul from hell in the world to come. May we not then conclude that lawyers and preachers are consciously or unconsciously contributing to the unspeakable crime wave now sweeping the country?

ANSWER.

I can hardly congratulate you on the strength of your reasoning faculties. An attorney is by his oath as a member of the court compelled to do his best in behalf of his client, even though that client be charged with the crime of murder. In fact, if a man is charged with murder in New York state and is too poor to retain an attorney to defend him, the court, upon his being arraigned to plead to the charge will appoint a capable lawyer to represent him at the trial, and every counsellor so appointed can be compelled to appear for and represent the defendant. And if a clergyman tries to console the convicted murderer's last moments, what justification is there for supposing he is wifted with abilities to ward off retribution in another world? Apparently you do not fully realize what are the functions of the two professions in question.

True, there are shady lawyers here and there (and some corrupt magistrates) who are too closely connected with gangsters and other criminals, and there are likewise sorry specimens of clergymen who are unworthy of their calling. But their existence does not remedy the lack of logic and sound sense manifested in your question.

The prevalence of crime which disfraces our national life is due to a variety of causes. One of the foremost is the lack of proper home training. Another is the constant search for thrills and sensations, leading as it does into more and more dangerous situations. A third is the absence of religion and the active presence of materialism. A fourth is the growth of a false individualism resulting in an open disregard of law. But all these may be summed up in the words of Christ: "Out of the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, blasphemies" (St. Matthew 15:19).

Make the heart right and the life will be right.

QUESTION.
Youngstown, Ohio.

I would join the church if it were not for the fact that its members stand for things obviously wrong. How can a conscientious man support any church that does this?

ANSWER.

Are you not somewhat unjust to the church? Granting your contention, is it not equally true that the church also stands for things obviously right? Consider the whole case. It shows that the spirit and teaching of Jesus prompt men and women continually to revolt against private and public evils. Hundreds of years ago His disciples outlawed slavery in the world. Today a considerable number of them are busy outlawing war.

Countless people in this and every other land trace their hatred of injustice and oppression and their love of righteous freedom to the standards set up by Israel's prophets and Christ's apostles. Of course, those standards are often compromised or evaded by professed religionists, but they have never been able to abolish them. On the contrary, the ideals they express are the fabric of our best civilization.

Your letter refers to Christianity as asleep. Well, that's infinitely better than if it were dead. But Christ's Christianity is really a high explosive, the impetus of which blows castellated iniquities sky high and clears the way for human redemption.

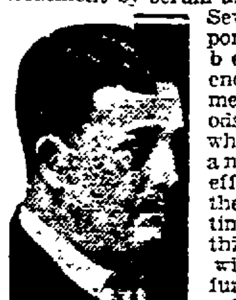

I invite you to come among us and do your best to touch it off. Perhaps conscience still interferes. No one would have you violate it. But if you are looking for a perfect church, drop your quest. Even did it exist, the day you joined it would have to carry your imperfections. I am as impatient as you are with apologies for the faults and sins of churches or church members. But the true policy is to work inside the brotherhood for its announced purposes, and the worst policy is to stand off and confound those who thus work with those who don't.

METHODS OF TREATMENT FOR POISON IVY GIVEN

In writing about poison ivy a few weeks ago I mentioned only treatment by serum and ether soap. Several correspondents have been kind enough to send me other methods of treatment which are simple and apparently effective, and as the subject is a timely one at this season, I will discuss it further.

Dr. Clendening

Our first account of poison ivy comes from Captain John Smith. Whether his actual experience with it was the result of a necking party with Pocahontas in the Virginia woods, I do not know, but this is how he describes the results:

"The poisonous weed being in shape but little different from our English yvie: but being touched causeth redness, itchings, and lastly blysters, the which, however, after a while they passe awaye of themselves without further harme: yet because for the time they are somewhat painefuil and in aspect dangerous, it hath gotten itselfe an ill name, although questionlese of noe very ill nature."

Several years ago Dr James B. McNair, at the University of Chicago, started out to find the active poisonous substance in poison ivy, poison oak and poison sumac, and after considerable chemical work he obtained a gummy brown substance which was very poisonous.

The most practical part of his work was the discovery that iron would neutralize the poison of this substance. Salts of lead and zinc, which have been used as poison ivy preventives for a long time, had a very weak effect in neutralization compared to the iron.

The iron preparation to use is ferric or iron cloride—a 5 per cent solution in half water, half alcohol mixture—if used freely on the hands or face before or immediately after going into a region known or suspected of having poison ivy, will prevent or stop the eruption. The remedy is cheap, the ingredients easily obtained at any drug store, and its preparation "requres no more skill than stirring sugar into a cup of coffee."

Dr. George D. Fuller, a botanist, who was tormented with ivy poisoning so that he could hardly go out on field study with his classes, recommends the iron treatment highly. He has a modification of the ferric chloride, preferring another iron salt, ferrous sulphate, which he put in solution in water at about any strength up to short of saturation. The sulphate solution is cheaper and keeps better than the chloride solution. The method of use and results are the same.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr Logan Clendening, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Grubby Fills His Pockets

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

You'll always find that those most shiftless
Are also those who are most thriftless.
—Old Mother Nature.

Grubby Gopher, as he sat on his mound of earth, was about the size of the two half-grown Prairie-dogs but heavier through the shoulders. He was anything but handsome. His front feet were big and strong and armed with very long stout claws, so long that when he walked he folded them under and walked on the backs of them. They were perfect digging tools. They reminded Poppup of the claws of Digger the Badger, but were even bigger in proportion to the size of their owner. His tail didn't appear to have any hair on it. His lips didn't cover the long front teeth. His neck was so short that it seemed as if his head grew directly out from his shoulders, and the big cheek pockets added to this effect. No, Grubby Gopher wasn't at all handsome. His eyes were very small and his small ears were set close to his head.

Although it was cloudy and dull, the light seemed to bother Grubby and he blinked as if he didn't like it, which he didn't. "Have you seen anything of Digger the Badger around here this morning?" he inquired somewhat anxiously.

"No," replied Popup. "If he were around we wouldn'e be here. You may be sure of that."

"He is a terrible fellow," said Grubby. "He dug out one of my neighbors a few days ago."

"I know it. I saw him do it," replied Popup. "I should hate to have him start after me."

"I'm a good digger but he can dig faster than I can," said Grubby. "It makes me nervous just to think of him."

"There is another fellow who makes me just as nervous," said Popup. "I saw him over in Prairie-dog Town the other day."

"Who is he?" demanded Grubby quickly.

"They called him Blackfoot the Ferret," replied Popup.

"Don't tell me that that fellow is around also!" exclaimed Grubby. "As long as there are plenty of Prairie-dogs he isn't likely to bother us Gophers much. All the same I don't like to hear that he is anywhere near. Well, I must fill my pockets and get back underground."

Rather clumsily he made his way to some fairly tall plants growing near and cut one. Then he began cutting this into short pieces and these he stuffed into his pockets with his paws and did it so fast that it was difficult to see how he did it. His pockets began to swell out. He worked fast, and presently the sides of his head were swollen out so that he certainly was a funny looking little fellow. When he could stuff no more in he turned, walking with his big claws turned under, and made his way back to his hole in the middle of the little mound of earth and disappeared.

Rather clumsily he made his way to some fairly tall plants growing near, and cut one.

The two young prairie-dogs chuckled. Grubby had been a funny sight and no mistake. "Those are handy pockets he has. I wouldn't mind a pair like that myself," declared Peekaboo.

"What for?" asked Popup. "We don't need to store away food, for we can go out and eat our fill every day. That fellow wouldn't have a chance if he was surprised by an enemy even a few feet from his hole. So he needs to take his food inside where he can eat it in safety. I wonder what else he eats. Let's go peep down his hole."

But when they looked for the hole there was none. It had been neatly closed from the inside. There was nothing to show that there ever had been a hole in the middle of the little mound.

They Expect It To Happen.

Lincoln, Neb., July 3

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The railroads expect to collect some $200,000,000 more freight revenue if they may put across this 15 per cent increase in rates for which they have applied. They anticipate proving to the interstate commerce commission (The I. C. C.) that their credit is being impaired by reason of a falling off of freight receipts and that it is up to the I. C. C. to see that they make "a reasonable return upon their investment."

"Believe it or not" this is the territory that is to be stuck up for revenue to maintain the credit of the rails and insure the bond and stockholders their regular dividends. This is the territory where a ton and a half of good wheat will now buy a ton of good coal.

Should one be curious to know how freight rates now compare with those of pre-war times, we beg to quote from the current issue of The Wallace farmer to wit, "Agricultural freight rates at the present time are 50 to 60 per cent higher than they were during the 5-year period before the war."

For months the roads have been pleading for a hearing and making preparations for their presentation. Yielding to their importunities, the hearing has been granted and will take place at an early date — the roads urge haste and appear to have found a favorable reaction of the attitude of the I. C. C. towards a rate raise.

If the rails get $200,000,000, or any other substantial amount it is certain to come from defenseless territory and we of the mid-west are it. One must appreciate that water rates through the canal affect, in fact establish rail rates on trans-continental traffic even so far from the east coast as Ohio. So we must recognize that, that large business territory could not be stuck up for more revenue—they have a very certain protection against rail rate advances.

Again the rail's local business has been shot to pieces by truck competition and the radius of the trucks zone of action is constantly increasing. Any advance in short hauls would only alienate more business.

So the roads must, of necessity levy this additional tribute money on the territory and commodities that may be found helpless and that particular territory is right here in the great agricultural belt of the U. S. The commodities affected are practically all products of the soil, raised in a surplus way, and which we ship out. These plus the necessities of coal, lumber, iron, salt, cement, gravel, gasoline, etc., which must be hauled in by the rails to points of consumption surely catch us "goin' and comin'."

Every railroad has a legal department and one may say that they employ the cream of the profession. A few million argued off their tax schedule by their legal talent, easily warrants a generous salary. The service is continuous and their experience cumulative, whereas our own rail commissioners hold political jobs, which, in a large way, furnish the rails with a primary school from which to select, or reward, a commissioner when the people of the state may elect him no more.

This is a time when a most competent and vigorous defense of our homeland should obtain. Special and exhaustive compilations should be made to buttress the defense. Special counsel should be obtained. A comparatively small advance in a freight rate may wring millions out of the great state of Nebraska. Of salt alone 3,600 carloads were absorbed in this state last year.

And how does our state governor react to the necessities as set forth? Well! he knifed previous appropriations for the maintainance of the commission by $50,000. The legislature however softened this down to a slash of but $19,500 below the previous biennium.

It is a matter of some mortification to us that in this crisis our own state makes the smallest appropriation for maintaining its rail commission of any state in the union. Our neighbor state, Kansas, has an additional appropriation of $100,000 to fight the very advance with which we are also confronted, and is it not naturally a matter of equal concern for us?

In a matter so vital to the state, and during a period of such extremely low commodity values, any crippling of our means defences is intolerable. It is more than "penny wise and pound foolish," it's just plain foolish and leads one to exclaim, "Oh economy! What crimes have been committed in thy name."

F. A. GOOD.

Prosperous Years.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 3.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: We hear much about the moratorium recently. In my opinion, under the financial condition of all of the nations it was perhaps one of the best things that could have been suggested at the present time. America was the proper nation to make the suggestion and be successful in the attempt. Personally, I have felt that something of this nature should have been undertaken months ago. Since 1922 I have felt that the tariff should be lowered to at least as low as it was under McKinley's and Roosevelt's administrations. Those were the most prosperous twelve years for the majority of our people that I have witnessed in seventy-two years.

There were more people, who owned their homes with the least percentage of indebtedness, during those twelve years than in any other twelve successive years of this period. Such prosperity as stated above adds much to the happiness and contentment of our people and with an equitable tariff we can help our debtor nations as well as ourselves.

I hope that there is no debt propaganda in the interest of any class being pushed that will raise the taxes on our people. I am informed that wheat is selling for 34 cents per bushel in Nebraska. I have lived in this state 57 years. In 1890 I sold 20 bushels of wheat for 40 cents per bushel, which is the only wheat that I ever sold for less than 50 cents per bushel.

The products that the farmer sells are very low in price and his taxes and the machinery that he has to buy are double or triple what they were in the early years of 1900. I bought 160 acres of land in 1858 with buildings on it. The taxes for 1899 to 1903, inclusive were $114.60, taxes for 1926 to 1930, inclusive were $870.45. You will notice that the taxes have increased more than 7½ times from 1899 to 1930 in the five years comparison and it has less improvements. The extra expense is one cause of the deplorable financial condition of the farmers at the present time.

D. E. SMITH.

Best Qualified To Answer.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 3.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star. Mr. Myers in a recent Star letter asks why gasoline can be bought for as low as 5.9 cents plus tax at several privately-owned Lincoln stations, yet sells at 8 cents plus tax at the muny station, which is supposed to be operated on a non-profit basis.

The man best qualified to answer this question is Commissioner Foster. The muny station is the people's station and we are entitled to hear from an authoritative source why the muny station cannot drop its price to the prevailing figure. So please accommodate us Mr. Foster.

L. L. SHELDON.

HERE and THERE

Duplication.
(Daily Oklahoman.)

Many of those who discuss duplication in government and its attendant costs have a rather vague idea of what duplication actually means. But a specific illustration of its effects is presented by Governor Roosevelt of New York. He mentions four adjacent towns in his state, each possessing a $5,000 road roller and only 22 days of road rolling done in an entire year by all four of the towns. In other words, $20,000 worth of road equipment was used only 22 days in a whole year.

Of course, a single machine would have met the needs of all four of the neighboring towns and several dozen other towns besides. By combining the purchasing of a single roller for the use of all, the four towns could have effected a saving of $3,750 each. But there was no combination. Duplication got in its costly work and the people of four adjacent towns paid out $15,000 unnecessarily.

Such duplications appear the country over. They are particularly prevalent where the township form of government is maintained. They are viciously burdensome where two county governments are supported where one would suffice. They retard progress and rob the taxpayer in states which maintain a dozen institutions to do the work of one. They take from the American people millions of dollars unnecessarily. Governor Roosevelt has given a specific illustration of a nation-wide folly.

WHAT'S IN FASHION?

Piquant Pique

Directed by AMOS PARRISH

SUIT OF PIQUE

NEW YORK, July 7—When you see an eager young person dash onto the tennis courts dressed in pique, you can lay your money on her win.

She wins, even if she loses the match. Because pique is a summer fashion winner.

Why is it? Certainly not because it's new. You've seen pique ever since you wor cit in the grade schools, though of course it's being used today in ways you'd never have thought of then. (Pique gloves for instance.)

It's more because of the air it has. Fresh as a daisy, always. Spick—and—span-ish (and we don't mean Spanish, because there's nothing less Spanish than crisp pique).

All you need do is to put a collar and cuff set of pique on your street dress or suit to get the idea. It has a piquancy that transformes the simplest outfit into an exciting costume.

Smart Pique Suits.

To put on a complete tailored suit of pique—and it's foshionable to do so—is as good for the summer morale as a gift of a million . . . nearly. It sets you up—makes you feel ready to go places and do things.

Suit piques are usually the fine wale French type. But wide wales are smart, too ,and you'll find lots of them in separate skirts and jackets that con be combined into a suit.

White or Colors.

They'er fashionable in white ... fashionable in pastels . . . and fashionable in a combination of white skirt and dark jacket.

Just a touch of pique is all some

PIQUE JACKET

costumes need to make them look new and different. A pique scarf to wear with your light wool suit. Or a blouse or vest of pique, very trim and tailored.

Maybe a wide pique belt to match up with a pique hat . . . because pique hats are fashionable, too, you know. Especially with pique or linen dresses.

New Waffle Pique.

Waffle pique is a new idea for hats . . . pique ribbed in square, small, waffle-like depressions. It's ued for other accessories, too—collars and cuffs, boutonieres and scarfs

Another new kind of pique, used in some smart sports dresses, is embroidered in dot in a contrasting color.

Bag and Gloves.

The handbag to carry with your pique suit or dress is, of course, of pique. And if the hand that carries it is covered with a flared top, slip-on glove of narrow wale pique, hand-stiched for decoration, so much smarter is the costume.

Yes—if it weren't for the fact that variety is the spice of life, you could just about make up a complete summer sports wardrobe from pique and be as fashionable as anybody.

But at least have a touch of it somewhere . . . one costume that makes you as piquant as the pique itself.

LITTLE DONE AT GRAIN MEETING

Steward Defends Action Of the Federal Farm Board.

SIDNEY, Neb., July 7—(AP)—Barely 300 western Nebraska grain dealers and farmers met here Monday, briefly discussed the grain market situation and adjourned. Those in charge had expected an attendance of approximately 1,500 persons from nineteen western Nebraska counties controlling more than a million acres of winter wheat.

Growers looked upon their meeting as a failure, and said their lack of accomplishing anything was due to a recent announcement of the federal farm board. They had planned, the grainmen said, to ask the farm board to set a basic price for wheat.

C. B. Steward, president of the Farmers West Central grain company of Omaha, upheld the action of the farm board, those in attendance said, and criticized the grain trade in general.

ACTION IN FALL CASE POSTPONED

Request for Immediate Jail Term to Be Heard Thursday.

WASHINGTON, July 7—(AP)—Justice Bailey of the District of Columbia Supreme court today postponed action in the case of Albert B. Fall until Thursday.

Government counsel had announced they would ask Justice Bailey today to order that Fall's sentence of a year in prison be carried out immediately. The hearing was put off because of other cases.

District Attorney Rover said an examination of a report of Fall's physical condition had convinced the government the former secretary of the interior was able to come here from El Paso to begin his term.

Fall was convicted of receiving a bribe from Edward L. Doheny in connection with the lease of a naval oil reserve during the Harding administration.

Refer Tax Question To County Attorney

Board Wants To Know If It Can Increase Valuation After Receipt Has Been Issued.

County commissioners Tuesday determined to ask the county attorney for an opinion as to whether taxes may legally be added to real estate after a tax receipt has been given.

The question came before the board in a complaint filed by Mrs. Myrtle Benham, 4133 South Forty-eighth street. In 1925 the board of equalization in assessing property belonging to Mrs. Benham in Grant precinct added $1,500 to the prior valuation to cover some buildings which had not previously been assessed. This $1,500 increase was also placed against the property by the county assessor's office for the year 1924, it is alleged, although taxes had been paid and a receipt given for that year.

The increase for 1924 has never been paid and Mrs Benham seeks now to have it removed as an erroneous assessment.

At its regular weekly business meeting, the board alo determined not to require the Missouri Valley Pipe Line to renew at this time its $10,000 bond posted to cover damages that might accrue while the company's pipes are being laid down. The present bond expires this month and the commissioners agreed that there is no necessity for requiring the bond at a time when the company is laying no lines. It was suggested that a new bond could be demanded at any time additional lines may be put in.

LUTHER LEAGUERS GO SIGHT SEEING

READING, Pa., July 7—(AP)—The last of the delegates to the national Luther league convention here, which closed last night, left today on a five day trip to Valley Forge, the historic Lutheran church at Trappe, New York, Atlantic City and Washington. There were over 100 in the party. The new president, Herbert W. Fischer, Omaha, in naming standing committees, placed Austin W. Howard of Frederick, Md., on the committee on amendments to constitution.

Invitation Renewed by Britain on Debt Meet

MacDonald Proposes Conference in London for Settlement of Technical Points.

LONDON, July 7—(AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald announced in the house of commons today that the British government has renewed its invitation to the powers chiefly concerned in carrying out the Hoover moratorium plan for a conference at London.

The purpose of such a meeting would be discussion of the points requiring consideration following the agreement between the United States and France.

Answering a questioner in the house, the prime minister said, "as already announced in the press, his majesty's government last week appoached the French and American governments with the suggestion that in order to hasten agreement over President Hoover's proposal, they were ready to hold a meeting of representatives of the powers chiefly concerned at an early date in London.

U. S. Willing to Attend.

"Both the French and American governments expressed their willingness to attend such a meeting if direct negotiations in the meantime were not successful.

"As you are aware, these negotiations now have resulted in an agreement in principle between the United States and France, but have left open several important points which will have to be discussed between the governments chiefly concerned.

"His majesty's government accordingly are renewing their invitation for a conference at London."

ITALY IN ACCORD WITH SETTLEMENT OF DEBT PROPOSAL

ROME, July 7—(AP)—The Italian government is in sympathetic accord with the Franco-American settlement reached at Paris concerning President Hover's moratorium proposal and is ready to approve it if called upon to do so.

"Italy accepted the Hoover proposal whole heartedly," a government spokesman said today, "and will accept the Paris agreement in the same spirit."

Italy is prepared to participate in any meeting which may be called to put the Hoover plan into practice, the spokesman said, adding that so far as Italy is concerned the plan already is in effect, for she notified her debtor nations last week that no payments would be expected from them as of July 1, although she is prepared to pay her own obligations if required to.

All the newspapers in Rome gave the Paris accord big headlines today.

COFFEE WITH IDEAL FLAVOR PRODUCED BY IMPROVED ROASTING

Patented Process Insures Perfect Roast for Every Pound of Hills Bros. Coffee

Roasting, as much as blend, is responsible for the fine flavor of coffee. In fact, ordinary bulk-roasting methods often fail to give the blend "a break." That's because bulk methods don't always insure an even roast. Hills Bros. invented and patented a process that overcomes this undesirable feature. It is called Controlled Roasting, for control is the principle of the process.

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow . . . a little at a time . . . so a perfect roast is procured for Hills Bros. Coffee by this patented process that roasts evenly, continuously . . . a little at a time. The speed of the coffee through the roasters is controlled. The temperature is controlled. These two things insure unvarying flavor—for the blend is never under-roasted nor over-roasted.

Remember that Hills Bros. Coffee can't go stale. It is packed in vacuum cans. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of these cans. Ordinary, "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. Coffee is always fresh. Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

HUNT PRESSED FOR ACTRESS

No Trace Found of Evelyn Wilson, Missing 23-Year-Old Girl.

Reported Seen Getting Into Taxi; Begin Dragging Hudson River.

NEW YORK, July 7—(AP)—Marine police began dragging the Hudson river today on the chance that Evelyn Wilson, missing 23-year-old actress, might have been slain and thrown into the water.

A report that the young woman had been seen getting into a taxicab near her sister's home from which she vanishded at 1 a. m., Sunday, is the only clue uncovered in the investigation of her disappearance. Roofs and cellars in the district neighborhood are to be searched by detectives, also that that part of Central park nearest her home in the possibility that, if murdered, her body might have been hidden.

Police were notified that Joseph Sheeran of Jersey City, Former fiance of the actress, who is said to have broken off the engagement at the request of her family, was prepared to give any aid he could.

Evanston Police Say Hoax.

EVANSTON, Ill., July 7—(AP)—Police of Evelyn Wilson's home city today dropped their investigation of the actress's disappearance in New York and labeled it a hoax.

Detective Lieut. Carl Ekman said her father, Harry Wilson, had produced none of the letters expressing fear of abduction which he said his daughter had written to him, and could not recall names of any suitors whose "ardent proposals she had spurned."

"It looks like the old junt of trying to get notoriety when jobs are source," Ekman said. "We have information she is alive, well and in safe hands in New York."

Ekman said the girl's parents had separated over their daughter's stage career, the father wishing her to drop it. Wilson is a postoffice emplove and a former stock company performer.

PRISONER MAKES SECOND ESCAPE

full report of his findings was ever revealed.

Claim Officer Impersonated.

The story was that a man had come to the jail and represented himself to Sheriff Greiner as a deputy from Holdrege. The sheriff, it was said, was called to the telephone or called away and while temporarily absent, the alleged Holdrege deputy and the prisoner, Besnah, disappeared.

This was during the first week in April. About the middle of May, State Sheriff Endres was informed by wire from South Dakota that Besnah was being held at Webster. The state sheriff notified Seward authorities and Besnah or Norton as he has been called more lately was returned.

County Attorney Matzke when questioned Tuesday afternoon, admitted that when Norton was returned from South Dakota, that he was lodged in the York county jail and held there under a magazine solicitation charge.

Jail Breaking Charge Filed.

Meanwhile a jail breaking charge had been filed against him at Seward. It was planned, Matzke said, after York authorities were through with Norton, to return him to Seward for arraignment and preliminary hearing on the jail breaking count.

County Attorney Matzke did not know how or when the prisoner escaped the York jail but said he had been notified by Sheriff Carter and Attorney General Sorensen.

The attorney general also acknowledged Tuesday that he had been informed of the escape, admitted that it was some time last week, but did not recall just when it occurred. He also revealed Tuesday that he had continued his investigation into Norton's original escape at Seward.

He refused, however, to disclose his findings in that affair, which he acknowledged were "peculiar."

After Norton was returned to Nebraska, the attorney general said, he was brought to the state capitol by Sheriff Carter where he was examined by the attorney general. Depositions were taken, Mr. Sorensen said.

Three men held up and robbed the Murdock bank of $1,250, tying the bookkeeper and a woman client into a vault before departing.

Dakota Farmers Fighting Hordes Of Grasshoppers

PIERRE, S. D., July 7—(AP)—Barriers of poison mash are being used to protect corn fields against grasshopper hordes in the Rosebud country as farmers, abandoning hope for their smal grain, make final efforts to save feed for winter use.

With 75 per cent of the small grain destroyed in some areas, the state changed to save corn to place strips of poison around the fields, in the opinion of Robert Shotwell, federal entomologist, stationed at Hamm.

In a letter to J. G. Tyler, state secretary of agriculture, Shotwell today described efforts to combat what is one of the worst grasshopper outbreaks in years. Unless farmers can protect their corn, the federal insect expert wrote, they will be without feed for their livestock this winter.

Government figures show that in 1930, 2,975,283 women were engaged in productive work in the Soviet union and that 107,000 took active parts in political work. The addition of 1,600,000 women to this number is contemplated for 1931.

Hundreds now act as judges and assistants in court proceedings and many occupy positions of importance in various government departments.

There are women militia, equivalent to municipal police, whose skirts alone distinguish them from their male companions. Uniforms, helmets, side-arms are the same. In Moscow, many women are operators and conductors on tramcars and autobusses. In the agricultural districts they are found not only in the fields but as drivers and mechanics of tractors. In the factories and on large construction projects the picture is the same.

to any extent, if at all, this year. Almost as much revenue will be required as for 1930; and with $100,000,000 lopped off the assessment the rate will have to be kept up to practically what it was a year ago —2.12 mills.

The capitol fund levy, however, will be .11 mill this year, or just half as much as heretofore, as the legislature cut the rate in two and made it run for two years, instead of continuing it at the same rate and finishing up in one year.

One encouraging feature of the returns, as viewed by State Tax Commissioner Smith, is that class B intangible are running only a small amount below last year. The tax rate on this class is 8 mills. On class A intangibles, which show a much greater decline, the rate is only 2½ mills, so that the loss of revenue on them will be smaller than if the big decrease had been on class B.

There is less shrinkage this year on either group of intangibles than was experienced a year ago. In 1930 class A decreased nearly $46,000,000 from the year before, and class B fell off about $12,750,000.

Precinct assessors are gathering intangible tax returns this year, under the new law which authorizes them to take the acknowledgments of property owners having such holdings. Formerly, all intangible tax schedules had to be filed direct with the county assessor.

AN AGREEMENT IS ANNOUNCED ON MORATORIUM

States outside its province to settle, had arisen. These were adjusted amicably to the satisfaction of each.

Each Side Yielded.

Each side yielded points. Details which will make the agreement finally effective will be worked out by experts. Their work will be technical in character, but they will be instructed to keep their results within the spirit of the Hoover proposal. In insisting on this instruction to the experts, the United States officials had in mind that the experts' decisions on method of procedure should not place burdens on Germany's treasury.

Weeks will be required, in the opinion of American officials, for the working out of the details.

Meanwhile, the state department turned its attention to points raised by other countries in submitting the approvals in principle to the American plan. Belgium raised the question of its special position with regard to reparations. Rumania raised the question of its loans. Greece was concerned about its reparations from Bulgaria.

Not So Important.

These and many other questions must be the subject of diplomatic discussions. These discussions will not be as important or delicate as those with the Paris government.

Practically all of the statements by the United States since the negotiations with Paris began had been issued by Acting Secretary Castle of the state department.

Castle and his co-adviser to the president in the negotiations, Acting Secretary Mills of the treasury, prevailed upon the chief executive to announce the accord personally.

Greatly fatigued by the strain of the day and night work of more than two weeks on the plan, the president smiled as scores of newspapermen filed into his private office at 4:30 p. m., yesterday. He immediately began reading a formal statement announcing the accord. Briefly, it said all important creditor nations, with the accord with France, had agreed in principle to his proposal.

Almost simultaneously on the other side of the Atlantic, Premier Laval announced the United States had accepted the French formula. The French formula followed the lines put forward by the United States in a memorandum handed Premier Laval earlier yesterday by Secretary Mellon.

Accord Is Signed.

PARIS, July 7—(AP)—An international agreement suspending payments on all inter-government war debts arising from the world war until July 1, 1932, was in effect today as a means of resuscitating the economic life of Germany and the entire world.

American and French delegates, after eleven days of stubborn negotiations, signed an accord shortly before midnight which accepted President Hoover's offer to defer remittances on inter-allied war debts for one year, providing Germany's reparations payments also were postponed. All other nations affected previously had signified their acceptance.

The protocol of the accord was initialed in the red drawing room of the ministry of the interior by Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and Ambassador Walter E. Edge, representing the United States, and by Premier Pierre Laval, Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, Finance Minister Pierre Flandin and other officials representing France.

As Mr. Mellon started to affix his initals the pen broke at "A. W." and Premier Laval smilingly handed him another. When all was done M. Laval grasped Mr. Edge's hand with emotion and Mr. Edge replied with a "merci beaucoup." Glasses of champagne and orangeade graced the conference table.

The text of the agreement lists the following chief stipulations:

1. Payment of intergovernmental war debts is postponed from July 1, 1931, through June 30, 1932.

2. Germany will pay the unconditional annuity of the Young plan to the Bank of International Settlements, which in turn will reloan it to her.

3. The suspended payments will be subject to interest and will be repayable in ten annual installments beginning July 1, 1933.

Premier Laval issued a statement pointing out that France had safeguarded her interests, but had extended the olive branch to Germany.

"It is an adhesion which consecrates a heavy sacrifice for our country," he said. "It will be understood that the government wished to maintain that Franco-American solidarity which is a condition of internatinoal co-operation more than ever necessary for peace.

"It will be observed that the government has not allowed France's sacred right to reparations to be limited.

New Era Should Open.

"If from the accord confidence is born again in the world, our gesture will not have been in vain. And if in Germany the bearing and sense of our generous attitude is understood, a new era should open for the two peoples."

Mr. Mellon and Mr. Edge collaborated on a statement expressing similar sentiments.

"The American negotiators express to the American public their happiness on this occasion," they said, "and their appreciation of the generous efforts of the French government to reach an agreement destined to rehabilitate the financial structure of the world."

Three points not affecting the United States are still to be threshed out by signatories of the Young plan and the world bank. These are: Measures to aid countries weakened by the suspension of payments, an understanding concerning the French guarantee fund, and Germany's liability for payments in kind.

France will undertake to obtain concerted action by European central banks, presumably working with the Federal Reserve bank, to aid central European nations which find difficulty in balancing their budgets on the basis of the plan.

TART GETS TWO YEAR TERM FOR FRAUD SCHEME

Arthur Tart was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary Tuesday afternoon by District Judge Fred Shepherd. He pleaded guilty about a week ago to having obtained money under false pretenses. A request by Tart for a parole had previously been denied.

Tart is alleged to have represented to a Myrna Robertson that he was forming a company and had put in $500 of his own money. She thereupon gave him $500, it was claimed, and Tart left the city. He was arrested May 11, and since has been held in the county jail.

OFFICIALS SEEK ELIMINATION OF OFFENSIVE ODOR

City and county officials were cooperating Tuesday in an effort to eradicate what was termed by them "an unpleasant odor coming from west of the city." Those who are working on the problem are L. J. Dunn and W. C. Frampton, trustees or Sanitary district No. 1; Dr. R. H. Sawyer, county physician; Dr. M. F. Arnholt, city superintendent of health; and E. M. Bair, head of the park department.

On a trip of inspection Tuesday morning the group went to the lake in Oak Creek park and other places to the west and northwest of the city. The lake was investigated, the claim having been made the odor was coming from there. This was denied, however, by some of the investigators following the inspection.

A report of the findings will be prepared and submiitted to city and county officials.

appropriation will be $50,000 for storm sewer extensions. This also will require a lower mill levy.

Calls For Estimates.

Mayor Zehrung Monday served notice that the budget estimates must all be in the hands of the commissioner in charge of finances, E. M. Bair, and the auditor, City Clerk Berg, not later than July 15. The finance commissioner and auditor are the ones who will bring the total within the amount which it is expected the council as a whole will be willing to approve.

For several years the City library board has been asking for increases, and this year is no exception. Extending the boundaries has increased the burden of the library, and there is need for more money, it has been pointed out. Last year the appropriation was $46,100, but this was reduced to only $41,500 by the 90 per cent provision. This year the board wants at least $10,000 more. That the request will be granted, in part at least, is certain.

Welfare Fund Sought.

Another claim for money which, if granted, will have a tendency to hold up the operating expense aggregate, is that of the Social Welfare society. Monday representatives of the organization called upon Mr. Bair with the request that an appropriation be made to liquidate a deficit that has arisen through unusual calls for aid during the unemployment period. Thus far none on the council has given an opinion as to what should be done.

In the budget for the present year Commissioner Bair, head of the park department, was allowed $83,500. Because of creating work during the unemplowment period this has been virtually depleted. Plans that were made for the summer had to be curtailed or cancelled. As a result it will cost more another year to get the parks in good condition.

Wants More For Parks.

Until a year ago the park department has always had a one mill levy. The amount allowed a year ago was less than this. For the coming year Mr. Bair will ask for the restoration of the mill. In addition he will ask for the proceeds of the concessions in the park, for park maintenance and improvements.

Mayor Zehrung has not indicated what he will ask for the police, and the other departments under his jurisdiction. It is unlikely, however, he will make a request for more money to operate the legal department, than was available for the year, just closing. The office will continue to function with but one attorney and a deputy, besides the secretary.

The mill levy for general operating expenses a year ago was 6.279. For all purposes it was 7.600. This provided an appropriation for taxation of $919,500, of which $825,730 was available for expenses. In addition there were unexpended balances from the previous year which increased the total appropriation to $1,107,790.

The increase in total assessed valuation this year over a year ago has arisen through the extension of the city limits to include Havelock, and increased real estate values in the city because of improvements. The aggregate is expected to reach $125,000,000.

ALL QUIET ON BANKING FRONT

Bryan and Bliss Still Disagree About Receiverships.

All was quiet on the state banking front Tuesday, with Governor Bryan and Clarence G. Bliss each "digging in" to consolidate their respective positions, as military phraseology has it, and throw up entrenchments against each other's shell fire. No communique was issued by either of them and the state banking situation remained unchanged.

Mr. Bliss called on Attorney General Sorensen during the forenoon, presumably for legal advice as to his rights and powers in the capacity of receiver for 200 failed state banks. Other lawyers have advised Bliss that as such receiver, he is entitled to the legal custody of books, papers, and funds of the banks, and that he is also responsible for them under his surety bonds.

Monday afternoon Bliss talked with Governor Bryan at the latter's office, but the two came to no understanding in their dispute. The governor refuses to let Bliss or his attorney, I. D. Beynon, take any of the records out of the office where they are kept or to have access to them for the purpose of administering failed banks. It is Bryan's contention that his director of banking, E. H Luikart, is the legal receiver for all failed banks and that Bliss is merely a "hired man" working under Luikart.

However, the governor has not as yet caused any formal application to be made in the various receiverships to have Luikart's name substituted as receiver in place of Bliss, who was the predecessor in office. All new receiverships started this year are in Luikart's name, but there are ten times as many which Bliss still retains.

F. C. Radke, counsel for the banking department appointed by Governor Bryan, and I. D. Beynon, acting as legal adviser to Bliss, continue to hold forth in adjoining rooms of the departmental suite, with the door between them closed.

Topeka and Oklahoma City played a doubleheader at night but had to called the second game in the seventh inning at 1 a. m.

LOCAL MEN HAIL MORATORIUM AS BOON TO WORLD

would improve our position in the world and benefit greatly thereby.

The moratorium, I think, may be a step in this direction. I hope so. As far as direct benefit to the west goes, we will feel it only after the first effects are felt in the east. Our prosperity depends on eastern production and distribution.

PROF. FRED MORROW FLING—There are distinctly two aspects to President Hoover's proposal for a world moratorium. There is to be considered the immediate economic situation and the position of world leadership in which America finds herself.

After having taken the lead in setting up political and judicial machinery on a world scale, America at last has come to the fore in an attempt to aid in solving a much more complex and vital world problem involving the economics of production.

Today I received the daily "El Sol" from Madrid, in which President Hoover's moratorium scheme is termed the most vital document coming from America since Wilson's famous fourteen points. It declares hopefully that the United States has departed from its traditional policy of isolation and is ready to assume leadership in international affairs.

It is folly to think we can go on in the future as in the past. Hoover's entrance into world politics coupled with the appearance in Europe of Mellon and Stimson have been almost revolutionary developments in our history. American entrance into the League of Nations undoubtedly will be hastened by this participation in international affairs.

In the economic readjustment which must come, great changes are inevitable. If the moratorium is to have any lasting significance, the best minds of the world must make an effort to organize the international economic chaos which now exists. Economically, the world is turned upside down. We have a year to right it. If nothing is done, more dire and painful results will be forthcoming than we have yet experienced.

While the United States is making a great direct sacrifice in declaring the war debt suspension, we must not forget that France also is making a great concession. We cannot reasonably blame her for her reluctance. She deserves the commendation of the world for her unselfish act.

GEORGE HOLMES—The debt suspension plan of President Hoover cannot help but have a tangible influence for good on the entire business situation from the world at large to our own Nebraska. It is the first step in the realization of the relation of the United States to world affairs.

Our policy of isolation will have to be forgotten in the changing situation the world is in at the present time.

The moratorium will not be a panacea for all ills but does indicate the trend of the times and will lessen considerably the time of acute depression.

I believe it may be a possible step toward a substantial reduction or cancellation of war debts. Certainly it has prevented a world crisis that threatened to carry us deeper into a depression that might have lasted a great while longer.

COL. JOHN G. MAHER—Nearly all nations today are like a drowning man. They are in desperate straits and they will grab at any straw that they believe will help them. If the moratorium will bring hope and confidence to the people even for twelve months, it may be a good thing.

There is no question that conditions are serious in all European countries, much more serious than in our own. Particularly is this true in Germany because of the reparations demanded of her at the close of the war.

I should oppose the moratorium if I thought it would lead to cancellation of European debts to America unless such a cancellation would be accompanied by a cancellation of reparations due allied nations and a substantial reduction of European armaments.

Our tariff wall is in need of repair and we should make necessary changes in light of international affairs. But for us to become embroiled in them would be disastrous. We have plenty to do at home.

The moratorium is simply prolonging the European debt. These nations should recognize that the war is over, remit and cancel their reparations, reduce their armies and navies, and all go to work.

J. E. MILLER—Over a long time period, the moratorium may help the United States out of its depression, but the fact that we are foregoing payments ordinarily due us immediately hardly will bring any prosperity at once.

The moratorium, however, is a step in the right direction. Europe is in need of help and some countries there are near collapse. But it will not, in my opinion, have any direct effect in this country, particularly in the middle west.

It may buoy up business in the east, which will be reflected here in the west. In fact, reports are that New England is already emerging from the lowest point in the depression and is increasing production.

I fear the only immediate result of the moratorium will be to inflate stocks and start an orgy of speculation on the same insecure foundation we rested on before the market crash.

More than a moratorium is needed to help business here. It will take more than a moratorium to boost the price of wheat and equalize prices in general.

W. K. PFEILER—The moratorium should improve conditions here as well as in Germany. But its need in Germany is much keener than here. A recent letter from my father stated that he was paying 800 marks taxes yearly on a 1,200-mark business. That situation cannot long exist without Germany's downfall.

With a moratorium, the whole economic life of Germany should be revived. She should be able once more to balance her budget. I think it likely and hope it will be the first step toward general reduction of reparation demands on Germany. Without such a reduction, Germany can never hope to survive.

When the United States rests such a high tariff, Germany cannot sell its goods here. Without money, Germany is forced to make payment in commodities, or in kind. She has nothing but the ability to work and the will to work. Practically all that is made goes to pay the huge war debt.

Thus Germany is prevented from becoming a good world customer, much as she would like to trade with the United States and other world powers.

T. B. STRAIN—The moratorium plan undoubtedly is the most constructive act of government in years. It already has shown conclusively that most of our trouble is mental and that the United States cannot be divorced from international affairs.

Of course it is no curcall, but it appears to me to be the forerunner to some of the greatest economic changes the world has known. They will involve a readjustment of the railroad situation, an upward swing in the interest rate, and a revision of the tariff, all of which I believe will come shortly.

The only direct effect we will feel in Lincoln will be psychological. But I believe that the revival of business generally is not far distant and that within two years the nation will be on a more solid economic basis than ever before.

Stocks to Advance.

Stocks are bound to advance, but they will no longer have their inflated values. America has learned a lesson. The only pure speculating will be in a professional market. Prices of stocks will be based on their possible earning power. They will not advance beyond that. No worse thing could happen than to build up again the false foundation to a stock market. It would precipitate a crash even more disastrous than the one from which we are now suffering.

Stabilization of our investments must be our watchword. That stabilization will come if the world takes advantage of this breathing spell and readjusts its economic standards and rebuilds its foundation on an international rather than a national basis.

War debt cancellation would help and I hope that the moratorium will lead in that direction. We will profit as well as the other nations by such action. We will make more through selling our merchandise than through money collections from our debtors.

G. O. VIRTUE—The moratorium has avoided the grave danger of a German collapse. It will have the effect of relieving the world economic crisis, but as to tangible benefits that will come to America, I am very uncertain.

It will give the world an opportunity to work out an orderly solution to the financial and business problems confronting it. But it does not involve the most fundamental economic factors as pertaining to the United States. There are other reasons besides international payments that have caused the general disjointed condition in which business finds iself today.

The moratorium proposal has prevented a collapse that would have had a disastrous effect the world over. But it has not solved the problem.

MORRIS WEIL—The moratorium had to come. Europe was eating up its head and Germany was on the verge of complete collapse. It was a great and constructive idea and only marks the beginning of a period of readjustment that will involve the United States in world affairs more than it has ever been before.

We know now that we must mix in international affairs if we are to prosper. On the surface we may see few immediate results of the debt suspension idea, but ultimately it will work to our benefit.

A readjustment of our tariff is among the things that must be done to restore prosperity. In this readjustment, which will be world wide, the United States must lead. We must get our feet on a solid foundation and build up a stable prosperity even if it takes two, four or five years.

There is, however, a noticeable let-up already in the straining tension of the depression and easier times are on their way. We will follow the east in gaining prosperity, but it is not far away.

Water Department Buys Bond Issue For Sinking Fund

Announcement was made Tuesday that the $22,420 in water district special assessment bonds which the city clerk was authorized Monday to sell, will be purchased by Commissioner Schroeder for the water department. They will become part of a sinking fund which has been created in the water department to pay off municipal bonds. The total $100,000, and these new bonds will bring the aggregate now in possession of the water commissioner to an amount sufficient to liquidate the debt.

WATERWAY PLAN AGAIN REVIVED

American and Dominion Envoys Hold Conference With Hoover.

WASHINGTON, July 7 — (AP) — Strong indications were evident in official circles today that Canada and the United States were making progress toward an agreement to proceed with the St. Lawrence waterway project.

Hopeful intimations that Premier Bennett of Canada would be willing to push forward the waterway project have reached the Washington government.

Hanford MacNider, American minister to Canada, and Maj. W. D. Herridge, Canadian minister to the United States, talked with President Hoover at the white house today, but there was no official statement as to the purpose of the visit. Acting Secretary Castle of the state department described the visit as of "no significance," but officials said it could be assumed that the waterway project was discussed.

The next formal move between the two governments would be a Canadian reply to an American note of last September asking whether the Ottawa government was ready to proceed with the project. Canada delayed replying until Minister Herridge could discuss the question with the American government.

Three Colorado Sections Report Freezing Weather

DENVER, July 7—(I.N.S.)—Freezing temperatures were reported today from three widely separated sections of Colorado. Gunnison, in the southwest; Leadville, northwest, and Estes park, national playground seventy-five miles west of Denver, reported the mercury at 30. The highest temperature in Denver yesterday was 70 and the official thermometer went as low as 54 during the night.

GLEN CASE TO LEAVE LINCOLN

Supervisor Vocal Music In Schools Goes to California.

Glen M. Case, supervisor of vocal music in the Lincoln schools, has resigned his position here to accept another as general music supervisor in a California city, it was announced Tuesday by the office of the superintendent of schools.

According to friends of Mr. Case, his going to California is due principally to the need for a change of climate for the benefit of his health. He was said to have been reluctant to leave Lincoln.

Mr. Case has been in California all summer. Several weeks ago he applied to the Lincoln board of education for permission to negotiate for a position on the coast, which was granted. The name of the town in which he will live is not known by his associates here, arrangements having been completed only in the last few days.

Mr. Case entered the employ of the Lincoln schools in September, 1927.

N. Y. STOCKS REACT AFTER EARLY JUMP

some of the private German banks were in an unliquid condition. The Berlin boerse, however, closed several points higher, and there was a strong tone on the Paris and London markets.

NEW YORK, July 7—(AP)—After a gesture of strength at the opening, inspired by news of the moratorium settlement, the New York stock market reacted substantially today, replacing initial gains of $1 to $3 with quotations that in many instances were $2 to $6 under Monday's close.

Wall street was hardly surprised by the downturn, since it had been widely predicted that the old advice about "selling on the good news" would be followed as soon as the debt matter had been cleared up. The sharp decline was accompanied by fairly active trading for a time, but the supply of stocks for sale gradually dwindled and the pace slackened.

Steel Slips Below Par.

United States Steel common broke more than $4 a share under its final quotation of yesterday, slipping below its par value of $100. The early gain had amounted to $1. There were losses of $5 to $6 in Allied Chemical, J. I. Case, Columbian Carbon, Atchison, Eastman Kodak and New York Central, while Bethlehem Steel, American Can, Union Pacific, Southern Railway, American Telephone, among numerous others, lost $3 or more.

Wall street was undisturbed by the abrupt about-face. It was pointed out that the strong recovery following President Hoover's first announcement of his plan in June had discounted the actual settlement of the negotiations, and that, for the time being at least, the market appeared to lack a further stimulant.

Boerse Prices Lifted.

BERLIN, July 7—(AP)— Although the psychological effect of the Hoover debt plan was mostly spent during the fortnight since it was announced, its reaction now that the negotiations at Paris have ended lifted prices on the bourse today high enough to wipe out a good part of yesterday's losses.

After initial gains, profit taking set in and stocks fell off a couple of points, but at the close and after official hours the tendency was well maintained.

Pressure on the money market was but slighty relieved and some disappointment was felt that the demand for foreign currencies still aggregated 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 marks to meet credit withdrawals, previously notified but not yet effected.

Firm Advances in London.

LONDON, July 7—(AP)—Buoyed by news of the war debt agreement at Paris, the London stock exchange today showed firm advances over Yesterday's close although profit takin g toward the end of the day caused prices to ease somewhat.

Internationals fell off a little from the best point of the day. German bonds closed slightly down from the best quotation of the day.

Heavy Buying in Paris.

PARIS, July 7—(AP)—News of the Franco-American debt accord was received on the bourse with great satisfaction and wide buying produced a general upward movement.

After first prices were fixed profit taking halted the rise and trading diminished gradually, but the situation up to the close remained better than yesterday.

Change Plans For Municipal Street Department Garage

A change has been made in the proposed plans for the erection of a new garage to house the street department equipment, which is to be erected near Nineteenth and Q streets on property recently purchased from the board of education by the city. Instead of extending the garage 130 feet along the alley, it now is the intention to build in an "L" shape. The wings will be sixty feet long on Nineteenth street and on the alley. At the same time the width will be reduced from seventy to sixty feet.

In the opinion of Commissioner Wright and the architects a structure of this design will make for greater ease in the handling of the equipment, and arranging the paint and blacksmith shops and the wash rack. It also will provide other entrances and exits, it is believed.

FUNERAL AT SEWARD.

SEWARD, Neb., July 7—Funeral services for John Homer Kahn who died Monday, will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday at the Adventist church here with Rev. B. M. Gutton officiating. Survivors Mr. Kahn are his widow, one daughter, Mrs. Herschel Zweigart of Des Moines, Ia., and two brothers. Mrs. Kahn is a Gold Star mother and planned to go to France this summer to decorate the grave of a son lost in the World war.

If the Tigers finish last in this year's American league race it will be the first time that city has trailed. The Tigers finished seventh four times, however.

WORLD FLIERS ARE CONGRATULATED BY COMMANDER BYRD

NEW YORK, July 7—(AP)—Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, who girdled the earth by air, today met the man who has flown over both ends of the earth, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd.

The meeting took place in the office of William H. Todd, shipbuilder, on whose yacht the fliers spent last week-end.

"I'm sorry I couldn't be at the field when you landed," Byrd told Post and Gatty. "I'll take this opportunity of congratulating you. I guess you must be pretty well tired out by now by all this.

"Thanks," Post replied. "It's getting worse all the time."

for reductions at specific points to meet truck competition.

At that time, a number of producers charged that the specific points would give the Lyman-Ritchey Sand & Gravel Co. a virtual monopoly, as most of the reductions were at their pits.

A similar charge of discrimination was made at the Tuesday conference, by other gravel producers, with the Lyman-Ritchey Co. again on the defense.

D. W. Swarr, counsel for the Schellberg Sand & Gravel Co., again directed the fire of other gravel producers. He charged the elimination of the absorption of switching charge would give preference to the Lyman-Ritchey interests as they had pits on every railroad and could move without switching.

As a specific example, his company, it was pointed out, would have to pay 10 cents a ton more under the emergency rates to move gravel from a pit near Fremont to Omaha than the Lyman-Ritchey company would have to pay moving gravel six miles further in the same territory, due to the fact that the latter would have no switching charge.

Protest against the elimination of the absorption of switching charge was also voiced by R. B. Steele of the Blue Valley Gravel & Sand Co., Fairbury, and Roger Merritt of R. H. Merrit & Sons, with a pit at Oreapolis.

Swarr and Julian Ball, representing the Allied Contractors, advised railroad representatives during the conference that reduced rates would not relieve them of truck competition, but would merely reduce revenues.

A number of speakers contended that constant changes in rate structures are undesirable and particularly, opposed elimination of the absorption of switching charge, claiming their business has been built expecting it to be maintained.

Trenmor Cone of Valley was the only outspoken man in behalf of a general rate reduction present at the conference. Others sought either special reductions or asked that no change from the regular rates be made for fear of upsetting competitive conditions.

There was also some objection voiced to the emergency rates on the ground that it favored specific points. C. E. Childe, traffic manager of the Omaha chamber of commerce, contended that it was unfair to have a 60 cent rate to Omaha and a 45 cent rate to certain points within the Omaha switching territory such as Ralston.

Harrison M. Smith of the traffic bureau of the Lincoln chamber of commerce, declared that Lincoln would oppose reductions being given at certain points unless they were made general.

The conference was presided over by C. A. Magaw, general counsel of the Union Pacific.

The cash balance remaining on hand July 1 was $3,551.

About 60 persons were aided during the period, receiving one to six payments each. The smallest individual allotment was $15 and the largest $245. O. W. Meier was paid $389 for his services in investigating and administering relief. The money is paid out on the recommendation of a committee of the United Spanish war veterans.

COUNTY ASKED PAY FOR APPEAL

Poteet Secks to Collect $100 For Defense Of Jack Scott.

For successfully carrying an appeal to the Supreme court on behalf of Jack Scott, convicted in District court of robbery with explosives in connection with robbery of the Denton bank, Attorney Marcus L. Poteet Tuesday sought to collect $100 from the county in a motion for attorney's fees filed in District court. Potcet was appointed counsel for Scott by order of the court.

The appeal was taken to the higher court after Scott had been found guilty of the Denton robbery at a jury trial and sentenced to twenty years in the state penitentiary. The Supreme court reversed the decision last May and ordered the case remanded for a new trial, declaring that there was a "substantial miscarriage of justice" in the procedure of the first trial.

Poteet received $100 for his services in defending Scott at the jury trial under appointment of the court. His request for a second $100 is for his services in preparing the appeal petition and brief and arguing the case orally before the Supreme court. Fees paid attorneys appointed by order of the court come from the county general fund.

At the first trial the jurors disagreed, nine favoring acquittal.

Marathon Runner Instructing Boys At Camp Strader

Fred Ward, marathon runner of the Millrose Athletic club, New York, took up training quarters at Camp Strader, the Y. M. C. A. camp, Tuesday morning for two weeks of intensive training in preparation for the Canadian championship long distant runs to be held at Toronto on August 8.

Ward was entered in the six-mile run at the A. A. U. meet. His specialty, however, is the twenty-six mile marathon which he won in the Canadian championship three years ago and which he hopes to capture again at Toronto.

He will live with the boys at the Y. M. C. A. camp for two weeks, during which time he will do from twenty-five to fifty miles of road work daily and will instruct the campers in some of the fine arts of long distance running. The Millrose Athletic club, of which Ward is a member, holds the championships in long distance running.

Other features of the third period at Camp Strader which opens Wednesday morning will be the visit of the Cosmopolitan club on Monday, July 13, for an evening program at camp, the Sunday morning address by G. W. Rosenlof of the state superintendent's office, music Sunday morning by the Aydelott eight, and daily morning addresses by Rev. Carroll H. Prouty, in which he will review the lives of William Penn, Jacob Rus, Frances E. Willard and other outstanding leaders in Christianity.

The closing camp fire of the second period will be held this evening at camp at which time awards and certificates will be presented. Charles Strader, chairman of the camp committee; W. A. Luke, general secretary, and Harvey Smith, boys' work secretary, and Fenner E. King, camp director, will present the awards. Camp is proving so popular that many boys are staying over from one period for another.

Bank at Catalonia is Closed by Depression

BARCELONA, Spain, July 7—(AP)—The Bank of Catalonia suspended payments today, attributing its difficulties to the economic depression. Its assets were listed at approximately $37,800,000, and its liabilities at $33,300,000.

In Barcelona financial circles great surprise was expressed at the announcement of suspension of payments by the Bank of Catalonia, one of the largest in Spain. Its suspension was regarded by Madrid bankers as a precautionary measure becuse of the present economic slump.

Creator of "Skippy" Saves His Son

Percy Crosby, famous creator of the comic "Skippy," published by The Lincoln Star, acted promptly when his son, Percy, jr., whom he is holding, was bitten by a snake on the Crosby estate at McLean, Va. The cartoonist cut open that wound in his son's arm and sucked the venom from it before the poison could spread. Percy, jr., aside from a scar, will have no ill effects from his experience.

TROOPS TO PUT DOWN DISORDER

Japanese Soldiers Sent To Scene of Chinese-Korean Killings.

TOKYO, July 7—(AP)—The war office today announced the movement of Japanese troops to the scenes of clashes between Chinese and Koreans which in two days have resulted in eighty-two deaths and hundreds of injuries. The soldiers were sent to co-operate with Japanese gendarmes in keeping order.

Fifty officers and men were sent to Pingyang, where sixty-two Chinese were slain Sunday and yesterday as mobs of infuriated Koreans ran wild. Thirty officers and men were dispatched to Chemulpo, where the other fatalities occurred.

Extra military guards were thrown about all army warehouses, magazines and armories in Korea. Tokyo officials said these had been taken as precautionary measures, although no large scale anti-Japanese movement had been reported.

The Japanese cabinet today considered the Korean outbreaks and was understood to have agreed that while the government has no national responsibility for the acts of the rioters, nevertheless the Chinese sufferers and families of those slain should be compensated.

FASCIST HYMN IS DISPUTE CENTER

Egon Ebert, Vienna Conductor, Resigns N. Y. Post Rather Than Play "Giovinezza."

NEW YORK, July 7—(AP)—Musical circles were stirred today on learning that Egon Ebert, conductor, native of Vienna and a naturalized American, had resigned his engagement for a series of New York concerts rather than play the fascist hymn "Giovinezza."

Ebert notified Paul Sydow, manager of the concerts, he would not play the hymn at the Friday concert in Mecca hall, which is owned by a Masonic organization, but rented to others.

Ebert said the hymn had nothing to do with an artistic program and, in addition, he sympathized with Arturo Toscanini, New York conductor, who refused to play the Italian anthem while on a tour in Bologna, and was physically attacked by fascists.

Sydow said that other conductors were only too glad to play the anthem and that one of the backers of the concert series has asked that the Italian hymn be included, and naturally it would.

Dr. Charles Fama, anti-fascist and a Masonic leader, said he would protest the use of Mecca hall for fascist propaganda purposes.

Mussolini's Brother Attacks Encyclical

Charges Vatican and State About To Reach Agreement When Pope "Spoiled It."

ROME, July 7—(AP)—Arnaldo Mussolini, brother of the premier, said in Popolo d'Italia today that the vatican and the state had just about reached an agreement on the catholic action controversy when the pope's encyclical "spoiled it."

He said the controversy rested on two points. The closing of the Catholic Action youth clubs and the education of Italian youth, and that the latter problem had practically been solved.

"The encyclical raised protests abroad but these protests actually were the fruit of aversion against Italy," he said, "many people love Italy as a garden spot but condemn her and hate her as a power."

The differences between the church and the state are common in countries whose relations with the church are governed by a concordat, he said.

N. Y. GAS PRICE CUT.

Q. How did Sing Sing prison in New York get its name?

A. It was named for the Sing Sing creek in Chemung county, New York. The origin of the name is not certain. Some authorities hold that it is an Indian term meaning "place of a stone." Others claim it was named for John Sing Sing, a friendly Indian.

Q. Who was Johnny Appleseed?

A. His real name was John Chapman. He was born in Springfield, Mass., in 1775. He claimed that his mission in life was to have apple trees growing in the western wilderness when the settler arrived. It is believed that his first nursery was in a narrow valley along the Ohio river, opposite what is now Wellsburg, W. Va. It is estimated that he set out more than 100 nurseries in the forests. Many of the finest orchards in the early days of Ohio and Indiana were compose dof trees bought from Johnny Appleseed. He would dig the soil and plant thousands of apple, peach and pear seeds. When he had built a fence of brush around the spot to keep away grazing animals, he moved on, and the arriving settlers would find and use the trees they could buy for practically nothing.

DOHERTY RAPS GOV. WOODRING

Utilities Magnate Denounces Effort to Reduce Gas Rates.

TOPEKA, Kas., July 7—(AP)—Gov. Harry H. Woodring said today his negotiations with Henry L. Doherty, utilities magnate, for lower gas rates in Kansas had been ended and that the controversy now would be fought out in the courts.

The governor said he would not reply to a telegram from Doherty attacking Woodring for the action of the Kansas ranking department in barring from sale in the state all Cities Service Co. curb stocks, except the company's first preferred issue.

Woodring has sought to obtain a reduction from 40 to 30 cents a thousand cubic feet in city gas rates charged to local gas distributing companies.

TOPEKA, Kas., July 7—(AP)—Denunciation by Henry L. Doherty of an attempt to force the Cities Service Co. to reduce gas rates in Kansas was studied by Gov. Harry Woodring here today.

The New York utilities magnate, in a telegram to the governor yesterday, placed on the Kansas City Star responsibility for an order issued last week by the Kansas banking department withdrawing its approval from all Cities Service curb stock except its first preferred, and barring such stock from further sale in Kansas. Both Woodring and executives of The Star declined to comment immediately.

The banking department temporarily has been restrained by the Shawnee county, Kansas, District court from putting into effect its order barring sale of the Doherty securities in the state. A hearing is set for July 13 in Topeka.

Action Called Vicious.

Doherty described as "nothing less than vicious" the action "in having your banking department issue without warning and without cause and immediately after and undoubtedly because we had failed to comply with your demand for a reduction in gas rates, the orders prohibiting the sale of Cities Service securities."

Doherty said Governor Woodring had "in some ways been peremptory and arbitrary." He announced that he had wired Postmaster General Brown urging that The Star be barred from the mails, and Robert P. Lamont, secretary of commerce, calling attention to what he called Governor Woodring's threat to throw certain Cities Service subsidiaries into receivership.

Governor Woodring recently asked the Cities Service Co. to reduce its gate rate from 40 cents for 1,000 cubic feet of gas to 30 cents. He announced last week that the negotiations had failed.

Star Issues Reply.

KANSAS CITY, July 7—(AP)—The Star, replying today to a telegram in which Henry L. Doherty, Cities Service Co. head, attacked Governor Woodring and The Star for a campaign in behalf of reduced gas rates in Missouri and Kansas, said:

"The public is not concerned with what Mr. Doherty thinks of Governor Woodring and The Star, or what Governor Woodring and The Star think of Mr. Doherty. What the public is concerned with is the extortionate rates it is paying for gas x x x."

BIDS ASKED ON SARATOGA ANNEX

Auditorium Addition Will Cost Between $15,000 and $20,000.

Bids for the auditorium annex to the Saratoga school were asked by the board of education Tuesday morning, and will be opened at 8:30 a. m. July 14. Final plans and specifications prepared by Meginnis & Schaumberg were approved. The construction is expected to cost between $15,000 and $20,000.

Claims for athletic goods totalling $114 by the Lowe and Campbell company of Kansas City were allowed, after prolonged investigation. The materials were purchased by Paul G. Delaporte before his dismissal as coach at Havelock high school, and were in part believed to have been unauthorized. A claim for $73.47 by the A. G. Spaulding Co., also involving Delaporte and the Havelock schools, was rejected pending adequate proof by the company that the goods were properly ordered and delivered.

On recommendation of its purchasing agent, the board also awarded contracts for paint supplies as follows:

800 gallon best quality wall paint, Martin Senour Co., $1.18 per gallon.
150 gallon first grade house paint, gray, Miller & Paine, $1.69 per gallon.
50 gallon, first grade house paint, Martin Senour Co., $1.73 per gallon.
400 gallon pure turpentine, Martin Senour Co., 55c per gallon.
200 gallon pure linseed oil, Miller & Paine Co., 69c per gallon.
300 gallon wall size, Sherman Williams Co., 1.90 per gal.
100 gallon white shellac, Cook Paint & Varnish Co., $1.65 per gallon.

Hoover Is Given Mass of Mail On Installment Plan

WASHINGTON, July 7—(AP)—Mail on the installment plan is the order of the day at the white house.

In order not to dismay the president with a display of the immense amount of correspondence that has piled up since he began negotiations on his war debt holiday two weeks ago, Mr. Hoover's secretaries are laying it on his desk in installments.

Scores of letters have piled up in the mail room to await presidential action. They are letters of a nature which only the president can handle.

BY RICHARD MASSOCK.

NEW YORK—Historically important are the "Memoirs of Prince von Bulow."

Furthermore, they are crammed with anecdotes, often amusing.

Bulow was in high office at Berlin in the years before the world war, during which he constantly was holding his emperor in check.

Called him to Berlin from diplomatic service in 1897 to become foreign minister, he rose to the post of chancellor in 1900. The first volume of his memoirs, now published in America, covers the period to 1903.

KAISER AND ROOSEVELT.

Kaiser Wilhelm II appears as rash, tactless and indiscreet, forever uttering sabre-rattling speeches or writing impulsive notes, some of which escaped the ministerial censorship.

"Theodore Roosevelt, the president of the United States, exercised a quite particular fascination over the kaiser," Bulow wrote.

"'That's my man!' he used to say ...He soon began corresponding with Roosevelt very much in the way he did with the czar.

"The kaiser was everlastingly warning Roosevelt against the scheming plans of the Japanese. He was convinced that war between Japan and the United States was unavoidable and imminent," although Bulow was constantly assuring him of the contrary.

WILHELM "NEURASTHENIC."

Bulow told Prince Hohenlohe the kaiser was perfectly sane, but neurasthenic.

He held that Germany was involved in the war by inefficient political leadership in 1914, mentioning especially Bethman-Hollweg's ultimatum to Serbia "and his clumsy diplomatic treatment of it."

References to Lord Lonsdale, over which the Englishman threatened suit, are in the American version with the publisher's note inserted in the English edition. The note reads:

"The following text printed in small type contains inaccuracies and certain serious misstatements which call for correction. It is totally untrue that Lord Lonsdale stirred up trouble and offense between the kaiser and his English uncle"; or that King Edward VII expressed the views attributed to him; or that Lord Lonsdale was a bankrupt."

Bulow wrote that Edward VII called Lonsdale "the greatest liar in England."

Murdered Man Is Believed Hijacker

CLEVELAND, July 7—(AP)—Detectives investigating the slaying late yesterday of Larry Rubin, 29, of Cleveland, whose body was picked up beside an automobile on a road near Parkman, expressed the theory today that he was shot down when he attempted to highjack a load of liquor.

John Farah, captured by a posse of farmers as he fled from the scene of the crime, was held as a suspect.

Post Only American Who Learned Fly After Losing The Sight Of One Eye

Natural Handicap Makes Him Careful Pilot; Globe Girdler Uses "Hunches" As Guide, Doesn't Smoke or Drink.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the fifth in a series of eight installments in a life story of Wiley Post. The previous installments told how this farm born youth followed his mechanical inclinations into flying, via the barnstorming route, and finally worked up to be chief test pilot at a west coast air factory.

BY LEON H. DURST.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press).

By the time Wiley Post had achieved his position as chief test pilot at the Lockheed airplane factory at Burbank, Cal., he had won something of a reputation as a flier.

One thing that singled the former farm boy out for attention was the fact that he became a flier after he had lost the sight of one eye in a machine shop accident. He is believed by department of commerce examiners to be the only licensed pilot in the country who learned to fly after losing the sight of one eye.

The medical examiner who examined Post when he obtained his license in August, 192, said the depth of perception of the remaining eye was excellent and that Post was physically well qualified to fly, recommending that he be given a license.

A special waiver was granted, that has been carried on in subsequent examinations.

This accident is believed to have made Post an extremely careful flier since he perhaps feels that any type of mishap might reflect on his faulty eyesight and result in the department's rescinding the waiver.

Flies On "Hunches."

Post is known to his friends as a very capable pilot, but one who often flies on "hunches." Although the weather may be perfect for a flight, if his "instinct" tells him that he should not, he absolutely refuses to go up.

His friends further say that he often flies by "sense of feel" and that on cross-country hops he would neither look at a compass nor at maps. Fortunately he did not rely upon this system on his world trip, for at times over stretches of the flight, the instruments or navigator Harold Gatty were all that saved the intrepid pilots from serious deviation from their course.

Wiley also is known as something of a "daredevil" although he has never been known to take any chances until the groundwork has been laid thoroughly.

Doesn't Smoke Or Drink.

Post is exceptionally thorough in his preparations for any undertaking. He neither smokes nor drinks because he doesn't believe such habits fit in well with good flying. He keeps himself in good physical trim at all times and although he is but 5 feet 5 inches tall none of the menial or physical tasks of flying tires him.

Russell Pecht, who worked with Post on the coast, points out that one of the most difficult things a flier faces is taking off a ship heavily laden with gasoline.

"When a plane is heavily loaded with gas it takes tremendous exertion to get the tail up," Pecht says. Only those who have taken 600 gallons of fuel off the ground in a ship like the "Winnie Mae" know how a man has to push on that stick. I've known pilots to take a Lockheed off with 600 gallons of gas and sit there in the cockpit for minutes after they are in the air almost exhausted."

Post knew what he was going up against and he prepared for it. Not by any special exercises or training, but by keeping himself in first class physical condition over a long period of strenuous flying.

(Tomorrow, Post and Gatty—A smooth working team.)

Duncan Sister Team Probably Will Never Show Together Again

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 7—(AP)—The Duncan sisters probably will not be seen together again on the screen or stage, Nils Asther, film actor and husband of Vivian Duncan, said today.

"Managers are after Vivian and Rosetta to appear together again," said Asther, "but I don't think Vivian wants to work any more on the stage or screen. She is a regular old fashioned mother."

Mrs. Asther and her daughter, Evalyn, are now in Paris.

Lost Dauphin of France Escaped To Canada and Had Son Who Lived In America, Florida Woman Says

CLEARWATER, Fla., July 7—(AP)—The lost Dauphin of France, son of the ill-fated Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette, was not a victim of the revolution, according to Mrs. Madeline Buchanan Gill, but escaped to Canada and had a son who was reared by John C. Calhoun.

The commonly accepted story is that the dauphin died in prison, but the version of Mrs. Gill, a social leader here, is based on documents of the late Princess De Montglyon of Belgium, whose estate is now in litigation in Tampa.

Mrs. Gill said that after the beheading of Marie Antoinette in 1794 the Countess Cabarras used her wiles on her lover, Barras, an official of the new republican regime, to smuggle the youth to Naples. Duc Davaray interfered and took the dauphin to a chateau near Paris from where he was subsequently spirited away by Count Charles Merry Arrenteau, an ancestor of the Princess De Montglyon.

Called Henry De Rion.

Disguised as a girl, the dauphin was taken to Holland by the count and then to Canada by the wife of the Duke of Orleans. The wife of the duke assumed the name of Madame De Rion and the Dauphin was called Henry De Rion.

As Henry De Rion, the Dauphin joined the British army, married Margaret Hunter in 1827, and died the following year, six months before the birth of his son, James Henry De Rion.

Through Count Argenteau, according to Mrs. Gill, Calhoun was informed of the dauphin's presence in Canada and later became guardian of his son. Meanwhile, royalists loyal to the pre-revolution regime plotted a restoration, first of the dauphin and then of the dauphin's son, but all their plans failed.

So the dauphin's son grew to manhood with the Calhoun family in South Carolina as James Henry De Rion, married Mary Catherine Wier at Harrisburg, Pa., on December 11, 1851, and died in Winnsboro, S. C., in 1866. Mrs. Gill said that historical societies there have records of his civic achievements.

Eklund In With Challenge to Ray Richards

Light-Heavy Titleist Confident Can Dump Big Fellow On Back

A Ray Richards-Clarence Eklund open air grappling joust at Landis Field looms in the offing and may qualify for a page in the record book—provided Ray's manager, Tony Stecher, accepts an Eklund defi and a licensed club, also promoter, comes forward to sponsor the bout.

That Eklund means business, despite the fact that the Wyoming cowboy would be compelled to spot the former Cornhusker footballer 40 pounds or more of beef, was in evidance today when F. R. McCarron, Lincoln traveling man and crony of Eklund, showed up Tuesday at The Star office and posted $100 in currency on Eklund's behalf.

Puts Up Hard Cash.

"Eklund is cocksure he can put Richards on his shoulder blades and so am I," McCarron said, "so here's $100 to prove that we mean business in issuing a challenge. We will have $400 more when the time comes and will risk the whole five hundred as our share of a side stake, and then make the match on the winner-take-all basis.

"We would like to wrestle the match this summer in Lincoln, as Clarence is planning another trip to Australia, departing this fall. With the single exception of his bout with Adam Krieger, I think Tony Stecher has been herding a lot of setups to go against Richards. Eklund has the same idea and will risk his own money, going winner-take-all, on his belief that he can concede Richards a chunk of weight and put him on his back. Here's the first hundred smackers, so let us hear from Tony Stecher."

Beat Buresh At Billings.

According to McCarron, Eklund has been rusticating on his ranch near Buffalo, Wyo., while taking an occasional whirl at the mat sport. Eklund's most recent match was staged at Billings, Mont., where he flopped Stanley Buresh, protege of the Stecher brothers, in straight falls. Buresh scaled at 206, while Eklund balanced the beam at 170.

"I'm telling you," McCarron said, "that Eklund is the only legitimate claimant to the world's light-heavyweight championship. Clarence won the world title three years ago in Australia, where he downed Ad Santel, known in Lincoln as Adolph Ernst. There are several claimants to the 170-pound crown, but Eklund can beat every one of the bunch and will post real money in proving it.

Clarence Better Than Ever.

"Eklund is an old head at the mat game, but is wrestling better than ever. Our offer goes for any 175-pounder in the world. That includes Krieger, but he must make 175 pounds ringside weight. However, Eklund wants Richards at the present moment and we are posting real money to prove that we mean business.

"Richards may come in at catch weights, because Eklund wants to show that he can go out of his class and beat most of the heavyweights. If Tony Stecher wants the match, let him cover our money. Getting a licensed club and promoter to handle the bout should be an easy matter."

Good Golf.

BY CHESTER HORTON, "Golf's Greatest Teacher."

There is usually the tendency, particularly among more experienced golfers, to creep forward on the ball. It always appears to them that they need to get more and more forward in order to keep the ball straight. Now this is usually accompanied for some strange reason by having the left hand much too far to the left in the grip. That may be the reason instead of the accompaniment. In any event this grip position will cause the club face to be turned forward and downward in the forward swing, and often smothers the ball and makes a golfer who has difficulty making the ball do anything more than roll along on the ground. This is the fault of pronating the left forearm. This forearm may roll some in the other direction, or to the right; it must never roll forward to any great extent than the exact reverse of its righward roll in the back swing. This pronating makes it most difficult for your hands correctly to control and guide the club.

Saints Top Crest of Victory Wave

CHICAGO, July 7—(AP)—Albert Leifield's league-leading St. Paul club today went into a four-game series with the in-and-out Columbus Red Birds and hoped the birds were having one of their "out" streaks.

The Saints were topping the American association race by three and one-half games, following a successful holiday campaign—the longest lead any team has had in several weeks—and hoped to make the stand against the Red Birds profitable enough to add to their lead. Columbus, however, was not rated as a push-over, for Nemo Ueibold's club has proven troublesome, especially against the first division teams.

Louisville, present occupant of second place, was down to entertain Kansas City for four days, while Milwaukee, third place holder, had Indianapolis as its opposition. Toledo was at Minneapolis for another four-game set.

The whole league was idle yesterday, scheduled games having been played off as part of the Fourth of July and week-end programs.

George Von Elm (left), the "business man golfer," and Billie Burke staged a great struggle at Toledo for possession of the national open golf title cup which they are shown holding. They tied at the end of the regulation 72 holes and again after one 36-hole playoff, necessitating a second 36-hole skirmish. Burke won the second play-off Monday by a margin of one stroke.

MAXIE ON WAY TO BERLIN HOME

Plans Enjoy Visit While Manager Dickers For Next Battle.

BY LES CONKLIN.

NEW YORK, July 7— Accompanied by Max Machon, his faithful trainer, Max Schmeling sailed on the Europa early today for his home in Germany and a well-deserved rest. If an attractive match can be arranged, he will defend his heavyweight title again in September.

The "Black Uhlan's" next opponent will not necessarily be the logical contender, if any, but the man who, in the judgment of Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, figures to draw the biggest gate.

"I think I ought to fight in September, instead of laying off for another year," Max said just before boarding the liner. "I'd like to meet the outstanding contender, but I'll fight anybody 'Cho' says."

Keen Eye for Cocoanuts.

"And you know I'll pick the guy who will draw the most cocoanuts," interrupted Jacobs.

"If we get Primo Carnera in September and the Sharkey-Walker winner next summer, everything will be perfect. We are signed to fight Carnera for the Madison Square Garden corporation on Sept. 17, at a site yet to be named, but Primo has failed to put up the $25,000 forfeit he was to have posted on April 15, and we don't know where we stand with him."

If a September match is arranged, Schmeling will return to this country about the first week in August. Probably nothing will be closed, however, until after the Sharkey-Walker scrap on July 22.

Talks of Million Gate.

Fistic observers figure Schmeling and Carnera would draw $600,000, in view of the champion's spectacular victory over Stribling last Friday. Jacobs thinks the gate would run close to a million if the match were staged in Chicago, Philadelphia or Jersey City.

"I personally believe Carnera is the best attraction of all the contenders," said Joe.

The Sharkey bugaboo no longer worries Jacobs, as the result of the 100 per cent improvement in Schmelinging. Joe was none too convincing in his praise of Maxie before the Stribling fight, but now he firmly believes that the champion can lick anybody.

Not So Good at Box Office.

WASHINGTON, July 6— Heavyweight Champion Max Schmeling is not going to prove the popular titleholder with Uncle Sam as was Jack Dempsey, or even Gene Tunnew.

Government receipts from Dempsey's final appearances made the tax collections on the Cleveland heavyweight encounter seem insignificant by comparison.

The tax on the paid admissions at the Cleveland fight was $75,705, compared with $242,065 paid by the late Tex Rickard on the seat sale of the stand Dempsey made to regain the title before more than 102,000 persons in Chicago.

Collect Half Million.

The total gate receipts for the three final fights in which the one-time champion participated amounted to $5,129,546, according to the government records, on which taxes were based. The tax colection was about $500,000. These fights included that at Philadelphia, where Dempsey lost the championship, his come-back fight when Jack Sharkey was knocked out and the final clash at Chicago.

Just how much the government has collected in taxes as a result of fights in which Dempsey participated is a matter of speculation. However, for the battles against Tunney and Sharkey it is estimated that the government colected around $1,500,000, including the tax on gate receipts and income taxes on the fighters, promoters and others who shared in the profits.

Birdmen Knocked Over by St. Joseph

The St. Joseph Saints, in first place in the Western league standings earlier this season, blasted away at the Wichita Aviators, present league leaders, yesterday to gain a 14 to 11 victory.

The Saints unleashed a rampage of batting in the eighth inning which netted them eight runs and which wore heavily on the offerings of three Wichita hurlers. The victory gave St. Joseph an even break in the four-game series.

The Denver Bears, apparently in a savage mood, fell upon Pueblo in a night contest at Denver to win a 17 to 1 decision. The Bears annexed 23 safe hits and the Pueblans were forced to use three moundsmen. Greer pitched a steady game for Denver, allowing only six hits.

Packers Easy For Demons.

At Omaha, the Des Moines Demons won their sixth straight game from the Omaha Packers last night by taking the series finale, 9 to 4. Making one run in the fifth to break a 3 to 3 tie, the Demons bagged the game in the sixth with four runs. Cronin, Swanson and Niggeling hit homers for Des Moines.

Oklahoma City and Topeka struggled 11 innings at Oklahoma City last night. The Indians finally succeeded in nosing the Senators out by a 3 to 2 score. It was the Indians' fourth victory of a five-game series.

$15 Tops for Gotham Bout

NEW YORK, July 7—Prices for seats at the Jack Sharkey-Mickey Walker bout in Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, July 22, will range from $2 to $15, it was announced today. The distance will be 15 rounds.

Walker will train at Orangeburg, N. Y., and Sharkey at Pompton Lakes, New Jersey.

Nunamakers Trim Dukes In Only Monday Game In State Loop.

Lincoln made it three victories in a row over York Monday night as "Strikeout" Hagen pitched the Links into a 5-1 win over the Dukes. Hagen gave the Dukes only six hits and fed the air to nine York batsmen.

The Nunamakers chased Rugg in the second, when they hopped on the York twirler for four singles and three runs. Railsback, who finished the game for York, was touched for two runs in the seventh. Railsback's homer in the eighth accounted for the York score.

Tuesday was moving day in the Nebraska state league, with North Platte appearing at Lincoln, York at Norfolk and Grand Island at McCook. Monday night's score:

Playboy Baer Prepares Wed

RENO, Nev., July 7—Although he did not win his 20-round prize fight with Paulino Uzcudun, Max Adelbert Baer, the "Pride of Livermore, Cal.," did win a prize in the way of a wife, it was revealed here today with the announcement that Max and Dorothy Dunbar Wells, former film beauty, will be married here tomorrow.

Miss Wells, who stayed away from Reno at the orders of Jack Dempsey, preceding the battle, so as not to distract Max in his training activities, came here immediately after the fight.

Open Title to Burke After Tense Duel In Conquering Von Elm

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

TOLEDO, O., July 7—Billy Burke, the courageous ex-caddy of Greenwich, Conn., who won the most dramatic national open golf championship in history, after a sensational 72-hole play-off with George Von Elm of Los Angeles, was hailed today as a worthy successor to the illustrious Bobby Jones, whose crown he now wears.

Burke's epic victory, the hardest ever earned in a major tournament, demonstrated beyond all doubt that he was the class of the field of 150 entrants who so hopefully started out last Thursday in quest of the glory that goes with the winning of a national open. He had to have class to conquer a field that included Von Elm, Leo Diegel, Bill Mehlhorn, Gene Sarazen, Walter Hagen, Wiffy Cox, Macdonald Smith, Mortie Dutra, Al Espinosa and Johnny Farrell, to say nothing of the foreign stars who fell by the wayside.

Soared to the Heights.

Many a year will pass before the pros in their locker rooms, the sports writers and the run-of-mine golfers cease to discuss the sensational 72-hole play-off that Burke was forced to go through to settle his right to the crown. It was something that never has happened before and probably will never happen again.

Burke rose to the heights when he ultimately conquered Von Elm by the slim margin of one stroke yesterday evening in the second 36-hole play over battle-scarred Inverness. They had been tied Saturday evening at the end of the regulation 72 holes of championship play at 292 each, two strokes ahead of Leo Diegel.

Twice In Deadlocks.

They played a 36-hole play-off Sunday and when they holed out at the final green they still were deadlocked at 149. So yesterday they started their second 36-hole play-off and the match had to go to the thirty-sixth hole before the issue was decided, with Burke turning in a card of 148 and Von Elm 149.

When Burke and Von Elm shook hands on that last Green, Burke had a grand total of 589 strokes for 144 holes, and Von Elm 590. No two golfers in all history had staged such a close and unrelenting battle.

Burke's game was a trifle more consistent than Von Elm's. The latter was brilliant, but erratic at times. Burke recorded only three sixes throughout the entire championship. He played steady and brainy golf and his poise was superb. Von Elm was decidedly more temperamental, but that could be well understood, considering the tremendous pressure the two men were under Von Elm Superb In Defeat.

Unstinted credit must be accorded Von Elm. He was superb in defeat. He demonstrated he is one of the best "money players" in the game by three sterling performances, namely: First, when he shot a birdie three Saturday afternoon to tie Burke at 292; second, when he shot four successive birdies Sunday to stay in the running in the first 36-hole play-off; and, third, when, on the final green Sunday afternoon, he shot a birdie to tie Burke with 149 and force the playing of another 36-hole round.

Burke whose real name is William Burkowski, is only 29 years old, and undoubtedly has a great future in golf. He is a phlematic appearing chap, well built, dark complexioned and black haired. He is quiet and unassuming and is tremendously liked by his fellow golfers. His victory was immensely popular with his brother golfers.

"I sure feel good," Burke frankly told an interviewer. "It was hard work, but George and I certainly had a good match."

Understands Bobby Now.

Burke said he can now appreciate how Bobby Jones feels about competitive golf. After a few days' rest, however, Burke will get those clubs of his out and shoot a round or two. He loves golf too well to stay away from it for any length of time. He said he might "pick up" a little money in exhibition matches.

First of all, though, he is going to take his wife on a vacation. Mrs. Burke, a petite, dark-haired woman, followed her husband around every hole. And, incidentally, Mrs. Von Elm, pretty and titian-haired, was in the gallery, too, rooting for her husband.

"It's a peculiar thing," said Burke today. "I didn't lose a pound. I started in the tournament weighing 165 pounds and that was my weight when I stepped on the scales after the match was over."

Polish Antecedents.

Burke is a professional at the fashionable Round Hill Golf club at Greenwich, Conn. He was born in Bridgeport, Conn., and is of Polish descent. He formerly worked as a mill worker. It was while working in the mill that he lost one of the fingers of his left hand.

He smokes cigars while playing competitive golf. He must have smoked 50 during his long battle with Von Elm. He would light one, smoke it for a shot or two and throw it away. This procedure continued throughout the sensational 72-hole play-off.

That "Happiest Mother."

NAUGATUCK, Conn., July 7 — "I'm the happiest mother in the world."

That was the comment today of Mrs. Peter Burkowski, mother of Billie Burke, winner of the U. S. open golf title on the victory of her son.

Billie's ma heard the news, with his father, over the radio.

Mrs. Burkowski remarked that she never saw her son play golf, but that she would at the next opportunity.

"I didn't like it when Billie first started to play golf," she said, "but he was such a hard working boy and he got so much fun out of those clubs, that I left him at it. And now he's champion.

"I never knew so many people liked golf. There must be something to it if 6,000 persons will follow Billy around to see him win the championship. I'll have to see for myself when he comes home."

Nutmeg State Claims Him.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 7—(AP)—Billy Burke, new United States open golf champion, is the second Connecticut boy to hold the title. Gene Sarazen, who won the open in 1922, came from this state. Burke, whose family name is Burkowski, worked after he was 14 in a Naugatuck iron foundry. Saturdays and Sundays he picked up extra cash by caddying at the Naugatuck Golf club, a mile from his home, wher some of the players were attracted by his fine shots.

In 1923, a group outfitted him and sent him to the state amateur championship competition at Eastern Point, where he was medalist and runner-up to Henry J. Topping, one of the notable players of the state. Topping took a great liking to the lad and began to plan his future.

First Job as "Pro."

The following winter, a place as caddymaster was found for him in the south. The next summer he was the first pro at Mattatuck Golf club in Waterbury. After two years, Topping placed him in Portchester, N. Y. A season there, another at Lake George, two winters at Bellair, Fla., and Burkowski, who had taken the name of Burke, began to display his golfing ability. He made three winter trips along the Pacific coast and through Florida. He won the La Gorce open and the North and South open. He also won the New York state open a week before the 1930 national at Winged Foot.

Burke's brothers, Eddie and Peter, also are professional golfers.

Morrison Champion North Shore Golfers

JUMBO JIM HAS DODGERS JINXED

Discarded Pitcher Hangs Up His Fifth Win Over Brooklyn.

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.

NEW YORK, July 7—(AP)—It still a matter of conjecture whether the Brooklyn Robins got the better of the deal whereby they parted with Jumbo Jim Elliott and two other players in exchange for Lefty O'Doul and Fresco Thompson.

At any rate, it would appear that the jovial Uncle Robbie made a tactical error in turning Elliott over to a club in the same league. Since joining the Phillies the big fellow has pitched fine ball against all comers, but he has been particularly poisonous to his former mates. But for the treatment they have received at Elliott's hands, the Robins would be in the thick of the National league pennant fight today.

Fifth Defeat of Robins.

Facing his former pals yesterday for the seventh time this year, Elliott turned in his fifth victory over the Flatbush Flock 5 to 3. He held them to six hits, four of which came in the last three innings, four of which came in the last three innings, and was their master all the way.

Hal Lee, who accompanied Big Jim to Philadelphia, also took a healthy clout at his former comrades in the form of a home run with one on. Buzz Arlett drove in the other three Phillie runs with a home run and a double.

There seems to be a jinx, incidentally, against the Robins winning six straight. Yesterday marked the fourth time this season they met defeat after a run of five consecutive victories. The reverse cost them a virtual tie with the Giants (Giants for third place) ... hold the McGraw men ... at Boston.

Sailor Sharkey Hurls Defi at Champion Max

Boston Gob Promises Give German Fellow Good Beating In Ring

BY EDWARD J. NEILS.

NEW YORK, July 7—(AP)—Jack Sharkey, big, brown and belliscose, banged on the dinner table in his hotel so that the dishes rattled and the waited jumped in alarm.

"I'll keep fighting," he growled, "until I get that Schmeling in the ring with me again. Then I'll give him the beating of a lifetime.

"He doesn't want to fight me again and, in one way, I don't blame him. He knows he'll get licked. But, sooner or later, he'll have to meet me again, and when he does..."

Starts Train For Mickey.

The pale blue eyes of the Boston sailor man flashed fiercely. He scowled and glared at his clenched fist. There will never be any trouble for any promoter engaging the Sharkey half of a match with the German, who won their first meeting, and, along with it, recognition as a champion, on a foul in four rounds, after being soundly trouced in the first three.

Sharkey came to town yesterday to sign articles and start training for his 15-round match with Mickey Walker, the former middleweight champion, in Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, July 22. A few hours later, Schmeling, hailed as a true champion, after knocking out Young Stribling in the 15th round of their title go in Cleveland, the night before the Fourth, sailed for Germany. He will return in August, probably for a September fight with Primo Carnera, the Italian giant.

Picks Carnera Beat Maxie.

"He'd better not fight Carnera," Sharkey said. "The Italian will pound him down like sauerkraut in a barrel. Schmeling starts slow. Carnera starts fast. He'll club the German down before Schmeling gets going. Anyway, I understand Schmeling is afraid of Carnera and wants to fight Tommy Loughran instead."

Sharkey was not surprised that Schmeling whipped Stribling so badly in Cleveland. He was shooting off fireworks for his own children and all the offspring of teh neighbors at Bow Lake, in New Hampshire, when the fight came in over the radio. He was too busy to listen, but his wife told him what happened.

Figured Strib Fold Up.

"It was just what I expetcec." Sharkey said. "I knew Stribling would fold up the first time he was pressed. And that's what he did."

Sharkey, weighing about 202 pounds, expects to scale 198 for Walker, an evergrown middleweight who probably will weight no more than 170. Sharkey can't see how this bout can even be a contest, but tehre's money in it and that's one of the most interesting things about the boxing business.

"Before I get through this year," he announced, "I want to knock out Walker, Loughran again and Carnera. There'll be no question then about who's to fight Schmeling next year."

Mathews Wins From Mexican Flyweight

SIOUX CITY, Ia., July 7—Harold Mathews, Lincoln flyweight scrapper, gained a newspaper decision over Reyal Villa, Mexican fighter, in an eight-round bout at Riverview park Monday night. Mathews and Reyal previously had fought to a draw.

A crowd of 3,000 spectators saw the bouts.

Wasted Sympathy.

Just why there should be any special sympathy for Connie Mack's plight in being obliged to worry along with only three great pitchers is not exactly clear.

It is true that about every fourth or fifth game Mr. Mack has been obliged to insert some one named Mahaffey, or Shores or Rommel or McDonald, usually with the result that the A's take a pasting.

At times, one of the Big Three, Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg, wobbles sufficiently to lose a ball game, which is even more distressing to the venerable leader and perhaps just cause for a public feeling of alarm.

Scanning the Figures.

Up to around the end of June, however, the figures that the Sunday papers publish at the behest of the figure-compilers showed that Messrs. Grove, Walberg and Earnshaw had won 37 of the first 45 victories scored by the world's champions, while losing only eight of the 18 games in which the A's were set back up to the time of this profound study.

The point of this, therefore, is that if the A's lose their crown to Walter Johnson's hustling Senators, it will not be due to the distressing scarcity of first-class pitchers in the ranks of the champions. It will be due to the greater scarity of first-class infielders, plus a slump superinduced by the absence of Mike Cochrane.

The A's infield looked worn with age, outside of the robust Mr. Foxx, in training last winter and it has gotten no better in the heat of midsummer.

Chicago's "Big Three."

Ferreting further into the aforesaid figures, we took due note of the fact that the Chicago Cubs, though leading the National league by quite healthy margins in club fielding and batting, stood no better than third in the pennant race.

Naturally this led to a suspicion that the Cub curvers were not doing quite right by Messrs. Wrigley, Veeck and Hornsby.

We found that the three men who might be figured to compare in reliability to Grove, Walberg and Earnshaw of the A's, namely, Bush, Root and Malone, had contributed exactly 17 victories, against 10 defeats, to the Cub campaign up to and including June 28.

If these one-time mainstays get back to the form that their employers have reason to expect, the Cubs will have a good chance to overhaul the Cardinals.

Cub Bad Boys.

On their last eastern trip, two of the Cubs, Hack Wilson and Ralston Hemsley, star young catcher, were disciplined and benched by Manager Hornsby by staying out too late nights. Pat Malone's behavior, it is understood, also has displased.

Altogether, the Cubs haven't been quite the happy family they might be, despite Hornsby's reputation for dealing out justice impartially.

No doubt the stories of dissension have been exaggerated. They usually are, just as the golfing tales expand and become embellished in the locker room. Nevertheless, it seems a lack of harmony, as well as poor pitching, has cost the Cubs a number of percentage points.

SENATORS SET TO TACKLE A'S

Washington Club Primed Give the Champions Run for Money.

WASHINGTON, July 7 — (AP) — Washington and Philadelphia dug in for a finish fight today, after yesterday's scoreless tie forced an extra game for tomorrow.

Connie Mack was ready to call on his ace, Grove, for the third game today, while Walter Johnson had Crowder, another right-hander, primed for the fray.

Johnson was quick to order the play-off of yesterday's tie for tomorrow, after he had defeated Earnshaw in the opener and used up Philadelphia's other member of the "Big-Three" yesterday, Walberg. He will have most of his regulars ready for duty by Wednesday, including Lloyd Brown, Bob Burke and Carl Fischer.

Rain ended yesterday's contest in the eighth, to the disappointment of 15,000 fans. Cronin was on second at the time and West was at bat, with one out. Hadley and Walberg had pitched on about even terms when the downpour came.

Yesterday's Stars.

Jimmy Collins and Wally Roettger, Cardinals—Their successive doubles in ninth beat Cubs, 6-5.

Vic Frasier, White Sox—Struck out nine and held Browns to five hits as White Sox won, 5-3.

TWENTY GRAND ON SHELF FOR YEAR

NEW YORK, July 7—(AP)—Twenty Grand, Mrs. Payne Whitney's three year old champion, probably has run his last race of the year.

The big bay colt wrenched his back in winning the Dwyer Stakes at Aqueduct Saturday and after an examination, Trainer James Rowe announced he would not send the colt to Chicago for his Arlington Park engagements. The injury is almost certain to keep the Whitney star out of training until after the Saratoga meeting in August and in all probability, for the remainder of the season.

The injury appeared after the Dwyer, which Twenty Grand apparently easily won. His time of 2:34 2-5 for the mile and one-half was five seconds short of the track record, but it was believed the son of St. Germans could have traveled much faster had it been necessary. Later developments showed, however that he was laboring through the entire journey, despite the fact he was under double wraps.

Betting Forbidden, So Racing Suspends

SALEM, N. H., July 7—(AP)—Court action against the certificate betting system has, for the second time in a quarter century, closed a race meeting at the Rockingham park track.

The New Hampshire Breeders' association was forced to call off racing at the end of the fifth day of a scheduled 34-day meet because daily operation costs could not be met by gate receipts.

The breeders' association ordered the closing after their representatives and delegations of citizens from cities and towns surrounding the track made an unsuccessful attempt to persuade Attorney General Ralph W. Davis to take some action that would permit the track to continue operating its betting system.

Pugilist Accused Of Kidnaping Girl

PHILADELPHIA, July 7—Midget Wolgast, flyweight boxing champion of the world—so rated by New York and Pennsylvania—was to appear for a hearing today on charges of a 19-year-old Atlantic City girl. Upon the result of the hearing depends whether the little pugilist will obtain his freedom from Moyamensing prison and resume training for his scheduled bout with Ruby Bradley at Brooklyn next Friday night.

The girl, Rose Manara, told police she had been picked up by Wolgast, brought to his apartment here and kept a prisoner by the boxer and two of his friends, Joseph "The Flash" Farina and Louis Piralli, both of this city.

Jack's Fight Earns Profit

RENO, Nevada, July 7—While apparently a fiasco from the standpoint of producing a contender for the heavyweight championship, Jack Dempsey's Reno prize fight was a financial success, the former champion announced today.

The total receipts were $79,666.20, paid by 12,423 persons. Of this amount, $70,180.20 was paid by the 9,261 persons who sat in the arena, the remainder coming from the 3,162 who paid $3 each for grand stand seats.

Paulino Uzcudun received $18,060.60 for his share, while Max Baer got a check for $14,045.50, and the government took $9,885 in taxes.

Dempsey announced that the fight had made a small profit, in addition to paying for the $14,000 arena.

Clay Court Title to Western Pair

ST. LOUIS, July 7—Two deep driving, hard smashing, sharp volleying young tennis players from California today are the new national clay courts doubles champions.

Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill, the Pacific coast pair, who were ranked fifth nationally last year, attained their new honor yesterday, but only after the bitterest kind of battle with the two Texans, Bruce Barnes and Berkeley Bell.

Vines and Gledhill, mostly because of Vine' uncanny steadiness and powerful driving on both the fore and back hand, finally took the verdict in four sets, 6-3, 7-9, 10-8, 9-7.

Vines on Sunday won the singles title by defeating his doubles partner, Gledhill, in straight sets.

Following the doubles final, Berkeley Bell won a one-set exhibition match from Wray Brown, 9-7.

This Game of GOLF

BY O.B. KEELER

Cranial Reduction.

Dick Hanley is football coach at Northwestern university, and he looks a good deal more like James J. Jeffries than Mr. Jeffries does, himself, if you get what I mean. Mr. Hanley thinks quite a lot of himself as a golfer, especially as a long hitter. At least he did think a lot of himself until the day before the recent Ryder cup match at the Scioto Country club, Columbus.

Since then, I believe, no one has heard Mr. Hanley express himself with any particular coherence on the relativity of his game and particularly his driving to the game and driving of anybody else, more especially that of a gentleman named Hall.

Hanley the Hitter.

It was something like this:

The afternoon before the Ryder match, there was an affair known loosely as the American Johnny Walker Cup One-Round Medal Play Tournament Against Par, With Handicaps Applied or, Rather, Deducted.

Now, Mr. Hanley really is quite a long walloper. He is so much longer than the fellows with whom he plays habitually that he has come to esteem himself an even longer driver than he really is. And some of the Johnny Walker cup committee decided it was time to readjust his perspective.

So when Mr. Hanley presented himself to play in the J. W. C. event along with Gene Tunney, Bobby Jones, Frank Craven, and other celebrities, Mr. Hanley's foursome included, besides Harold Olsen of Ohio State university and a Fourth Estater whose name sounds like Harrup, though I do not guarantee the spelling, a sawedoff, ducklegged little fellow who was introduced to Mr. Hanley as Mr. Hall, a banker of Birmingham, Alabama.

This of course meant nothing to Mr. Hanley, or even less than that. There was a good-sized gallery about the first tee, and that meant that Mr. Hanley was going to put his powerful back into his opening drive and give it a ride. He did. It was a whale of a shot.

Hall Socks One.

Then Mr. Hall stepped up, teed his ball carelessly, gazed down the fairway for a casual moment, and let fly.

Mr. Hanley, shocked by the vicious sound of the impact of persimmon against balata, gazed after the ball, gradually stretching his neck as the ball continued to travel. It eventually stopped opposite the second small tree on the left of the first fairway at Scioto. It was 303 yards from the tee. Also, it was some 50 yards from Mr. Hanley's ball, on the side toward the green.

Mr. Hanley played nine holes in a sort of trance, wondering if there were any more bankers like Mr. Hall in Alabama.

He then discovered that Mr. Hall's first name was Charlie; that he was president of the Professional Golfers' association of America, that he was professional at the Country club of Birmingham—as well as a Birmingham banker—and that for the last 15 years he had been rated one of the longest drivers in the world.

Red Birds Down Cubs and Tighten Grasp On Top Position In Race

BY COPELAND C. BURG.

NEW YORK, July 7—Storm clouds in the path of the St. Louis Cardinals started to break up today and it began to look like John McGraw and Wilbert Robinson will change their shirts several times before the Red Birds are headed, if at all.

The Cards soon swing to Sportsman's Park and as they generally do very well at home, midsummer madness is quite likely to see them still pushing the dust over the in-and-out Giants and Robins.

Champs Pull Garrison Finish.

The National league champions showed some of the fighting spirit that got them that way, when they staged a Garrison finish Monday to overcome the collapsible Chicago Cubs in the ninth and win, 6 to 5. The victory gave St. Louis a four-game lead over New York.

When the final inning opened, Adams, the infielder the Cubs got rid of for no good reason, coaxed a walk off Bob Smith, who managed to dispose of the next two batters. Two men out, then, and the Bruins had the old ball game won, 5 to 4. But Collins, Cardinal first baseman, doubled to center, scoring the ex-Cub, Adams, and Roettger settled the thing then and there by whacking another double to left, scoring Collins.

Jumbo Jim Stops Brooklyn.

Jumbo Jim Elliott, a Brooklyn castoff pitcher, humbled his former teammates, Philadelphia setting the Robins on their heels, 5 to 3. Elliott gave his old pals only six hits and homers by Buzz Arlett and Lee helped him on the offensive. It was Elliott's eleventh triumph this season and his fourth over Brooklyn.

Joe Cronin was whooping it up on second base in the eighth inning when the Washington-Philadelphia game was called on account of rain with the score 0 to 0, and Hadley and Walberg in a hot hurling setto. The tie left the Senators four and a half games back of the A's.

Hudlin Holds Detroit.

Hudlin allowed Detroit nine hits, but Hogsett and Herring were good for 14 blasts and seven bases on balls as Cleveland slashed the Tigers, 13 to 4.

Absence of Donie Bush, White Sox manager, banished for three days for a word battle with Umpire Moriarty, inspired the Alabasters and they rose right to the tip-top of the old cellar to check the climbing St. Louis Browns, 5 to 3. Frazier fanned nine Brownies and gave only five hits.

Rain postponed other scheduled games.

GRAPPLING GETS 'EM IN NEW YORK

Big Success of Outdoor Show Proves Public Likes Rassling.

By LES CONKLIN.

NEW YORK, July 7—The wrestling boom seems destined to reach a new peak during the indoor season next winter as a result of the success attending the outdoor show here recently featuring the match between Jim Londos and Ray Steele.

More than 30,000 persons, a new record for a wrestling crowd, flocked to Yankee Stadium to witness the show.

Bigger Than at Garden.

This was an increase of 12,000 over the banner crowds which filled Madison Square Garden at several grappling shows during the past winter.

Not included in the attendance figures were hundreds of spectators perched on the roofs of apartment houses as far as an eighth of a mile away from the ring. The enterprising owners charged two bits apiece for seats on the roof, while the windows of the building were filled with occupants of the apartments.

In making their experiment, the promoters of the show were favored by almost ideal conditions. Although the pachyderms in the ring sweltered from their exertions until they were dripping with prespiration, the spectators were cool and comfortable under the starlit blue canopy above.

Has Boxing On Run.

The success of the affair demonstrated that outdoor wrestling, if the seating arrangements are handled properly, may outstrip open-air boxing in popularity, just as the mat game took the play away from the leather-pushing industry during the past indoor season in many large cities.

Being especially interested in the reaction of the spectators occupying other than ringside seats, the writer sat far back in the grandstand at the Londos-Steele match. Although the seating arrangements naturally were not nearly as compact as at an indoor arena, the spectators apparently were satisfied with their view of the proceedings. They were aroused to a fine pitch of frenzy by the carefully studied antics of the performers, even though the snarling, groaning and grunting of the pained pachyderms was not audible in the stands.

Turns Down Rival Claimants.

Even the occupants of the cheap seats in the distant right field bleachers, who could not possibly have known what was going on except when a grand finale occurred, joined in the yelling along with the other fans. The roar of the crowd easily drowned out the rumble of passing elevated trains.

Despite the success of the experiment, Promoter Jack Curley has no other outdoor shows in prospect for the local ball parks. The fact is that Londos has eliminated all the contenders in the Curley group, and apparently does not intend to take on such standard bearers of the rival wrestling herd as Henri De Glane, Gus Sonnenberg, Jack Sherry, Ed George and Strangler Lewis.

Promoters in other cities, however, are expected to make ambitious plans for outdoor mat shows in other cities as aresult of the success of the experiment here and in Los Angeles, where outdoor shows have drawn tremendous crowds.

INDIAN EASY FOR GREEK GRAPPLER

ATLANTA, July 7—(AP)—Jim Londos, recognized in some states as heavyweight wrestling champion, defeated Tiny Roebuck, Oklahoma Indian, in straight falls here last night.

Londos took the first fall with a leg lock in 50 minutes, and used the same hold for the second in two minutes and nine seconds.

In the semi-final bout, Charley Lehman, Texas, threw Louis LeChene, French-Canadian champion, with an arm lock in 51 minutes, 7 seconds.

PRO TENNIS STARS IN TITLE TOURNEY

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., July 7—Though the majority of 46 players who seek the United States professional tennis championship play today, interest will reach its height when Francis T. Hunter, former Davis cup star, takes the court in the first feature match in the afternoon. Hunter plays Phil Bagby of Kansas City.

The prospects of Vincent Richards keeping his pro title were not regarded as bright with the galaxy of stars battling for his crown. Though Hunter is one of the leading contenders, his chances were also darkened by the fact that "Big Bill" Tilden engages in his first professional championship.

Karol Kozeluh, the Czech, who broke up Vinny's string of title victories in 1929, is in America striving to do it again.

Baby Net Star Enters Play For National Junior Honors

SANTA MONICA, Cal., July 7—Sunbaked Santa Monica, producer of more than its share of champion tennis players, is sending into junior competition this year a 15-year-old youth who in two years collected 41 court titles, including two national championships.

Basing their estimates on his success in adolescent play Jay Cohn's followers rate him as the potential equal of any of his illustrious townsmen, and this incudes the flashing Johnny Doeg, May Sutton Bundy, Tom Bundy and Marjorie "Midge" Gladman.

Young Cohn's early season performances this year in Pacific coast competition against not only boy opponents, but also season players in the men's division, have convinced Coach F. Lee Smith that his protege is ready for his planned invasion of junior tennis.

In the New York state tournament of 1929 Cohn played through without losing a single game until he reached the finals when he dropped three to his fellow Californian, Charley Hunt.

In the finals of the Wisconsin boys' tournament in play with Frankie Parker of Milwaukee, these diminutive court strategists had one rally in which the ball crossed the net 172 times for one point. Cohn won that.

Cohn and Vincent Richards are the only two players ever to have twice held the national boys' title. The former won it in 1929, his first year of major competition, and repeated in 1930.

Rush To Take Profits Starts New York Stocks Downgrade After Early Gain Of 1 To 3 Points

Attack Launched By Bear Forces

Advance Resulting From War Debt Accord is Short-Lived.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7

The rush to take profits on the good news of the war debt accord gave bears their opportunity in today's stock market.

An initial upturn of 1 to 3 points was quickly lost under pressure of profit taking sales, and heavy short selling added momentum to the decline, giving the market one of the sharpest setbacks of the year. Losses of 2 to nearly 10 points were numerous at the finish. Trading speeded up in the last hour, and the day's turnover was around three million shares.

Bears pointed to reports of illiquid position of some of the German private banks as a bear argument, but they were evidently more concerned about it than German financial quarters, for leading stocks on the Berlin boerse closed several points higher. German bonds were also sold in this market.

In stocks, losses of about 3 to 8 points were recorded by such issues as Us. S. Steel, American Telephone, American Can, Bethlehem Steel, Wetinghouse Electric, Atchison, Allied Chemical, New York Central, Johns Manville and Southern Pacific, declines of 2 points or so were recorded by General Electric, Radio, International Telephone, Standard of N. J., and others. Case, a recent favorite of a bull group, lost nearly 10 points. Auburn tumbled 10.

"Selling on the good news" is an old custom in Wall street, especially when the news had been expected for some time. Traders reason that once a favorable development has been accomplished it is no longer a stimulating influence on the market, and profits should be taken. The market now faces the publication of second quarter earnings statements, which may cause some irregularity during the rest of July. It is felt, nevertheless, that several corporations which have considered divided reductions will decide to maintain the current rates at the coming quarterly meetings, deferring changes until some measure of the autumn trade upturn can be taken.

Important banking quarters explained that the reaction of the market should by no means be interpreted as reflecting any cooling of enthusiasm over the debt moratorium. Wall street feels that the stage has been set for business recovery, although it may be slow. Foreign banking difficulties continue to come to light, but the debt holiday will facilitate taking care of such situations.

Today it was reported that a $20,000,000 credit from the bank for international settlements had ameliorated the situation in Hungary, where the Hungarian general credit bank had been embarrassed by inability to secure a prolongation of credits from Amsterdam.

Although the reichsbank arranged for the use of the $50,000,000 credit extended by the international acceptance bank of New York group, further extensions may be necessary later. While the $100,000,000 credit extended by the federal reserve in co-operation with European central banks was announced as expiring July 16, it is understood that the credit has been made available to a considerable evtent by the discounting of 90-days bills, so that it will not wholly mature for some time. It is understood that the reichsbank must give aid to sereval banking institutions in Germany of moderate size, but important difficulties are not expected. Credit remains stringent in Berlin, with call money quoted from 8 to 10 per cent, and foreign withdrawals have not wholly ceased, although immediate cessation was scarcely to have been expected.

The stocks ran into quick profit taking today after a short-lived rally at the opening based on settlement of the debt negotiations. Trading was rather active.

U. S. Steel, after rising a point, sold two under the Monday close. Case and Columbian Carbon dropped 4 net and there were declines of 1 to 1¾ points in McKeesport, Southern Railway, Missouri Pacific, Allied Chemical, American Can, American Telephone, Bethlehem and New York Central. National Biscuit went to a new low. Auburn, which had been 4½ points higher, dropped 7 net.

Call money renewed at 1½ per cent.

Stocks pushed up strongly in the initial dealings today in response to the news of a final Franco-American was debt accord.

The rally lacked the vigor of some of the upswings which greeted the early announcements of President Hoover's p.an a fortnight and more ago, and after the frist few minutes, the advance attracted profit-taking.

Gains of 1 to 4 points were somewhat reduced by the end of the first half hour. The trend of this market was similar to that in London, where a strong advance was followed by profit taking. The problem of checking withdrawals of foreign balances still hung over the Berlin market, and advances there were restricted.

U. S. Steel and American Can pushed up a point, then reacted to show small fractional losses. An upturn of 1½ points in American Telephone was also lost. General Motors rose ⅝ of a point, and held firmly.

Issues making extreme gains of 1 to 2 points in the initial trading included a wide assortment of prominent shares. Corn Products, Eastman, Auburn and International Business Machines gained 2 to 4.

Foreign exchanges were quickly buoyed by the debt accord. Sterling cables opened at $4.86 11-16, up ⅛, and the German mark rallied more than a point.

Prices on Wheat Average Lower

Gains Lost After Spurt Based on Debt Moratorium Accord.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 7

Swaying with the stock market, wheat averaged lower late today, relinquishing gains that resulted from a spurt of buying consequent on the war debt accord. Traders paid little attention to indications of a moderate export business in North American wheat. All deliveries of wheat sold at within a fraction of the lowest figures of the season.

Wheat closed irregular at ⅜c decline to ⅜c advance, July, 55⅝@¾c; December, 59⅞@60c. Corn ½c off to ¾c up, July, 60@60¼c; December, 48⅛@¼c. Oats, ⅛ to ¼c down, and provisions varying from 10c setback to an equal gain.

Fractional upturns in grain prices early today followed announcement that the war debt moratorium had been accepted by France. Trade was of only fair volume, and profit taking sales checked advances. Opening ½@¾ cents up, wheat later held near to the initial limits. Corn started ¼@⅜c higher and afterward rose a little further.

Leading traders expressed opinions that the grain market effect of France's action had almost completely lost because of repeated shifts back and forward beforehand in traders expectations. Except for a transient small increase of buying at the start, the influence of the moratorium news quickly disappeared, and in the narrow price fluctuations that ensued the apparent factors were developments regarding the domestic winter wheat movement, spring wheat crop conditions, and export demand, some of the selling on advances was ascribed to belief by many traders that reactions were to be looked for after goods news was out.

A bearish construction was placed on an estimate by a trade authority that the amount of wheat fed to livestock in the season ended June 30 was only 65,000,000 to 70,000,000 more than the preceding season, reports current as to prospective export demand were also a handicap to bulls. European millers and merchants were asserted to be expecting keen competition by producing countries during the coming month, and that with present supplies excessive purchases were being limited to immediate needs. Corn and oats were governed mainly by the course of wheat.

Provisions averaged a little higher with grains.

Relative strength of July was a feature of the corn market. Offerings of July was scarce and reports persistent that a large concentrated speculative holding existed, likelihood of further hot weather scares during late July and early August was talked of. Chicago arrivals of corn totaled but 32 cars, against 162 a week ago.

July corn continued to act tight and went to around 5 cents over the September today, gaining fractionally on the deferred delivery. Trade in the aggregate was not large, and the market easily influenced, the December easing rather sharply after an early bulge and sold at a new low on the present downturn with buying against bids checking the decline. Weather conditions over the belt were generally favorable. Country offerings to arrive were small and shipping demand slow.

NEW YORK, July 7

COTTON—An opening advance on the overnight news from Paris and relatively firm Liverpool cables, was followed by declines in cotton today under realizing or liquidation by recent buyers and scattered selling promoted by the recent rains in the eastern and central belts and weakness in the stock market.

After selling up to 10.50 early, October contracts broke to 10.30 during the afternoon or about $2.00 per bale from the high point of the morning. The market generally showed net losses of 19 to 22 points and was holding within 4 or 5 points of the lowest around 2 o'clock.

Cotton opened steady, 14 to 21 points higher with October selling up to 10.50 in response to relatively steady cables, the agreement reached in Paris on the debt proposals, trade buying and covering.

Trading was fairly active. October reacted to 10.36, with the general list selling off from 9 to 14 points from the best by the end of the first half hour when July was ruling around 10.03 and December 10.59.

NEW YORK CURB REVIEW.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7

The curb market suffered a substantial reaction today on profit-taking and short selling that followed announcement of the debt agreement. Net losses in many active favorites ranged from 1 to 5 points. Electric Bond and Share was off about 3.

Stocks listed on the curb exchange reacted today as traders took profits on the theory that with the debt settlement out of the way there was nothing immediately in sight to stimulate a further rise.

The market opened with a flourish of strength, especially in the utilities, but quickly slipped downward under the weight of realizing sales. Trading was more active than in recent sessions; nevertheless the volume shrank when the first flurry of profit taking had been disposed of.

Although declines were the rule, losses in most instances were moderate. Electric Bond & Share, which had been strongly supported on the rise, yielded a couple of points and there was a larger dip in American Gas & Electric. Brazilian Traction and American & Foreign Power warrants were firm.

Woolworth, Ltd., was a point of strength in the specialties, reaching into new high ground. Deere jumped a point at the opening and then settled back. High priced shares were somewhat heavy, but those in the lower brackets were mostly steady.

Further price cuts made the oils rather easy, although the group was inactive. Cities Service had a slight dip and Standard of Indiana sagged slightly. Vacuum was firm.

Call money renewed on the curb at 2 per cent.

NEW YORK BOND REVIEW.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7

After rising generally in the forenoon today the bond market became irregular today and closing prices were usually lower.

The reversal in trend was most apparent among the railroad obligations. Net losses of 1 point or more were scored by Chicago and northwestern 4¾s of 1949, St. Paul 5s of 2000, Missouri Pacific series F 5s, and St. Louis San Francisco 4½s of 1978. These active issues frequently fluctuate sharply but fractional losses were the rule among many of the higher grade issues.

The bond market responded to the agreement on the intergovernmental debts moratorium today with a general price advance and increased activity.

Higher prices were most apparent in foreign obligations but the gains were general among corporate domestic loans also. Issues of the United States government declined irregularly on a moderate turnover.

German 5½s of 1965 were buoyant at the opening and sales of them during the first hour approximated $250,000 par value. This fast pace was checked, however, and a settling of prices developed. German 7s, German Central Agricultural Bank 6s of October 1960, San Paulo 7s of 1940, Australian 5s of 1957, Brazilian 6½s of 1926-57, Colombian 6s of October, 1961, Chilean 6s of 1960 and French 7s moved ahead.

Stock privilege obligations were generally higher on the early sales in sympathy with the strength in stocks but they lost some of their gains subsequently.

The advance extended to the railroads and public utilities. Such bonds as Atchison general 4s, Great Northern series E 4½s, St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s of 1978, Union Pacific 4½s of 1950 were higher. Postal Telegraph 5s, Columbia Gas & Electric 5s of May, 1952, and Kansas Gas & Electric 4½s shared in the advance also. The upturn in the utilities was less marked than in the rails. Industrial loans were less active than either and lacked a definite trend.

The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western and the New York, Lackawanna & Western have filed a supplemental application with the interstate commerce commission to sell $13,639,000 of first mortgage and refunding series A bonds due in 1973. The applicants seek to reduce the interest rate from 5 to not less than 4 nor more than 4½ per cent.

The Louisville & Nashville has asked the commission for authority to authenticate and deliver $8,881,000 of first refunding mortgage bonds to be held in the treasury and to be sold when market conditions are more favorable.

SHEEP—Fat lambs were in fairly good demand today but buyers claimed local prices were out of line with those at some eastern points, as a result the market being on a steady to 25c lower basis; there was fairly good competition on feeding lambs at steady to stronger levels; aged sheep nominally unchanged.

CLOSE: Sheep receipts, 12,000; opening sales fat lambs steady to 25c lower than Monday's average; early top $7 on choice clippers and natives; holding best western skins higher; aged sheep scarce, unchanged; feeding lambs strong, top, $5.35.

CHICAGO, July 7

Light and medium weight hogs opened the day's trading at fully steady prices, ranging from $7.35 to $7.40 for choice 170 to 220-lb. weights. Bids of $7.45 for the best 200-lb. lights were rejected. Shippers and packers found that there were few choice grades present of any weight, but that there was a wealth of unfinished stuff, including 8,000 noldovers from Monday. The run of 17,000 at Chicago today was smaller by 2,000 than last Tuesday's supply and the total for the two days of this week stands at 48,900, 61,000 at the same time a week ago.

The usual small Tuesday run of cattle, estimated at 4,500 head, found buyers enough to promise a fully steady trade, after the markdowns of Monday. All classes of steers were popular and yearlings of choice quality held at $8.00 to $8.50 had scarcely more inquiry than plain heavy steers, which were relatively scarce. She stock shared this good demand as there appeared to be too few to go around in the opening market. Packers had no cattle on direct selling.

No startling advance in lambs was in sight today. The offerings of 11,000 was more liberal than trade requirements, in view of the rather sluggish outlet for the dressed product. Several of the outside markets, noticeably Omaha and Cincinnati, had large runs today, which tended to distract buyers from the local market.

GRAIN EXPORTS

WASHINGTON, July 7—(AP) — Grain exports last week from the United States amounted to 2,236,000 bushels against 1,863,000 bushels the previous week.

Commerce department figures today gave the following comparisons between last week's exports and those of the week before:

Wheat 1,998,000 bushels against 1,739,000; barley 217,000 against 96,000; corn 18,000 against 25,000; oats 3,000 against 3,000. No reports of rye were reported for either week.

Canadian gains exported last week from United States Atlantic ports amounted to 1,699,00 bushels against 912,000 bushels the week before, while last week's exports of North American wheat flour were 80,000 barrels against 225,000 barrels.

GRAIN NOTES

CHICAGO, July 7—(AP)—Congestion is becoming more in evidence in July corn with the nearby delivery regarded as controlled largely by a leading local professional. There was some buying of July yesterday against sales of the deferred deliveries. The failure of the country to sell grain freely of late despite the large premium over the September is attracting some attention. Local grain traders who were out in the country over the holiday reported that the new crop looked to be in excellent condition in the parts of Indiana, Illinois and Iowa City they visited. At the low point yesterday December corn was of 7⅜ cents from the high of a week ago, which some operators thought sufficient for the time being.

For some years past the wheat trade has paid little attention to statistics and a department of agriculture report suggesting a crop in the northern hemisphere of 3,061,000,000 bushels this season, exclusive of Russian and China, compared with 3,287,000,000 bushels last year fell flat as a market influence.

Gretna Man Makes Mistake of Speeding Past Sheriff's Car

Speeding past the state sheriff isn't a good thing, in the opinion of State Sheriff Michael Endres and he thinks that Adolph Dietz of Gretna will agree with him.

A man giving his man as Dietz was arrested early Tuesday morning by Endres between Gretna and Ashland after a wild chase. Endres said, whidle he was returning to Lincoln from Omaha.

Endres claims the man was driving a truck at about 65 miles an hour and that when stopped, had no license on the rear of his truck nor his truck certification.

He ordered the man to appear in County court at Papillion at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, to face charges of speeding and driving with an improper license.

At Muny—Fraley Post vs. Skelly Oils.

At Thirty-first and W—Banks & Trusts vs. Wendelin Bakers.

Junior Chamber, one of the teams tied for second, tussles with the cellar champions, Gooch's and looks considerably stronger than the Millers. Chamber added Roland Locke, fleet outfielder, to its roster two weeks ago and appears to be a greatly improved nine. Skelly Oils and Fraley Post, sixth and seventh place teams, respectively, meet at Muny in what should be a close battle, while a part of the four-way deadlock is due to be broken when the Banks and Wendelin meet at Peter Pan in another battle which should be close.

Nerves Bad After Baby Came

"I just had to do Something"

MY nerves were so bad I just had to do something. I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine again and am going to take it till I get good and strong.

"I sure recommend it to all of my friends and relations."

This hopeful letter came to us from Mrs. James H. Davis, Jr., of 913½ East Indianola Avenue, Youngstown, Ohio.

98 out of a 100 women report benefit. If you are sick and want to be well—why don't you try taking this medicine for a few weeks?

BERLIN TO AID DEBT SOLUTION

Dietrich Pledges Co-Operation to Work Out Technical Issues.

People are Warned to Adhere to Course of Severe Economy.

BERLIN, July 7—(AP)— Hermann Dietrich, minister of finance, in a talk with newspaper correspondents today, pledged Germany to work with the other nations in a spirit of friendly co-operation toward the settlement of technical points left over from the Franco-American accord. He painted an optimistic picture of Germany's position with regard to short term credits and warned the German people to adhere to a course of severe economy.

"The Paris accord left several points, chiefly of a technical nature, open," the finance minister said. "So far as Germany is concerned, we conceive it to be our duty to co-operate in solving these questions in a spirit of friendly co-operation.

"Germany hopes a rebirth of confidence and reapproachment between France and Germany may come from it. The spirit of the Hoover plan is security for the fact that these negotiations will be conducted toward the achievement of a common goal.

To Show Gratitude.

"By the manner in which these negotiations will be conducted, all nations will best be able to demonstrate to President Hoover and the American people their gratitude for their high minded project which is calculated to call a halt to the retrogression of the world's economy and to call forth a new upwar movement."

Herr Dietrich stated Germany's first path was to retrieve the losses caused by draining of her reserves.

As a matter of fact, Germany's economy is not nearly so bad as some people would have it, he indicated.

"That the foundations of Germany's economy are sound," Herr Dietrich said, "May be judged by the fact that it withstood such an unprecedented drain so long without sustaining more and heavier breakdowns. It is doubtful whether the economy of other countries would have fared better under like conditions."

WORLD REVIVAL IN TRADE SEEN

Improvement Predicted As Result of Moratorium on Debts.

European Gain Noticeable; Better Outlook In Asia and S. A.

WASHINGTON, July 7—(AP)—Improved sentiment in business circles as a result of the debt moratorium prospects were reported by the commerce department today in its weekly review of world conditions.

The improvement was especially noticeable in European countries, while the better outlook in South America and Asia reported by trade commissioners during the last two weeks continued.

"Several countries report improved sentiment as a result of the likelihood of a debt moratorium and actual business has been stimulated in several regions," the department said, adding:

"In the United Kingdom, after notable dullness in the first half of June, considerable optimism developed and activity in cotton textiles improved. The British embargo on livestock imports from the Irish Free State owing to foot and mouth disease in Northern Ireland has affected the industry.

"Hopeful indicators have appeared in Italy, including lower unemployment, a budget surplus during May and a continued reduction of the unfavorable trade balance, in addition to the effect of the probable moratorium.

"In Hungary domestic textiles improved and crops were favorable, although the financial situation remains difficult.

"Seasonal improvement continued in Szechoslovakia during June.

"A further recession has occured in Egypt owing to adverse developments in cotton.

"Prospects of a very small wheat crop in Canada has depressed conditions in the prairie provinces. Conditions otherwise were practically unchanged.

"The situation in Newfoundland is not satisfactory, except for active paper production.

"Trade conditions in South America improved during June, especialy with the debt moratorium proposal toward the end of the month."

Hit-Run Driver Kills Two Girls

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y., July 7—(AP)—A speeding automobile jumped the curb in Morrisville last night, killed two little sisters, then careened down the sidewalk for 200 yards, knocking down posts, before the driver got it stopped. He leaped out and fled.

Villagers and state police are hunting the driver. Plattsburgh police arrested Alphonse Messier, sought since Sunday night on a charge of reckless driving in the same machine. Messier denied he drove the machine last night. Troopers believe the machine belongs to a rum runner.

The two girls killed were Ilene Lucia, 6, and Marie Lucia, 3.

POPULATION OF CITIES GROWING

Greater London Reports 8,000,000; New York Nearly 7,000,000.

Berlin Has 4,296,000; Chicago and Paris Next in Size.

NEW YORK, July 7—(AP)—The population race of the world's great cities continues at a staggering pace

London, which has just counted its metropolitan population at more than 8,000,000, retains its world lead, with New York not far behind for the city proper, although far ahead on the basis of its own metropolitan area.

Berlin remains in third place, Chicago is fourth and Paris fifth, although the metropolitan population of the French capital is larger than that of Chicago

Greater London, 8 202 813
New York City, 6,981,915
Berlin, 4,296 000.
Chicago, 3,376,438
Paris (within walls) 2 871 039

While the cities themselves have added hundreds of thousands of inhabitants in last decade even more startling is the growth of the metropolitan areas For instance, Chicago suburbs are growing at a rate far higher than that of the city proper

Paris within the walls counts only 2,871 039, but the population outside of the fortifications numbers 2,016,425 or a total of 4,887,464 for the metropolitan district

New York City, restricted to the population of the five boroughs of Manhattan, Queens, Brooklyn, Richmond and the Bronx, trembled on the verge of 7 000,000 in the 1930 census count. The New York metropolitan area, however, including portions of New Jersey and Connecticut and corresponding more nearly to what is known as Greater London, numbers 11 000,000 souls.

City In Three States.

Across the Hudson from New York and in closer communion with the heart of the city than some of the outlying territory of the five boroughs, lies a network of New Jersey communities with a population of more than 2,000,000, while Long Island, outside of the city limits, and Westchester county to the north of the Bronx, and the shore territory up into Connecticut, are the homes of hundreds of thousands of commuters New York City, in fact, is a metropolis in three states.

Chicago, likewise, is a city in three states—Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin. The great steel towns of Gary, Hammond and Michigan City are suburban outshoots of the midwestern metropolis, while the north shore suburbs string up to the Wisconsin line

Greater London is composed of the county of London, which is comparable to New York's five boroughs, plus the "outer ring" of cities and counties within the metropolitan police district The county of London now has 4,396 821 inhabitants against 4,484,523 in the last census but the entire metropolitan district increased 822,619 in the last decade.

Lloyd Asks Rehearing Of Case Accusing Him Pirating Witwer Story

LOS ANGELES Cal, July 7—(I N S)—United States District Judge George Cosgrave today had under submission the motion of Harold Lloyd, screen star, for a rehearing of the suit recently won by the estate of the late Harry C Witwer writer, over the alleged 'lifting" of the plot for "The Freshman," a Lloyd comedy.

Through his attorneys Lloyd announced that if a new trial were denied he would take his appeal to a higher court.

Representative of the Witwer estate which won a considerable judgment from the lower courts, charged that the plot for "The Freshman" was taken from one of Witwer's stories, "The Emancipation of Rodney."

POST AND GATTY RETURN TO N. Y.

World Fliers to Be are Guests at Aviation Banquet Tonight.

NEW YORK, July 7—(AP)— Wiley Post and Harold Gatty returned by train this morning from Washington and after a hasty breakfast went back to bed to rest after the rigors of their reception in the capital where they were congratulated on their world flight by President Hoover.

Their engagements today included a call on the Australian consul. Gatty being a Tasmanian Tonight they will be guests of honor at a banquet given by the Aeronautical chamber of commerce of America where they will receive the greetings of leaders of the aviation industry.

Slip Out of Washington

WASHINGTON, July 8—(AP)—Deciding against an early morning flight the world fliers, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty slipped out of Washington unnoticed by train at 1 o'clock this morning for New York

There was no explanation for the hurried departure and officials at Hoover field, where the aviators and their wives were to have taken off in a transport plane at 7 a m, were unaware of the change in plans until just before plane time

Attaches of the Willard hotel, where the fliers stayed after their round of receptions yesterday, said Post and Gatty ordered a meal around midnight and left soon afterward for the depot.

Unlike Lindbergh they discovered a way to escape newspapermen and photographers early in their hero-worshipping period

Rockefeller Will Be 92 Wednesday; Again Business to Be First

NEW YORK, July 7—(AP)—John D Rockefeller, emperor of oil, will be 92 tomorrow and his birthday schedule will observe the old adage "Business before pleasure"

Arising early, the elderly capitalist is expected to spend an hour or so in the forenoon at work with a secretary.

Despite his age Mr. Rockefeller's health was described by his representatives as "excellent." Although his labors of former years are now in large part transferred to other shoulders, he likes to keep in touch with the multitudinous affairs of the Rockefeller interests

If the weather is fine, his representatives said, he'll probably play a round of golf and take his daily motor ride through his far - flung estate at Pocantico hills. In the evening there will be a birthday dinner for just the members of his family, including his son, John D. Rockefeller, jr, and the grandchildren.

Try to Beat Post-Gatty Mark

An attempt to replace the Stars and Stripes by the tri-color of France in 'round-the-world flying records will be made when Joseph Lebrix (left) and Marcel Doret, noted French fliers, take off from Paris for Tokio on the first leg of what they hope will be a record smashing 'round world hop They hope to reach Tokio in one jump fly the Pacific to San Francisco next, cross the American continent in one hop to New York and then follow the Lindbergh trail to Paris.

Secretary Mellon At 76 Wins Triumph In Diplomacy; Carried Paris Debt Burden

Completion of Agreement Frees Financier From Diplomatic Duties to Resume Vacation After Tense International Work.

BY WM. L. BEALE.

WASHINGTON, July 7—(AP)—A financial man who turned diplomat at 76 to work for a world debt holiday today was free for his vacation interrupted by the most tense international negotiations of recent years

Andrew W. Mellon has handled more millions in private business and more billions in his ten years as secretary of the treasury than the average imagination can conceive

But official Washington was worried about the health of the venerable cabinet official as the terrific strain of the Paris negotiations continued day by day with a pressure that was putting a mark on much younger men

Mellon reached Paris June 25 after numerous conferences with the British government. From that day he has been almost constantly in conferences that often ran well past midnight, and between times, talking to Washington on the trans-Atlantic telephone

World financial markets, vibrating to each report from the negotiations, added to the strain of America's chief representative.

From Paris came reports of "admiration" for Mellon's "continued evidence of wiry strength."

His Washington friends shared this admiration and had an explanation for it. They said Mellon, calm and unexcitable, probably did less talking and more listening than any other conferee. At least, that's the way he does business at home.

Long Day No Novelty.

A long day is no novelty to the treasury chief, whose years apparently have scarcely slowed his capacity for work. His usual quitting time is 6 o'clock, or an hour and a half after government offices officially close.

In the morning, if the day is fair, he walks from his home, a slim, quiet figure attracting little attention on the capital's streets

Mellon talks slowly and his occasional remarks must have received close attention from French officials awaiting translation by an embassy attache

The opinion held of him by many Americans seemed to spread abroad during the negotiations, for from a German newspaper came the description: "He is immune from the lure of honors for he is beyond human vanities They cannot confuse nor bulldoze him, for this 76-year old American is tough as Yankee chewing gum, used to working 12 hours a day and is even fresher at night than in the daytime"

AFTER SLAYER OF ZIMMERMAN

Prosecutor Wants Action In Case of Former Nebraskan.

RIVERSIDE, Cal, July 7—(AP)—Saying he was dissatisfied with progress in investigation of the killing of Frank Zimmerman, San Jacinto rancher, formerly of Beatrice, Neb, District Attorney Earl Redwine has called upon Deputy Ray Kessel of the state criminal investigation and identification bureau to take charge of the case

The inquiry has been in charge of Sheriff Carl Rayburn's staff No arrests have been made and no progress has been reported in the search for Frank Meeker, whose name figured in last Friday's inquest at Hemet

R C Johnson the slain man's son-in-law, testified Zimmerman "told me if he were found dead, the authorities should begin looking for Meeker"

Zimmerman was found beaten to death June 30 in the garage of his San Jaacinto home A month ago he survived a purported poison plot.

1,200 AUTOS GO THROUGH SAFETY LANE ON MONDAY

The second week of the Safety Lane test opened Monday with 1,200 automobiles being inspected at the station located between Thirteenth and Fourteenth on R street The tests are being conducted every day this week, except Saturday, until 8 o'clock in the evening and the drivers are being asked to present their driver's license.

The dealers of the city are furnishing the attendants at the station during the day and the garages and service stations supply the men for the evening The Lincoln Automobile club, sponsor of the test, reported that fifty per cent of the cars that fail to receive he approval in the first test return for inspection after corrections have been made.

The firms furnishing men Monday and Tuesday are Scientific Brake Co Safety Service Clinic, Chevalier One-Stop, DuTeau Chevrolet, Roehl-Nash Co, Lord Auto Co, O'Shea Motor Co, Rogers Motor Co Markel Auto Co., Lincoln Buick Co. Johnson-Strom, White Motors Buds Motor Co, Beck Tire Co, General Automotive, Lincoln Wheel and Brake Co, Keller Garage, Boys Garage, Lincoln Super Service Packard Motor Co, and Standard Auto Co.

WILL AWARD TRIPS AIRCRAFT CONTEST

Johnson Announces Prizes for Best Model Planes to Be Shown Here July 21.

Trips to the aircraft factories and airports at Detroit, and two days at the national air races at Cleveland, with all expenses paid, are the prizes to be awarded to the four boys who build the best model airplanes submitted in the contests that are being held in connection with the National Air Tour, scheduled to arrive in Lincoln, July 21 The contest in Lincoln is under the direction of Earl Johnson, director of recreation Several boys already have entered and others are expected to submit models by the time the tour fliers arrive, Mr. Johnson says.

According to Director Johnson, one model will be chosen in each locality. These in turn will compete in the sectional contest, the tour territory having been divided into four divisions. The winners in these competitions will be the ones who will take the trips to Detroit as the grand prizes.

William B. Stout, president of the Stout engineering laboratories at Dearborn, Mich, is the national judge of the contest. He says "the making of model airplanes is perhaps the best short cut to the understanding of flight Many of the airplane designers of the present day are graduates of model building, as well as technical schools Encouragement of model building among high school boys is one of the most important things for the future of aviation now being done—it makes no difference whether it be flying models, or scale models of flying planes of large size The work gives a viewpoint not to be had by any other method of aircraft study"

Mr. Stout is travelling with the national tour, and will select the model entered in the contest here, that is to compete in the national competition

COEN WILL HEAD NATIONAL ELKS

Rupp Hits Back at Those Who Say "We are Nothing But a Bunch of 'Sweet Adeliners"

SEATTLE, July 7—(AP)—The only avowed candidate for the honor John R Coen of Sterling, Colo, was assured of election here today as grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks

More than 10 000 persons attended the meeting last night formally opening the sixty-seventh national convention of the order. Members were welcomed by Gov. Roland H. Hartley and Mayor Frank Edwards, and the keynote address was delivered by Lawrence H. Rupp, Altentown, Pa, retiring exalted ruler.

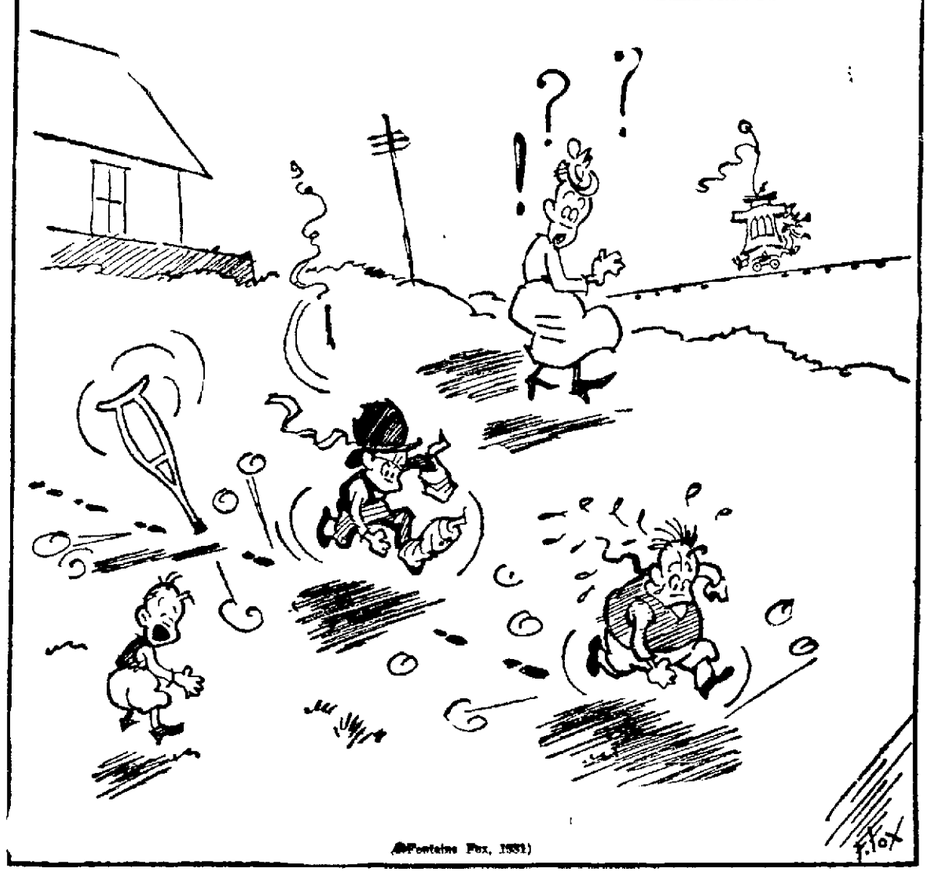

After outlining the achievements of Elks in Christmas funds in aiding crippled children and the aged, in backing the Salvation Army during the war and in building the first reconstruction hospital after the war, Rupp said:

'They say we are nothing but a bunch of 'Sweet Adeliners' Well, you will probably hear 'Sweet Adeline' sung before this convention is over. We pity those austere men who cannot sing and play"

Rupp said a need of brotherhood after the Civil war inspired the organization of the Elks He said it was a period when there was "no League of Nations no prohibition, and no Al Capone, but there was a depression that had mortgaged souls"

Atantic Civt, Birmingham, Ala, are leading bidders for the next convention.
